'Janet' Breaks Up In Mexico

Vicious Storm Causes Deaths Of 350 To 400

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 29 (AP) — Hurricane Janet, the season's most vicious tropical storm, is breaking up in the Mexican mountains after taking a toll of 350 to 400 lives. There were reports 150 were found dead in the ruins of Chetumal, on the Yucatan peninsula.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in New Orleans announced the death of the big blow late this afternoon, in what it called its last advisory on the storm.

Janet moved inland over the Mexican coast about noon today, skirting the barricaded city of Veracruz. The only populated place in the path of its 120-mile-an hour winds was the fishing village of Nautla, 75 miles north of Veracruz.

Rain Threatens Tampico

Reports from the village of 1,500 ceased abruptly at 1 p.m. when the weather station was closed because of rising water and a 60-mile-an-hour wind.

Although the winds in this 10th hurricane of the year seemed unlikely to cause any further great loss of life, its rains remained a serious threat to Tampico, deeply flooded by two previous hurricanes this month.

The New Orleans advisory warned that torrential rains will occur in the mountains from Veracruz to Ciudad Victoria, 135 miles northwest of Tampico and nearly 400 miles northwest of Veracruz.

Red Cross On Job

In Washington, meanwhile, the American Red Cross announced it is preparing to fly food supplies into the Tampico area as soon as weather conditions permit. Ten planeloads of clothing and other supplies donated by Texas organizations, already have been distributed in the city.

An outbreak of typhoid was reported yesterday in the waterlogged oil port of 110,000.

Veracruz escaped the main force of the blow, but it was deluged with 16 inches of rain in the 12 hours following the first approach of Janet's winds. An estimated 6,000 of the city's 120,000 population were driven from their homes. In some sections the water was three feet deep as high tides and surf added to the heavy rainfall.

Demos Promise Not To Make Hay Of Ike's Illness

STONEWALL, Tex., Sept. 29 (AP)—Democratic congressional chieftains today promised they will not make political hay of President Eisenhower's illness in the session starting in January.

But Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn firmly pledged themselves to a congressional program which they hope will put a Democrat in the White House next year.

Adlai Stevenson, titular head of the party, sat nearby on the shady lawn of Johnson's ranch home and nodded approval as Johnson and Rayburn talked to reporters.

All three Democratic leaders asserted there was no political significance in the overnight visit with Johnson. All three said they had not met to plot any strategy to take advantage of the President's illness.

Johnson especially underlined his sympathy with the President. The Texas lawmaker suffered a similar heart attack in July. Trim and tanned, he looked fit today and he was confident he would be able to take over the active Senate leadership in January.

This depends finally on what the doctors say about his condition at the time.

"There will be no change in congressional tactics as a result of Mr. Eisenhower's illness or this meeting," he said, emphasizing that he had invited Stevenson in August for a purely social call.

Rayburn was invited to join them following Stevenson's lecture last night at the University of Texas.

Johnson also made it clear that Stevenson's visit was in no sense a personal political endorsement of Stevenson.

Troops To Pull Back

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29 (AP)—An Egyptian spokesman announced tonight Egyptian and Israeli troops will withdraw from the El Auja demilitarized zone of Palestine tomorrow.

Mother Trying To Save Her Son Killed By Truck

COATESVILLE, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP)—A mother was killed near West Grove today when she attempted to pull her son from the path of a tractor-trailer truck.

State Police said the truck struck Mrs. Dave Stanley, 41, and her son, Ralph, 4, just as the woman reached the child near the center of the road.

The child was first taken to Coatesville Hospital, then transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital, Lancaster. He was reported in serious condition with head and body injuries. The mother was pronounced dead at West Grove Community Hospital.

'Get Well, Ike' Drive Planned

DENVER, Sept. 29 (AP)—Denver became the headquarters today of a "Get Well, Ike" campaign—a drive expected to unloose a flood of birthday greetings to the ill President Eisenhower and contributions to the National Heart Assn.

Eisenhower, who suffered a heart attack Saturday, will be 65 on Oct. 14.

The campaign was touched off by an appeal in the Chicago Daily News for donations and messages as a special birthday greeting for the President.

The drive was launched although the White House was asked for, and refused, advance approval.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said this was on the basis that the President and the White House do not engage in fund-raising activities, regardless of worthiness of the cause, except in such official instances as Red Cross money campaigns.

The President is honorary chairman of the Red Cross.

Hagerty also mentioned that the President has urged support of Community Chest appeals and contributions to relief of recent New England flood victims.

France Rejects Accord At Price Of Atlantic Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. Sept. 29 (AP)—Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France today rejected Russian suggestions for an East-West accord based on dissolution of the Atlantic pact and departure of U. S. troops from Europe.

With Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov listening impassively as usual, Pinay told the U. N. Assembly that France will not recognize the Communist East German regime. He called instead for a unlted Germany protected by the Atlantic pact and the Paris agreements and subject to controlled military limitations.

Reds Given Warning

Pinay warned the Communists to stop stirring up trouble in North Africa. He asked if they sought to open a new front there. He did not mention Algeria, which Pinay regards as a domestic problem. He reported the agreement between France and Tunis and said France is working to constitute a Moroccan government.

The French minister was emphatic in his views on the Atlantic pact. He said that an authentic easing of tension in the "True spirit of Geneva" bases coexistence, for which the Russians are pleading, on "tolerance."

"If states can only coexist in a climate of mutual tolerance, peoples can only find peace in the certainty of their own security," Pinay said.

Pact Provides Guarantees

"For the West, and more particularly for France, there is no real security outside the Atlantic organization. By its very nature, it can have a strictly defensive character, and thus provides the Soviet Union with the perfectly legitimate guarantees which the latter has a right to demand. There can be no question of substituting for these real guarantees offered by the Atlantic organization abstract guarantees of the Locarno type, which in the recent past have proved illusory."

Peron Remains Aboard Gunboat

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 29 (AP) — Argentina's fallen dictator, Juan D. Peron, remained in exile today—but within sight of the city he once held in an iron grip.

He still was aboard a Paraguayan gunboat in the outer harbor of Buenos Aires and under protection of Paraguayan authorities 10 days after a revolution drove him from the presidential palace.

Reports that he had managed to slip off the armed riverboat and catch a plane to Spain spread through the capital. But they were denied promptly by Foreign Minister Mario Amedeo and by Paraguayan Ambassador Juan R. Chaves. The Spanish Embassy added that the Madrid government had not granted Peron asylum and that it knew nothing of his traveling to Spain.

A Spanish Foreign Ministry spokesman in Madrid said he knew nothing of any request by Peron for asylum in Spain.

An official at the Argentine Embassy in Madrid said that if Peron does ask Spain for asylum "there is no legal reason for Spain to refuse it."

Amedeo and Chaves said negotiations concerning Peron's future continue, but neither cleared up the mystery of why he is being kept waiting aboard the little warship, the Paraguay, anchored alongside its sister ship, the Humaita.

Conflicting Stories Swirl Around Baby's Kidnaper

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29 (AP) — Baby Robert Marcus cooed in his own crib today at last, while the law and the medics combined forces to deal with the woman who kidnaped him two days after birth and then returned him.

Mrs. Betty Jean Benedicto, 27, the confessed kidnaper, spent the day in the psychiatric ward of San Francisco Hospital.

Conflicting stories swirled around her. She is—or isn't and couldn't be—pregnant herself; she will or won't go on a hunger strike; she would or wouldn't endure the ordeal of police questioning.

The district attorney's office moved steadily ahead with plans to prosecute the blonde wife of a Stockton, Calif., Filipino lodging house keeper. She stole the 2-day-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Sanford Marcus on Sept. 19, from the nursery crib of Mt. Zion Hospital, kept him 10 days and then in an emotional burst of remorse, returned him early yesterday to a Stockton church just as police were closing in.

Police rebooked her today on a charge of straight kidnaping, carrying a 25-year penalty. Dist Atty. Thomas Lynch and aides questioned her at the hospital. Once she burst out sobbingly to newsmen:

"I wish the police officers would hurry up, take me to court and punish me!"

She is scheduled for Municipal Court arraignment tomorrow.

The woman caused a mild sensation today by telling hospital officials she believed she was pregnant herelf. Earlier she told police she took the Marcus baby because she couldn't have one of her own.

Benson's Daughter Married To Doctor

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—In a ceremony performed by her father, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's daughter Barbara, 21, was married today to Dr. Robert Harris Walker, 33, of Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

The wedding was performed in the Salt Lake Temple of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church. Benson is a member of the church's Council of Twelve Apostles.

The couple will live in Calgary where Walker practices medicine.

Nixon Asserts Eisenhower's Policies Stand

Statement Issued By Vice President After NSC Meeting

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today after presiding over a meeting of the National Security Council that no changes in foreign or economic policy "are needed or contemplated in the near future."

Nixon talked with reporters after a 2½-hour White House meeting of the council, the government's highest agency for military and economic policy planning.

He stressed that only President Eisenhower can make decisions on matters discussed in the council which, like the Cabinet, is purely an advisory body.

Cabinet Will Meet

Nixon said his role as presiding officer in Eisenhower's absence is primarily to see that items up for discussion are handled effectively and efficiently.

Today's council meeting, he said, was arranged before the President suffered a heart attack last Saturday and its business was to discuss things which would have been taken up "regardless of the occurrence at Denver."

Nixon noted that this is the time of year when both the council and the Cabinet begin to hold regular meetings. He will preside tomorrow at a Cabinet meeting—10 a.m. EST.

Ike To Make Decisions

Twenty-three Cabinet members and other officials attended today's council meeting. Murray Snider, assistant White House press secretary, said it was not unusual to have so many on hand.

Nixon said today's meeting went off "without any difficulties." He said the council meetings, like those of the Cabinet, provided the President with advice on which to proceed to his own decisions.

Any decisions amounting to new policies, he emphasized, will be made by the President. Nixon and Snyder both remarked that what goes on at such meetings is by tradition kept confidential.

Firemen's Wife Thwarts Bandit

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP) — The wife of a fireman recently decorated for bravery was herself a heroine today by foiling a holdup attempt at the loan office where she works.

Mrs. Charles McComas, 19-year-old clerk, called the bluff of the lone bandit who tried to pull off the robbery in the downtown shopping district.

Handing him two bags of money after he forced her to open the safe, she noticed his coat pocket was flat. It was the pocket in which he had held his hand as though holding a gun.

"You don't have a gun! You don't have a gun!" she shouted. The shout brought Conrad Wegnerowicz, 24-year-old assistant manager, on the run. He had been ordered into the washroom by the bandit at the start of the holdup.

Wegnerowicz grabbed the bandit around the waist, wrestled him to the floor and held him until police arrived.

Mrs. McComas said her husband was recently cited for rescuing the occupants of a burning building in North Baltimore last July.

Kidnaped Youth Rumored Alive

Accused Men Seek Freedom On Bond Today

SHIFTS TO DENVER—Sherman Adams (above), President Eisenhower's top aide, will fly from Washington to Denver today to take charge of the temporary White House.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Sept. 29 (AP)—Two white men accused of kidnaping a 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy seek freedom on bonds tomorrow amid rumors that the boy, Emmett Louis Till, is alive.

The rumors were not confirmed. Mrs. Mamie Bradley, the lad's mother, today called them "a cruel hoax."

Around-the-clock police protection was provided in Chicago for two witnesses in last week's sensational murder trial of 24-year old Roy Bryant and his 36-year old half-brother, John W. Milam.

A country jury at nearby Sumner last Friday found Bryant and Milam innocent of murdering the vacationing Chicago boy. They still face a kidnaping charge and will seek release on bond at tomorrow's hearing.

Influenced Jury

Contradictory identification of a body found in the Tallahatchie River heavily influenced the jury in freeing the men, and set off widespread speculation about Till's whereabouts if he is alive.

Mrs. Bradley said in Detroit, "I am willing to have my boy's body exhumed from the vault for a thorough examination if that would dispel these wild rumors.

"If he were alive, I would know. I don't know how this could come up."

Sheriff H. C. Strider said in nearby Charleston he had heard the rumors Till was alive in Detroit but "as far as knowing anything definite, I don't know it.

"I definitely believe he's somewhere, but I don't know where," the 270-pound sheriff added.

Conflicting Testimony

Strider and two other defense witnesses testified the body found in the river had been dead at least eight days. If they were correct, the body could not have been Till's. He was missing only three days when the body was found.

The boy's mother and Mose Wright, his sharecropper uncle, identified the body positively as Till's. The lad was abducted from Wright's cottonfield shack near Money in the early hours of Aug. 31.

Officers testified at the murder trial that Milam and Bryant admitted taking the boy but said they released him unharmed when they found he was not the Negro who allegedly whistled at and molested Mrs. Bryant at Bryant's country store.

Epypt Blames Israeli Threat For Arms Hunt

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29 (AP)—A highly placed Egyptian source asserted today Israel's attitude forced anti-Communist Egypt to deal with Communist countries for arms.

Israeli attacks in the Gaza area last spring convinced Egyptian army officers they were not prepared to meet the threat of large-scale war, said the informant, who declined to be identified by name.

Appeals to the United Nations to curb Israel brought little response, he said, and Egyptian military leaders put heavy pressure on Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to find heavy armament.

"The first nation we applied to for arms was the United States," the source declared. "We even sent a military mission to the States but we could not get the armaments we needed."

When Czechoslovakia offered to supply arms in return for Egyptian cotton, he said, Egypt had no alternative.

In London today the British Foreign Office said it has ordered Ambassador Sir Humphrey Trevelyan to inform Nasser of the "grave view" Britain takes of Egypt's intention to buy arms from behind the Iron Curtain. A spokesman said the British envoy was instructed to warn the Egyptian Premier of the dangers of starting an arms race in the Middle East.

British intervention in Cairo is the third of a series of steps taken by that country and the United States in the 48 hours since Egypt's disclosure it was making an arms deal with Czechoslovakia.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Macmillan complained to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov yesterday that Russia's entry into the Middle East military scene contradicted the spirit of Geneva. The three foreign ministers were in New York for U. N. meetings.

The United States also ordered George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state for Near East affairs, to visit Cairo, Beirut and Athens. Allen expects to discuss the arms question with Nasser. He reached Paris today.

Ford Plans Record Expansion In 1956

MAHWAH, N.J., Sept. 29 (AP) — Henry Ford II said tonight the Ford Motor Co. will spend a record half-billion dollars on expansion in 1956.

Ford said the money would come from earnings, not borrowing. He cited the program as proof of "our convictions about the future of the American economy."

A Ford spokesman said the sum was thought to be the greatest ever for expansion by a corporation of Ford's size in a single year.

Forgotten Mother Challenges Will

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—A New York woman's three-million-dollar will is being challenged by her 102-year-old mother, who is not mentioned in the will.

Through a special guardian the mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Van Etten, of Detroit, charged fraud. She alleged her daughter, the late Mrs. Agnes Barringere Momand, was "not of sound mind and memory."

Doctors Will Let President Initial Papers

Denver White House Operations Will Be Directed By Adams

DENVER, Sept. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower's recovery progressed today to an extent where doctors decided to let him put his initials to a couple of government documents later in the week, possibly tomorrow. It will be the first business transacted by the chief executive since he was stricken.

At the same time, it was announced that Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's top aide, will fly here from Washington tomorrow to take over direction of operations at the Denver White House.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in reply to questions that the two developments mean it is likely—barring complications in Eisenhower's condition—that any need for possible delegation of presidential powers to other federal officials has about disappeared from the picture.

First Small Step Back

The decision to let Eisenhower take the first very small step back toward the direction of the government, and to have Adams shift from Washington to Denver, came on the heels of another encouraging medical bulletin from Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where the President was taken Saturday after suffering a "moderate" heart attack.

The bulletin at noon MST said:

"The President continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

"After a comfortable night, the President had breakfast.

"His temperature is normal. His blood pressure and pulse are stable and satisfactory.

"His morning cardiograph continued to show the usual evolution.

"This morning he has been listening to music. He also is being read to for short periods."

Matter Put To Ike

Hagerty said the White House physician, Dr. Howard M. Snyder, had informed the President of a need that had come up for him to initial two government documents on or before Oct. 1, Saturday, and that Eisenhower agreed to do so.

The matter was put to the chief executive, Hagerty reported, after his team of physicians agreed that he now is up to that sort of minor activity.

The two documents Eisenhower will initial "D.E.", probably tomorrow or Saturday, are lists of Foreign Service officer assignments. Hagerty said they would not become effective until Nov. 1 unless initialed this week.

The fact that Adams is coming on from Washington, makes it possible for the President to start initialing such documents and others later on, Hagerty told a news conference.

"The President knows that when Gov. Adams hands him a document that all the work has been done on it in advance," the press secretary said.

Pravda Charges Plotting By Big 3

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (AP)—Pravda charged today the Western Big Three foreign ministers have been holding secret talks in New York aimed at upsetting directives for their October meeting in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

The Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, at the same time asserted that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military maneuvers this year showed "again without doubt that the maneuvers and training of NATO armed forces are being conducted with the aim of preparing troops for fighting action against the Soviet Union and countries of the people's democracies."

The charge of New York diplomatic maneuvering was made in an article by the New York correspondent of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

He cited reports by Western European journalists that the Big Three are plotting new proposals which would imperil "the Geneva spirit of cooperation," and which will "certainly by far not lighten the work of the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel this week.

Specialist Reports It Might Have Been Fatal To Move Ike Too Soon After Attack

BOSTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—To have moved President Eisenhower to a hospital too soon after his heart attack might have killed him, Dr. Paul D. White said today.

The internationally famed heart specialist, flown to Denver last Sunday for consultation with the President's physicians told a news conference in his office:

"I have seen death come on a number of occasions to patients who were moved too soon after the onset of their acute thrombosis; they succumbed sometimes before reaching the hospital.

"Of course, they might have succumbed anyway no matter whether they were moved or not, but this is often an added strain at the height of the painful reaction."

Eisenhower suffered his heart attack at 2:45 a.m., MST, last Saturday. Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, administered morphine and the President slept until 11 a.m. An electrocardiogram was taken at 1 p.m. Some physicians wonder at the delay.

At his meeting with newsmen, Dr. White endorsed Dr. Snyder's conduct regarding the electrocardiogram, the administration of drugs to the patient and the decision not to have the President go to the hospital on a stretcher.

"Any family doctor would do well to follow Gen. Snyder's procedure," he said.

Of the events immediately after Eisenhower became ill, Dr. White had this to say:

"The problem of the immediate diagnosis—'indigestion vs. a heart attack'—is often difficult or impossible at the onset especially if the pain is low under the breastbone, as it was in President Eisenhower's case, or high in the pit of the stomach, that is, the epigastrium.

"Gen. Snyder very quickly suspected coronary thrombosis and, therefore, gave the two hypodermic injections of morphine at 3 o'clock and 3:45.

"However, he didn't want to make such an announcement in the middle of the night to the world. It was evident that Gen. Snyder thought coronary thrombosis probably inasmuch as he ordered an electrocardiogram to be taken on the spot before moving the President."

France Rejects Accord At Price Of Atlantic Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. Sept. 29 (AP)—Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France today rejected Russian suggestions for an East-West accord based on dissolution of the Atlantic pact and departure of U. S. troops from Europe.

With Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov listening impassively as usual, Pinay told the U. N. Assembly that France will not recognize the Communist East German regime. He called instead for a united Germany protected by the Atlantic pact and the Paris agreements and subject to controlled military limitations.

Reds Given Warning

Pinay warned the Communists to stop stirring up trouble in North Africa. He asked if they sought to open a new front there. He did not mention Algeria, which Pinay regards as a domestic problem. He reported the agreement between France and Tunis and said France is working to constitute a Moroccan government.

The French minister was emphatic in his views on the Atlantic pact. He said that an authentic easing of tension in the "True spirit of Geneva" bases coexistence, for which the Russians are pleading, on "tolerance."

"If states can only coexist in a climate of mutual tolerance, peoples can only find peace in the certainty of their own security," Pinay said.

Pact Provides Guarantees

"For the West, and more particularly for France, there is no real security outside the Atlantic organization. By its very nature, it can have a strictly defensive character, and thus provides the Soviet Union with the perfectly legitimate guarantees which the latter has a right to demand. There can be no question of substituting for these real guarantees offered by the Atlantic organization abstract guarantees of the Locarno type, which in the recent past have proved illusory."

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—In a ceremony performed by her father, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's daughter Barbara, 21, was married today to Dr. Robert Harris Walker, 33, of Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

The wedding was performed in the Salt Lake Temple of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church. Benson is a member of the church's Council of Twelve Apostles.

The couple will live in Calgary where Walker practices medicine.

Nixon Asserts Eisenhower's Policies Stand

Statement Issued By Vice President After NSC Meeting

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today after presiding over a meeting of the National Security Council that no changes in foreign or economic policy "are needed or contemplated in the near future."

Nixon talked with reporters after a 2½-hour White House meeting of the council, the government's highest agency for military and economic policy planning.

He stressed that only President Eisenhower can make decisions on matters discussed in the council which, like the Cabinet, is purely an advisory body.

Cabinet Will Meet

Nixon said his role as presiding officer in Eisenhower's absence is primarily to see that items up for discussion are handled effectively and efficiently.

Today's council meeting, he said, was arranged before the President suffered a heart attack last Saturday and its business was to discuss things which would have been taken up "regardless of the occurrence at Denver."

Nixon noted that this is the time of year when both the council and the Cabinet begin to hold regular meetings. He will preside tomorrow at a Cabinet meeting—10 a.m. EST.

Ike To Make Decisions

Twenty-three Cabinet members and other officials attended today's council meeting. Murray Snider, assistant White House press secretary, said it was not unusual to have so many on hand.

Nixon said today's meeting went off "without any difficulties." He said the council meetings, like those of the Cabinet, provided the President with advice on which to proceed to his own decisions.

Any decisions amounting to new policies, he emphasized, will be made by the President. Nixon and Snyder both remarked that what goes on at such meetings is by tradition kept confidential.

Firemen's Wife Thwarts Bandit

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP) — The wife of a fireman recently decorated for bravery was herself a heroine today by foiling a holdup attempt at the loan office where she works.

Mrs. Charles McComas, 19-year-old clerk, called the bluff of the lone bandit who tried to pull off the robbery in the downtown shopping district.

Handing him two bags of money after he forced her to open the safe, she noticed his coat pocket was flat. It was the pocket in which he had held his hand as though holding a gun.

"You don't have a gun! You don't have a gun!" she shouted. The shout brought Conrad Wegnerowicz, 24-year-old assistant manager, on the run. He had been ordered into the washroom by the bandit at the start of the holdup.

Wegnerowicz grabbed the bandit around the waist, wrestled him to the floor and held him until police arrived.

Mrs. McComas said her husband was recently cited for rescuing the occupants of a burning building in North Baltimore last July.

Kidnaped Youth Rumored Alive

Accused Men Seek Freedom On Bond Today

GREENWOOD, Miss., Sept. 29 (AP)—Two white men accused of kidnaping a 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy seek freedom on bonds tomorrow amid rumors that the boy, Emmett Louis Till, is alive.

The rumors were not confirmed. Mrs. Mamie Bradley, the lad's mother, today called them "a cruel hoax."

Around-the-clock police protection was provided in Chicago for two witnesses in last week's sensational murder trial of 24-year old Roy Bryant and his 36-year old half-brother, John W. Milam.

A country jury at nearby Sumner last Friday found Bryant and Milam innocent of murdering the vacationing Chicago boy. They still face a kidnaping charge and will seek release on bond at tomorrow's hearing.

Influenced Jury

Contradictory identification of a body found in the Tallahatchie River heavily influenced the jury in freeing the men, and set off widespread speculation about Till's whereabouts if he is alive.

Mrs. Bradley said in Detroit, "I am willing to have my boy's body exhumed from the vault for a thorough examination if that would dispel these wild rumors.

"If he were alive, I would know. I don't know how this could come up."

Sheriff H. C. Strider said in nearby Charleston he had heard the rumors Till was alive in Detroit but "as far as knowing anything definite, I don't know it.

"I definitely believe he's somewhere, but I don't know where," the 270-pound sheriff added.

Conflicting Testimony

Strider and two other defense witnesses testified the body found in the river had been dead at least eight days. If they were correct, the body could not have been Till's. He was missing only three days when the body was found.

The boy's mother and Mose Wright, his sharecropper uncle, identified the body positively as Till's. The lad was abducted from Wright's cottonfield shack near Money in the early hours of Aug. 31.

Officers testified at the murder trial that Milam and Bryant admitted taking the boy but said they released him unharmed when they found he was not the Negro who allegedly whistled at and molested Mrs. Bryant at Bryant's country store.

SHIFTS TO DENVER—Sherman Adams (above), President Eisenhower's top aide, will fly from Washington to Denver today to take charge of the temporary White House.

Epypt Blames Israeli Threat For Arms Hunt

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29 (AP)—A highly placed Egyptian source asserted today Israel's attitude forced anti-Communist Egypt to deal with Communist countries for arms.

Israeli attacks in the Gaza area last spring convinced Egyptian army officers they were not prepared to meet the threat of large-scale war, said the informant, who declined to be identified by name.

Appeals to the United Nations to curb Israel brought little response, he said, and Egyptian military leaders put heavy pressure on Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to find heavy armament.

"The first nation we applied to for arms was the United States," the source declared. "We even sent a military mission to the States but we could not get the armaments we needed."

When Czechoslovakia offered to supply arms in return for Egyptian cotton, he said, Egypt had no alternative.

In London today the British Foreign Office said it has ordered Ambassador Sir Humphrey Trevelyan to inform Nasser of the "grave view" Britain takes of Egypt's intention to buy arms from behind the Iron Curtain. A spokesman said the British envoy was instructed to warn the Egyptian Premier of the dangers of starting an arms race in the Middle East.

British intervention in Cairo is the third of a series of steps taken by that country and the United States in the 48 hours since Egypt's disclosure it was making an arms deal with Czechoslovakia.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Macmillan complained to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov yesterday that Russia's entry into the Middle East military scene contradicted the spirit of Geneva. The three foreign ministers were in New York for U. N. meetings.

The United States also ordered George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state for Near East affairs, to visit Cairo, Beirut and Athens. Allen expects to discuss the arms question with Nasser. He reached Paris today.

Ford Plans Record Expansion In 1956

MAHWAH, N.J., Sept. 29 (AP) — Henry Ford II said tonight the Ford Motor Co. will spend a record half-billion dollars on expansion in 1956.

Ford said the money would come from earnings, not borrowing. He cited the program as proof of "our convictions about the future of the American economy."

A Ford spokesman said the sum was thought to be the greatest ever for expansion by a corporation of Ford's size in a single year.

Forgotten Mother Challenges Will

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—A New York woman's three-million-dollar will is being challenged by her 102-year-old mother, who is not mentioned in the will.

Specialist Reports It Might Have Been Fatal To Move Ike Too Soon After Attack

BOSTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—To have moved President Eisenhower to a hospital too soon after his heart attack might have killed him, Dr. Paul D. White said today.

The internationally famed heart specialist, flown to Denver last Sunday for consultation with the President's physicians told a news conference in his office:

"I have seen death come on a number of occasions to patients who were moved too soon after the onset of their acute thrombosis; they succumbed sometimes before reaching the hospital.

"Of course, they might have succumbed anyway no matter whether they were moved or not, but this is often an added strain at the height of the painful reaction."

Eisenhower suffered his heart attack at 2:45 a.m., MST, last Saturday. Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, administered morphine and the President slept until 11 a.m. An electrocardiogram was taken at 1 p.m. Some physicians wonder at the delay.

At his meeting with newsmen, Dr. White endorsed Dr. Snyder's conduct regarding the electrocardiogram, the administration of drugs to the patient and the decision not to have the President go to the hospital on a stretcher.

"Any family doctor would do well to follow Gen. Snyder's procedure," he said.

Of the events immediately after Eisenhower became ill, Dr. White had this to say:

"The problem of the immediate diagnosis—'indigestion vs. a heart attack'—is often difficult or impossible at the onset especially if the pain is low under the breastbone, as it was in President Eisenhower's case, or high in the pit of the stomach, that is, the epigastrium.

"Gen. Snyder very quickly suspected coronary thrombosis and, therefore, gave the two hypodermic injections of morphine at 3 o'clock and 3:45.

"However, he didn't want to make such an announcement in the middle of the night to the world. It was evident that Gen. Snyder thought coronary thrombosis probably inasmuch as he ordered an electrocardiogram to be taken on the spot before moving the President."

Doctors Will Let President Initial Papers

Denver White House Operations Will Be Directed By Adams

DENVER, Sept. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower's recovery progressed today to an extent where doctors decided to let him put his initials to a couple of government documents later in the week, possibly tomorrow. It will be the first business transacted by the chief executive since he was stricken.

At the same time, it was announced that Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's top aide, will fly here from Washington tomorrow to take over direction of operations at the Denver White House.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in reply to questions that the two developments mean it is likely—barring complications in Eisenhower's condition—that any need for possible delegation of presidential powers to other federal officials has about disappeared from the picture.

First Small Step Back

The decision to let Eisenhower take the first very small step back toward the direction of the government, and to have Adams shift from Washington to Denver, came on the heels of another encouraging medical bulletin from Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where the President was taken Saturday after suffering a "moderate" heart attack.

The bulletin at noon MST said:

"The President continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

"After a comfortable night, the President had breakfast.

"His temperature is normal. His blood pressure and pulse are stable and satisfactory.

"His morning cardiograph continued to show the usual evolution.

"This morning he has been listening to music. He also is being read to for short periods."

Matter Put To Ike

Hagerty said the White House physician, Dr. Howard M. Snyder, had informed the President of a need that had come up for him to initial two government documents on or before Oct. 1, Saturday, and that Eisenhower agreed to do so.

The matter was put to the chief executive, Hagerty reported, after his team of physicians agreed that he now is up to that sort of minor activity.

The two documents Eisenhower will initial "D.E.", probably tomorrow or Saturday, are lists of Foreign Service officer assignments. Hagerty said they would not become effective until Nov. 1 unless initialed this week.

The fact that Adams is coming on from Washington, makes it possible for the President to start initialing such documents and others later on, Hagerty told a news conference.

"The President knows that when Gov. Adams hands him a document that all the work has been done on it in advance," the press secretary said.

Pravda Charges Plotting By Big 3

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (AP)—Pravda charged today the Western Big Three foreign ministers have been holding secret talks in New York aimed at upsetting directives for their October meeting in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

The Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, at the same time asserted that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military maneuvers this year showed "again without doubt that the maneuvers and training of NATO armed forces are being conducted with the aim of preparing troops for fighting action against the Soviet Union and countries of the people's democracies."

The charge of New York diplomatic maneuvering was made in an article by the New York correspondent of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

He cited reports by Western European journalists that the Big Three are plotting new proposals which would imperil "the Geneva spirit of cooperation," and which will "certainly by far not lighten the work of the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel this week.

Two Renegades May Have Aided Reds In Korea

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) said today the Senate Internal Security subcommittee is trying to find out whether the Communists got word about United Nations Korean War strategy from two renegade British diplomats.

Eastland, who heads the subcommittee, disclosed he has written to Secretary of State Dulles asking for information about State Department contacts with Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean.

Burgess and Maclean, British Foreign Service officers, disappeared in May 1951, presumably behind the Iron Curtain. In an official statement a week ago, London said both were under surveillance at the time as suspected spies. Both are presumed to be acting as Soviet advisers now.

Eastland said in an interview that one purpose of the inquiry his subcommittee has undertaken is to find out whether Burgess and Maclean would have relayed word to Chinese Communist leaders that they need not fear retaliatory attacks on their homeland if they poured troops into the Korean War.

Red Chinese forces were committed late in 1950 as United Nations troops neared the Manchurian border in North Korea.

At the time, Burgess was second secretary of the British Embassy here and Maclean was in charge of the American desk in the British Foreign Office in London.

Defense Chief Sees Little Hope For Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today he sees no way to balance the federal budget unless income increases "or something else happens."

Wilson, who has been under reported urging to prune military spending as an aid to balancing the budget, told a news conference that, "we have not changed our military program." He said that is "the big thing."

He added that the Pentagon has found ways to economize to the extent of about half a billion dollars, but as to further possible economies, "I would like to say frankly that the trend is against us."

In reply to questions, Wilson denied he was having a "row" with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey about cutting spending in an effort to balance the budget.

To another question, Wilson said everybody agrees that balancing the budget is desirable, then added:

"There's no way of balancing the budget and carrying out all the activities unless there is more income than has been forecast, or something else happens differently."

Humphrey himself said in a statement today that, "The hope has been, and still is, that savings can be made by continually exercising the greatest care in scrutinizing all expenditures and by increased efficiency in administration, while at the same time increasing effective military strength."

Russell said he has type B negative, described as the second rarest type in the United States.

The spokesman said that NACA has tested the shapes and rocket charges of virtually every U.S. missile, at Wallops Island.

The purpose of the firings is to test the effects of high-speed, high-altitude airflow upon various bodies in flight.

Russian Newsmen Leave Today For Tour Of U. S.

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (AP)—Seven top Russian newsmen leave here Friday for an extensive tour of the United States. They include Boris Polovoi, author of a novel of wartime resistance, "A Real Man."

The trip was held up for some time by the Russians' refusal to be fingerprinted, as required by the U.S. McCarran Immigration Act. This difficulty was overcome when the newsmen agreed to travel on special passports as officials of the Soviet government, exempting them from provisions of the law.

The Russians maintained the fingerprint requirement for U.S. visas classed them with common criminals. They also refused for some months to use official passports.

The group is flying to Paris and will board the U.S. liner America at Le Havre, France. They will be the first official Soviet group to cross the Atlantic on an American ship. Russian officials usually sail on British or French vessels.

The newsmen represent the Soviet Union's top publications. In addition to Polovoi, who is being sent by Pravda, they include:

Scientists Still Trying To Track Down Fundamental Causes Of Heart Attacks

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—What causes a heart attack?

Science knows the mechanical facts. It knows that in a coronary thrombosis—the type of attack that President Eisenhower had last week—a blood clot forms and eventually plugs an artery. It blocks one of the channels that "feeds" an area of the heart wall.

But what caused the clot to form? What is the deep, basic cause?

While a doctor was working over me on the incredible morning when I was hit, I asked a million questions. I wanted to know everything. Finally, I asked the important one, "Well, what caused it?"

He looked at me quietly and replied, "Life."

It was as good an answer as any. This is about all that science can say with any certainty today.

Heart disease cut down nearly 800,000 Americans last year, more than half of all who died in 1954. Cancer and automobiles are peanuts compared to heart ailments. Moreover, a great majority of those who died of heart disease were in the highly productive years of life, 40 to 65.

So, today, some of the best scientific brains in the nation are trying to track down the fundamental cause of the cardio-vascular diseases, arteries, the circulatory system, high blood pressure, and so on. They are asking these questions:

1. Is it the American pace of living?

Very few nations have as high a death rate as the United States among men, aged 40 to 65. Is that because the American drives himself so hard, "lives it up," burns the candle at both ends?

Reports from West Germany indicate that, recently, the death rate from heart attacks has been rising there. Doctors wonder whether the Germans, in driving so hard for recovery from the war, are not duplicating the American experience.

However, Dr. Albert S. Hyman made a study of heart disease in the jungles of the South Pacific. He wrote of the "surprisingly high incidence of cardiovascular disease of all types found among these primitive peoples." Not much tension there, presumably.

2. Is it "obesity," the condition of being grossly overweight?

Life insurance statisticians frequently attach considerable importance to this. Figures seem to indicate a higher incidence of death from heart disease among people seriously over the normal weight levels.

Other researchers disagree. They point out that an athlete, in the pink of condition, may be overweight, but that he is not "fat." He is muscular. So they feel that simple statistics about weights are only part of the story.

3. Is it heredity?

Many difficulties confront the researcher in this field. You may or may not know, if you are asked, whether your grandfather died of heart disease. The definitions of diseases in his day were less precise. Heart disease often assumes some other form.

Later in this series, some long-term experiments will be described that may throw some light on the heredity factor.

4. Is it something related to hormones?

Women are far, far less susceptible to heart attacks than men. Only after the middle years does the incidence appear to rise substantially. Why? What is it in the female system that seems to fend off hardening of the arteries, or roughening of the arteries, or clotting? This is another area of intense research.

5. Is "cholesterol" the villain?

This is a fat-soluble, waxy substance found only in the blood of man and the animals. Dr. Ancel Keys, heading a great research project at the University of Minnesota, has said of it:

"If cholesterol is not the cause of the most serious arteriosclerosis, it is definitely involved somehow. Over extreme ranges at least, there is no doubt there is a relation between the concentration of cholesterol in the blood and the appearance of deposits in the walls of the arteries."

He says cholesterol is present in all meats, especially the fatty parts, in all dairy products, and is particularly abundant in eggs.

So, then, is diet the answer?

Doctors point out that the body produces its own cholesterol even when a patient is on a diet very low in this substance. Moreover, the Eskimos, who get most of their calories from the fattest meats, apparently have less heart disease than Americans.

There is, however, a degree of agreement among scientists that the abundant American diet may be a factor in the tremendously complicated problem. For example, it has been pointed out that, during World War II, the incidence of heart disease appeared to decline in those nations where diet was restricted.

Allen's Company Silent On Blast At SRC System

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP)—The J. E. Greiner Co. today withheld comment on a statement the State Roads Commission's system of getting rights-of-way for the Baltimore harbor tunnel was a "joke."

The statement was made by Robert Moses, famous New York civic planner, when he was interviewed by a Legislative Counsel committee investigating the land acquisition procedures for the tunnel.

The Greiner Co. are consulting engineers for the tunnel project, as they were for Maryland's big Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

At a Legislative Counsel hearing earlier, Herschel Allen senior partner of the firm, took full responsibility for the right-of-way buying system.

Under Allen's plan, two private real estate firms were engaged to survey, appraise, and get title to almost 9 million dollars worth of property for the tunnel portals and a 13.5-mile system of approach expressways.

The two firms, together, get a 7½ per cent commission.

The arrangement caused a furor in last year's political campaigns because one of the two real estate firms is headed by David M. Nichols, a member of the State Roads Commission until a few weeks before the land acquisition contract was signed.

Nichols told the Legislative Council committee last week Allen's plan was not submitted to him while he was on the commission.

Allen was in Ohio today for the formal opening Friday night of the Ohio Turnpike, for which his firm also were the consulting engineers.

Other members of the company declined to comment on the statements to the Legislative Council committee by Moses.

When he was before the committee last week, Allen expressed pride in the unprecedented arrangement with the two real estate firms.

Rights-of-way for the Ohio Turnpike, he said, had cost much more than originally estimate. By contrast, he declared, rights-of-way for the tunnel project promised to cost less than anticipated.

Assessments Up In Baltimore Co.

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Baltimore County's tax base will be increased by about 250 million dollars in the current reassessment of real estate, Howard E. Burkhardt, State supervisor of assessments for the county, estimated today.

All property in the county is being reassessed this year, as it is in Baltimore and the other 22 counties under legislation enacted by last winter's General Assembly.

Burkhardt said assessments have increased sharply in some instances but protests generally were fewer and milder than expected.

The 250-million dollar increase in assessed valuation would increase the county's revenues by about 5 million dollars next year under the current tax rate of $1.98 for each $100 of valuation.

It already is a foregone conclusion, however, that the 1956 county budget will be several million dollars higher than the record 23-million dollar schedule of expenditures on which it is operating this year.

The county school system already has asked a 4½ million increase over its current budget.

Oct. 15 is the final date for entering new valuations on the tax books for old properties. The county commissioners are due to publish a tentative budget and tax rate by November 1. The rate is to be set and the final budget adopted by Dec. 1.

The Secret Service of the United States Treasury department did not assume the duty of guarding the President until the assassination of William McKinley in 1901. Theodore Roosevelt was the first President to have this protection.

McLean Low Bidder On Baltimore Viaduct

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP)—McLean Construction Co. of Baltimore was the low bidder for a project which includes construction of a viaduct in connection with the Baltimore harbor tunnel approaches, the State Roads Commission said today.

The firm's bid was $6,615,353.28. The second low bid, $6,686,916.85, was submitted by C. J. Langenfelder and Son of Baltimore.

Bids went as high as $7,892,462.-00 as eight firms sought the job.

Free Of Football 'Distraction,' Goucher Students Told

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 28 (AP)—The women who attend Goucher College were welcomed back to school today by their president who reminded them that their maleless academic world leaves them "happily free "of such distractions as football and "hand holding in the library."

Such a situation permits Goucher's 641 students "to enlist the loyalty and interest of the college community in the service aims of the institution," said Otto F. Kraushaar at the convocation opening the school's 68th academic year.

The "glamourous spectacle of leather-clad gladiators clashing on the gridiron of a Saturday afternoon" can be "an exciting show, but it has precious little to do with education," said the college president.

"Moreover, we are not quite so disheveled by toujours l'amour . . . In our college, l'amour seems to thrive very well indeed—even without hand-holding in the library."

"These and other advantages add up to a moral and intellectual climate affording a good chance for intelligent young women to rise to their full human stature. And this was never more important than it is today," said the convocation speaker.

Kraushaar traced the beginnings of higher education for women from the times when it was first admitted that "a little education might not do any harm to the future genteel Haushfrau."

Today, said the Goucher president, the goal of education, for men and women alike, is "personal fulfillment and maturity, the enrichmond of the life of the individuals and communities by liberating and developing human talents and personal resources, by cultivating the individual's sensibilities and tastes and helping him to think critically and independently."

Two Men Lose Lives

GAITHERSBURG, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Two men were killed last night when a skidding car hit a parked car along State Route 27 in upper Montgomery County, somersaulted over it and then crashed into a house.

The car's driver, Robert T. Aber, 21, a Ft. Meade soldier, was killed instantly when he was thrown from the car onto the front porch of the house.

One of the passengers, Glen Odie Webb, 16, of Gaithersburg, was pronounced dead at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, at 1:20 a.m.

Deferment Of Power Plant Ruling Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The District of Columbia Commissioners today asked the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources to postpone any decision on the plans of the Potomac Electric Power Co. to build a generating plant on the Potomac River in Loudoun County, Va., a short distance above Washington.

The commissioners asked that a decision be deferred until engineering studies have been completed.

Dr. Paul Nystrom To Head Agriculture Extension Service At U. Of Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Dr. Paul E. Nystrom, a veteran of 24 years in the agricultural extension service at the University of Maryland, today was named head of the service.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, appointed him to succeed Dr. James M. Gwin, who recently became general manager of the Poultry and Egg National Board in Chicago.

The extension service, a cooperative project of the university and the Department of Agriculture, conducts farm research, carries on an elaborate educational program among farm people, and serves as an implement in the government's price and production control system.

Its county agents, home demonstration agents, and 4-H club leaders have become an integral part of the state's agricultural scene.

Dr. Nystrom first joined the Maryland picture in 1991 when he became a farm management specialist on the university faculty.

He became assistant county agent leader in 1932, county agent leader in 1937, deputy director of extension in 1943 and associate director in 1948.

Since 1951 he has been director of instruction and head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing in the university's College of Agriculture.

Dr. Nystrom holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of California and his doctorate in public administration was conferred by Harvard in 1951.

Switzerland had the distinction of being the first country to issue a coin made of pure nickel, in 1881.

Anne Arundel County Tax Increase Looms

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 29 (AP)—Anne Arundel County taxpayers may face an increase of at least six cents in their school tax next year if a record school budget of $8,666,558 is adopted.

The budget figure, which compares with $7,375,829 for the current year, was revealed last night at a meeting of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

County Manager Edward R. Lonergan said that on the basis of present estimated tax returns, the school tax would probably go up from $1.44 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.50 to finance the new budget.

New Interstate Road Routes Announced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Public Roads last night announced general locations of routes of the national system of interstate highways into, through and around 102 cities or urban areas in the nation.

The new routes, to be built with federal aid to the states, supplement the original 37,700 mile interstate network designated in 1947 to connect the nation's principal cities and industrial areas.

Approval of the new general routes' location completes designation of the 40,000-mile national system authorized by Congress in the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1944.

The Bureau of Roads, in announcing the route locations, emphasized they have thus far been determined in a general manner only. Detailed final locations will be made later as the states advance their projects.

Federal assistant for improvement of the national system of interstate highways will amount to 175 million dollars in the current fiscal year, and 175 millions in the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1.

Additional routes designated in today's announcement will run into, through and around the following urban areas, the bureau said.

District of Columbia—Washington and adjacent areas.

Kentucky—Covington and Louisville.

Tennessee—Bristol, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Memphis and Nashville.

Gambling Raid By State Police Stirs Up Feud

TOWSON, Sept. 29 (AP)—A noisy feud broke out today over a gambling raid the Maryland State Police pulled in Baltimore County yesterday without consulting county authorities.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the State Police, said he ordered the raid because county authorities had failed to take action.

The Baltimore County commissioners called on Hamilton R. Atkinson, chief of the county police force, for "an immediate and exhaustive" report.

John E. Raine Jr., State's attorney for the county, took formal preliminary steps in the filing of a libel action against the A. S. Abell Co., publishers of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

Raine declared news reports on the raid contained "libelous innuendo."

He referred to statements attributed anonymously to State and Baltimore city police officials to the effect gambling raids fizzled when the county had advance knowledge.

Raine said State Police had been involved in only one other gambling raid in the county, and then it was under his direction.

Col. Munshower confirmed this.

Chief Atkinson said in his five years as chief of the county department State Police had never asked him to assist in a gambling raid.

Fifteen State troopers and three Baltimore city plicemen carried out yesterday's raid on a house at Turner's Station, a county suburb east of Baltimore.

They arrested six men on lottery charges and confiscated several adding machines, several shopping bags full of betting slips, and some cash.

James M. Hepbron, the city's police commissioner, said he believed the house was headquarters for "a good part" of the lottery business in Baltimore.

"A blind man could have seen what was going on," Col. Munshower said today.

"I felt if the county authorities were going to do anything about it they would have done it a long time ago.

"Complaints about the house had come to me for more than a year.

"In each case, I referred the complaints to county officials. Some of the residents said they had seen Atkinson about it."

Raine said:

"I am confident that subsequent developments will result in a retraction of the anonymous innuendo that appeared in press accounts of yesterday's raid.

"I am advised Col. Munshower has repudiated the statement made earlier and has absolved this office of any improper action."

Attorneys for Raine secured a summons for the appearance of William P. Schmick Sr., president of the A. S. Abell Co., to answer questions preliminary to the filing of a libel suit.

Allen's Company Silent On Blast At SRC System

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP)—The J. E. Greiner Co. today withheld comment on a statement the State Roads Commission's system of getting rights-of-way for the Baltimore harbor tunnel was a "joke."

The statement was made by Robert Moses, famous New York civic planner, when he was interviewed by a Legislative Counsel committee investigating the land acquisition procedures for the tunnel.

The Greiner Co. are consulting engineers for the tunnel project as they were for Maryland's big Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

At a Legislative Counsel hearing earlier, Herschel Allen senior partner of the firm, took full responsibility for the right-of-way buying system.

Under Allen's plan, two private real estate firms were engaged to survey, appraise, and get title to almost 9 million dollars worth of property for the tunnel portals and a 13.5-mile system of approach expressways.

The two firms, together, get a 7½ per cent commission.

The arrangement caused a furor in last year's political campaigns because one of the two real estate firms is headed by David M. Nichols, a member of the State Roads Commission until a few weeks before the land acquisition contract was signed.

Nichols told the Legislative Council committee last week Allen's plan was not submitted to him while he was on the commission.

Allen was in Ohio today for the formal opening Friday night of the Ohio Turnpike, for which his firm also were the consulting engineers.

Other members of the company declined to comment on the statements to the Legislative Council committee by Moses.

When he was before the committee last week, Allen expressed pride in the unprecedented arrangement with the two real estate firms.

Rights-of-way for the Ohio Turnpike, he said, had cost much more than originally estimate. By contrast, he declared, rights-of-way for the tunnel project promised to cost less than anticipated.

Assessments Up In Baltimore Co.

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Baltimore County's tax base will be increased by about 250 million dollars in the current reassessment of real estate, Howard E. Burkhardt, State supervisor of assessments for the county, estimated today.

All property in the county is being reassessed this year, as it is in Baltimore and the other 22 counties under legislation enacted by last winter's General Assembly.

Burkhardt said assessments have increased sharply in some instances but protests generally were fewer and milder than expected.

The 250-million dollar increase in assessed valuation would increase the county's revenues by about 5 million dollars next year under the current tax rate of $1.98 for each $100 of valuation.

It already is a foregone conclusion, however, that the 1956 county budget will be several million dollars higher than the record 23-million dollar schedule of expenditures on which it is operating this year.

The county school system already has asked a 4½ million increase over its current budget.

Oct. 15 is the final date for entering new valuations on the tax books for old properties. The county commissioners are due to publish a tentative budget and tax rate by November 1. The rate is to be set and the final budget adopted by Dec. 1.

McLean Low Bidder On Baltimore Viaduct

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP)—McLean Construction Co. of Baltimore was the low bidder for a project which includes construction of a viaduct in connection with the Baltimore harbor tunnel approaches, the State Roads Commission said today.

The firm's bid was $6,615,353.28. The second low bid, $6,686,916.85, was submitted by C. J. Langenfelder and Son of Baltimore.

Bids went as high as $7,892,462.68 as eight firms sought the job.

Free Of Football 'Distraction,' Goucher Students Told

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 28 (AP)—The women who attend Goucher College were welcomed back to school today by their president who reminded them that their maleless academic world leaves them "happily free "of such distractions as football and "hand holding in the library."

Such a situation permits Goucher's 641 students "to enlist the loyalty and interest of the college community in the serious aims of the institution," said Otto F. Kraushaar at the convocation opening the school's 68th academic year.

The "glamourous spectacle of leather-clad gladiators clashing on the gridiron of a Saturday afternoon" can be "an exciting show, but it has precious little to do with education," said the college president.

"Moreover, we are not quite so disheveled by toujours l'amour . . . in our college. I'amour seems to thrive very well indeed — even without hand-holding in the library."

"These and other advantages add up to a moral and intellectual climate affording a good chance for intelligent young women to rise to their full human stature. And this was never more important than it is today," said the convocation speaker.

Kraushaar traced the beginnings of higher education for women from the times when it was first admitted that "a little education might not do any harm to the future genteel Hausfrau."

Today, said the Goucher president, the goal of education, for men and women alike, is "personal fulfillment and maturity, the enrichmond of the life of the individuals and communities by liberating and developing human talents and personal resources, by cultivating the individual's sensibilities and tastes and helping him to think critically and independently."

Two Men Lose Lives

GAITHERSBURG, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Two men were killed last night when a skidding car hit a parked car along State Route 27 in upper Montgomery County, somersaulted over it and then crashed into a house.

The car's driver, Robert T. Aber, 21, a Ft. Meade soldier, was killed instantly when he was thrown from the car onto the front porch of the house.

One of the passengers, Glen Odie Webb, 16, of Gaithersburg, was pronounced dead at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, at 1:20 a.m.

Deferment Of Power Plant Ruling Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The District of Columbia Commissioners today asked the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources to postpone any decision on the plans of the Potomac Electric Power Co. to build a generating plant on the Potomac River in Loudoun County, Va., a short distance above Washington.

The commissioners asked that a decision be deferred until engineering studies have been completed.

Dr. Paul Nystrom To Head Agriculture Extension Service At U. Of Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Dr. Paul E. Nystrom, a veteran of 24 years in the agricultural extension service at the University of Maryland, today was named head of the service.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, appointed him to succeed Dr. James M. Gwin, who recently became general manager of the Poultry and Egg National Board in Chicago.

The extension service, a cooperative project of the university and the Department of Agriculture, conducts farm research, carries on an elaborate educational program among farm people, and serves as an implement in the government's price and production control system.

Its county agents, home demonstration agents, and 4-H club leaders have become an integral part of the state's agricultural scene.

Dr. Nystrom first joined the Maryland picture in 1991 when he became a farm management specialist on the university fac-

He became assistant county agent leader in 1923, county agent leader in 1927, deputy director of extension in 1943 and associate director in 1948.

Since 1951 he has been director of instruction and head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing in the university's College of Agriculture.

Dr. Nystrom holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of California and his doctorate in public administration was conferred by Harvard in 1951.

Anne Arundel County Tax Increase Looms

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 29 (AP)—Anne Arundel County taxpayers may face an increase of at least six cents in their school tax next year if a record school budget of $8,668,558 is adopted.

The budget figure, which compares with $7,375,829 for the current year, was revealed last night at a meeting of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

County Manager Edward R. Lonergan said that on the basis of present estimated tax returns, the school tax would probably go up from $1.44 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.50 to finance the new budget.

New Interstate Road Routes Announced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Bureau of Public Roads last night announced general locations of routes of the national system of interstate highways into, through and around 102 cities or urban areas in the nation.

The new routes, to be built with federal aid to the states, supplement the original 37,700 mile interstate network designated in 1947 to connect the nation's principal cities and industrial areas.

Approval of the new general routes' location completes designation of the 40,000-mile national system authorized by Congress in the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1944.

The Bureau of Roads, in announcing the route locations, emphasized they have thus far been determined in a general manner only. Detailed final locations will be made later as the states advance their projects.

Federal assistant for improvement of the national system of interstate highways will amount to 175 million dollars in the current fiscal year, and 175 millions in the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1.

Additional routes designated in today's announcement will run into, through and around the following urban areas, the bureau said.

District of Columbia—Washington and adjacent areas.

Kentucky—Covington and Louisville.

Virginia—Bristol, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Richmond, Roanoke, and the Washington D. C. metropolitan area.

West Virginia—Wheeling.

Gambling Raid By State Police Stirs Up Feud

TOWSON, Sept. 29 (AP)—A noisy feud broke out today over a gambling raid the Maryland State Police pulled in Baltimore County yesterday without consulting county authorities.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the State Police, said he ordered the raid because county authorities had failed to take action.

The Baltimore County commissioners called on Hamilton R. Atkinson, chief of the county police force, for "an immediate and exhaustive" report.

John E. Raine Jr., State's attorney for the county, took formal preliminary steps in the filing of a libel action against the A. S. Abell Co., publishers of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

Raine declared news reports on the raid contained "libelous innuendo."

He referred to statements attributed anonymously to State and Baltimore city police officials to the effect gambling raids fizzled when the county had advance knowledge.

Raine said State Police had been involved in only one other gambling raid in the county, and then it was under his direction.

Col. Munshower confirmed this. Chief Atkinson said in his five years as chief of the county department State Police had never asked him to assist in a gambling raid.

Fifteen State troopers and three Baltimore city plicemen carried out yesterday's raid on a house at Turner's Station, a county suburb east of Baltimore.

They arrested six men on lottery charges and confiscated several adding machines, several shopping bags full of betting slips, and some cash.

James M. Hepbron, the city's police commissioner, said he believed the house was headquarters for "a good part" of the lottery business in Baltimore.

"A blind man could have seen what was going on," Col. Munshower said today.

"I felt if the county authorities were going to do anything about it they would have done it a long time ago.

"Complaints about the house had come to me for more than a year.

"In each case, I referred the complaints to county officials. Some of the residents said they had seen Atkinson about it."

Raine said:

"I am confident that subsequent developments will result in a retraction of the anonymous innuendo that appeared in press accounts of yesterday's raid.

"I am advised Col. Munshower has repudiated the statement made earlier and has absolved this office of any improper action."

Attorneys for Raine secured a summons for the appearance of William F. Schmick Sr., president of the A. S. Abell Co., to answer questions preliminary to the filing of a libel suit.

Dr. Ramsay To Address AAUW On European Trip

A "Summer Tramp in Europe—with Ear To the Ground," is the topic of the talk to be given by Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey at the regular meeting of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch, American Association of University Women, October 3.

The meeting, not limited to AAUW members, will be held in the new lecture hall of the Methodist Church, Frostburg at 7:15 instead of the usual 7:30, so as not to conflict with the Marcia Klamner Maggid recital at Compton Hall, State Teachers College, which begins at 8:15. The recital is being sponsored by the Cumberland Music and Arts Club.

Dr. Ramsey, chairman of the International Relations Group of the AAUW, will present international impressions with the reactions of the common people, especially concerning Americans and internal problems and policies, which she gathered exploring middle Europe last summer.

Traveling third class, Dr. Ramsey made her trip by bus and on foot and lived in simple rooms with private families, chiefly in Holland, Germany and Austria. She ate with Europeans having European snacks instead of regular meals. Speaking of her summer, Dr. Ramsey says this gave her ample opportunity to talk to plain people to ascertain what they think and feel, even though Europeans in general are reserved in talking with strangers. She stressed that she attended no official conferences, and interviewed no offical people.

Leaving here June 16, Dr. Ramsey sailed on a student council boat leaving Quebec, June 20 and returned August 29. She spent a short time in Britain before going to the Continent where, besides obtaining the reactions of the Europeans, she visited business establishments as well as seeing the usual cathedrals, chateaux and attended various concerts and theatrical performances, including all the July performances of the music festival in Holland. Dr. Ramsay saw the entire process of diamond cutting, wooden shoe manufacture and wine making.

Dr. Ramsey conducts college classes in history, sociology, and government and with Dr. Howard Louis Briggs is co-advisor to the Frostburg Teachers College International Relations Club.

A native of Maryland, Dr. Ramsay holds her master and doctorate from the University of Wisconsin and received her BA from Goucher College. She did part-time teaching while doing her doctorate study. During summers she covered most of the United States on the traveling university and taught history at the same time. During the war she taught at the University of Colorado, University of Tennessee and Carleton College, Minnesota. Just before coming to Frostburg she was on the faculty of Penn State University, Hazleton Center.

Last summer Dr. Ramsay was in New England, working at Harvard, and attended several musical festivals at the edge of the Berkshires, including the Jacobs Tillow Dance Festival, South Mountain Chamber Music Festival and New York Pro R-Musica Antiqua in which Frostburg's Betty Wilson was a performer. The summer before Dr. Ramsay was in Europe on a conducted tour covering Switzerland, Southern France and Italy.

Pennies Legal Tender? U.S. Code Says Yes And No

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Out in Downey, Calif., the other day, Raymond P. Vinzant tried to pay off an $88.19 debt by dumping 8,819 pennies on Anthony J. Rivera's sidewalk.

Rivera promptly yelled, Foul! It wasn't legal tender, Rivera said, and Municipal Judge A. Daniel Boone upheld him.

So Vinzant scooped the money back into his bucket and departed with a final shout, "Ft. Knox says these are legal tender."

All of which explains why the guardians of the Ft. Knox gold deposits, the boys at the Treasury Department, were asked today:

What is legal tender? That is, what is a creditor compelled by law to accept as legal payment of a debt?

Well, nothing in this town ever turns out to be simple.

In one place the U.S. Code plainly says that pennies and nickels are legal tender in payments up to 25 cents. In another, the code says silver coins of less than $1 are legal tender for sums not exceeding $10.

But an official Treasury pamphlet, "Facts About United States Money," quotes still another portion of the code and says:

"All coins and currencies of the United States (including Federal Reserve notes and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations) . . . are legal tender for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties and dues."

How come the discrepancy?

"I don't know," a legal eagle at the Treasury said. "Look, I'm not trying to duck this question. I really don't know. This is one of those conflicts that would have to be settled in the courts, and so far as I know, it never has been up for decision."

Actually, the question dates back to the time when legal tender really meant something. Various banks issued their own currency, and its value varied. A debtor had to keep a wary eye on the money with which he was paid.

Now not too much attention is paid to legal tender. For example, checks, even a certified one, aren't legal tender. But wouldn't you like to see one show up in the mail today?

Obviously, the U.S. Code on small coins is designed to prevent unnecessary harassment by dumping a bucketful of coins as a debt payment. Yet even here the law isn't consistent. There's nothing to keep anyone from legally paying a debt of $8,819 with 8,819 silver dollars.

Nobody at the Treasury seemed to know what the reaction there would be if you tried to pay a tax bill in pennies. It seemed generally agreed that if anyone would dump a bucket of pennies on Pennsylvania Avenue, Secretary Humphrey wouldn't go out and pick them up. At least, not personally.

"But if you showed up with a wheelbarrow full of pennies," a Treasury man said, "my guess is we'd take you right back to the money counting machines and start counting."

That's how the Treasury is about money. The consensus was you'd be lucky if you got back your wheelbarrow.

Dread, Mystery Disease Kills Four Brothers

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 29 (AP)—Muscular dystrophy—the dread, mysterious affliction that in effect turns muscle to fat—has claimed the life of the last of the four Herlihy brothers.

Robert, 21, died Tuesday night in Ryburn Memorial Hospital. Jerome Jr., 27, died March 22. Daniel, 20, died June 26, 1953. The first victim, Charron, 18, died Dec. 28, 1948.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Herlihy, now have only one living child, Patricia, 13, an eighth grade pupil in St. Patrick's parochial grade school who has escaped the affliction.

In each case, the disease first struck when the boys were between 6 and 7 years old.

The first sign was lack of muscular control. They fell easily at play. Next came the wheel chair and finally, bed.

Jerome, the first to contract the disease, got to the eighth grade at St. Patrick's. The public schools system sent a teacher to his home to finish the year and he got his high school education by taking a correspondence course.

Robert managed to complete his grade school course at St. Patrick's but his brothers had to be tutored at home.

Their parents said they all maintained a cheerful interest in life until the end.

And, as is characteristic of the disease, the victims maintained the appearance of robust health, even when near death.

Search Planned For Missing Man

A group of volunteers from West Virginia and Maryland will conduct an all-out search today of the banks of the Potomac River near Dawson in an attempt to clear up the mystery posed by the recent discovery of a man's leg.

Edwin R. Lilya, Allegany County investigator, said yesterday that authorities of Cumberland and Keyser, along with volunteers, auxiliary police and volunteer firemen will comb the banks of the river from the point where the bones were found.

NEA Blames Poor Reading On Methods, Not Shortages

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The National Education Assn. cautioned American schools today against blaming poor reading instruction on teacher and classroom shortages.

"As one discusses what he would like to see in the way of future reading emphases," an NEA publication said, "he must face realistically the limitations of increased class size, half-time sessions, inadequately trained teachers and reduced physical facilities.

"The real danger, however, is not so much the existence of limitations as it is that they may become the basis for rationalizing our lack of progress."

The 278-page report, "Reading for Today's Children," is a collection of experiences and recommendations contributed by 70 teachers, principals, supervisors and reading specialists.

"Reading has served its highest purpose," the report says, "when through it children become better, stronger persons. To achieve this end reading must 'come alive' for the child."

Contributors told several ways used around the country to help bring reading alive. One of the guiding principles in a New Jersey school is stated as "to make sure the children have fun" while learning to read.

A teachers in this school took her first graders on an imaginary bus trip, for instance. On the blackboard she chalked such familiar roadside signs as "danger—road under repair," "house for sale" and many more.

"The children nearly burst in their eagerness to read the signs," the report said.

All through the book the point is made that each child has his own timetable of reading accomplishment and that wholesale teaching methods will leave many perfectly intelligent children behind.

Children of elementary school age in the United States average about 25 hours a week watching television.

Dread, Mystery Disease Kills Four Brothers

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 29 (AP)—Muscular dystrophy—the dread, mysterious affliction that in effect turns muscle to fat—has claimed the life of the last of the four Herlihy brothers.

Robert, 21, died Tuesday night in Ryburn Memorial Hospital. Jerome Jr., 27, died March 22. Daniel, 20, died June 26, 1953. The first victim, Charron, 18, died Dec. 28, 1948.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Herlihy, now have only one living child, Patricia, 13, an eighth grade pupil in St. Patrick's parochial grade school who has escaped the affliction.

In each case, the disease first struck when the boys were between 6 and 7 years old.

The first sign was lack of muscular control. They fell easily at play. Next came the wheel chair and finally, bed.

Jerome, the first to contract the disease, got to the eighth grade at St. Patrick's. The public schools system sent a teacher to his home to finish the year and he got his high school education by taking a correspondence course.

Robert managed to complete his grade school course at St. Patrick's but his brothers had to be tutored at home.

Their parents said they all maintained a cheerful interest in life until the end.

And, as is characteristic of the disease, the victims maintained the appearance of robust health, even when near death.

Search Planned For Missing Man

A group of volunteers from West Virginia and Maryland will conduct an all-out search today of the banks of the Potomac River near Dawson in an attempt to clear up the mystery posed by the recent discovery of a man's leg.

Edwin R. Lilya, Allegany County investigator, said yesterday that authorities of Cumberland and Keyser, along with volunteers, auxiliary police and volunteer firemen will comb the banks of the river from the point where the bones were found.

NEA Blames Poor Reading On Methods, Not Shortages

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The National Education Assn. cautioned American schools today against blaming poor reading instruction on teacher and classroom shortages.

"As one discusses what he would like to see in the way of future reading emphases," an NEA publication said, "he must face realistically the limitations of increased class size, half-time sessions, inadequately trained teachers and reduced physical facilities.

"The real danger, however, is not so much the existence of limitations as it is that they may become the basis for rationalizing our lack of progress."

The 278-page report, "Reading for Today's Children," is a collection of experiences and recommendations contributed by 70 teachers, principals, supervisors and reading specialists.

"Reading has served its highest purpose," the report says, "when through it children become better, stronger persons. To achieve this end reading must 'come alive' for the child."

Contributors told several ways used around the country to help bring reading alive. One of the guiding principles in a New Jersey school is stated as "to make sure the children have fun" while learning to read.

A teachers in this school took her first graders on an imaginary bus trip, for instance. On the blackboard she chalked such familiar roadside signs as "danger—road under repair," "house for sale" and many more.

"The children nearly burst in their eagerness to read the signs," the report said.

All through the book the point is made that each child has his own timetable of reading accomplishment and that wholesale teaching methods will leave many perfectly intelligent children behind.

Children of elementary school age in the United States average about 25 hours a week watching television.

Seasonal Work Possible For Elderly Individuals

More part time or seasonal work is possible for beneficiaries of the old-age and survivors insurance system without loss of their social security payments. New provisions of the law, now effective, permit beneficiaries under age 72 to supplement their benefits with earnings from employment. There are no earnings restrictions on beneficiaries over age 72.

The new provision has particular advantages for beneficiaries who have seasonal employment opportunities. Previously they lost benefit payments for any month in which their earnings exceeded $75. Now, high monthly earnings in a seasonal industry will require no suspension of payments unless the yearly total exceeds $1,200. Beneficiaries should be aware, however, that earnings in excess of $1,200 may cause suspension of benefit payments at the rate of one month's benefit for each $80 (or part of that amount) over $1,200. A beneficiary who has earned $300 a month for four months, for example, will lose no benefits. But if he works an additional month and earns $300, his benefits will be withheld for four months. No benefit will be withheld for a month in which neither $80 in wages was earned nor substantial self-employment services were rendered in a trade or business.

Beneficiaries should notify the Social Security Administration if they believe their earnings in 1955 will exceed $1,200. Payments will then be stopped while they are working. At the end of the year adjustment will be made if, based on the annual earnings and the number of months worked, an incorrect number of payments has been withheld.

Further information regarding the provisions of the work clause can be obtained by inquiring at the nearest social security district office.

School Society Elects Heads

Robert Kissner, senior, has been elected president of the Allegany High School Chapter of the National Honor Society. Other officers elected, also seniors, include:

Sondra Wagner, vice president; Patricia Phillips, recording secretary, and Denese Sheehe, treasurer. Members of the faculty advisory council for the chapter were also selected.

Chairman of the council is Mrs. Mary Hinze, head of the school's English Department. Other members are Miss Margaret Baker, history instructor; Miss Betsy Rankin, English instructor, and Miss Olive Simpson, democracy instructor.

Plans for an induction ceremony are being handled by a committee composed of Patricia Kerns, chairman, Alice Hagan, Carol Hersch and Miss Wagner. The induction will be held February 15, at which time 17 junior students will be admitted into the society, thus meeting the chapter's quota of 40 members.

Revision of the point system for selecting members will be discussed at a future meeting of the officers and faculty council.

Davies Is Wanted In Indiana

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said yesterday that Indiana authorities have been contacted about the Frostburg man who escaped from the Warren Prison Farm in Indiana in 1954.

Lilya said the Indiana authorities want Joseph D. Davies, 43, of Frostburg, returned, but it is still not known whether he will fight extradition or not.

Davies turned himself over to Sheriff Edward Muir several days ago to be returned to the Indiana State Penitentiary from where he escaped a year and a half ago.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (INS) — Admiral Erich Raeder, released the other day from Spandau, where the shabby spectres of Hitler's inner circle are imprisoned, suffered more openly on the witness stand at the Nuremberg trials than any fellow war criminal.

He was haunted by a document which narrowly missed being read into the record. Had it been read, and the opportunity arose for the other Nazis to get at him, he might not now be alive.

While under questioning by Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, then assistant prosecutor for the British and now home secretary, Raeder became all but apopletic when Fyfe started to offer a certain paper in evidence.

The German admiral beckoned his lawyer to his side, whispered in a most anguished way, and the lawyer then formally objected to the introduction of the still unrevealed paper.

Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, asked to see the document, read it and declared a ten-minute recess in his chambers. There he conferred with, among others, Judges Francis Biddle and John J. Parker of the U. S.

During the recess nearly everyone except the defendants and their guards left the courtroom for a smoke. The Nazi big-wigs put aside their earphones. Raeder remained in the witness chair, pulled his lawyer to his side and quietly began explaining his terror, making certain that his fellow defendants were not listening.

But he overlooked a man and an electronic device. The man was Capt. Harry Sperber, U. S. Army, working a cross-word puzzle in the interpreters' box; the device was the witness chair's microphone. Raeder had forgotten to turn it off. By chance Sperber had not taken off his earphones.

"For God's sake do anything you can to keep them from reading this paper in public!" Raeder quietly but tensely instructed his counsel. "Oh, how did I know that I would ever be brought to Nuremburg . . . how did I know?"

The lawyer was puzzled and asked for details. Sperber was no longer working on his cross-word. He was taking the notes he gave me today.

"I was captured by the Russians at the end of the war," Raeder explained. "They found me and my wife in our house near Berlin. They took us to Moscow. I thought this was the end: They would send me to Siberia and I would never see Germany again.

"Then they began asking my opinions of Hitler and Goering and Himmler and all the others there," he said, nodding to the defendants' box. "I thought I would never see these men again so I told the Russians what I had really thought of all them.

"Can't you see my position? This document is full of what I said about Goering, Keitel and the others. If my remarks become public, I don't know what will happen to me. And it surely will throw the whole defense into an uproar."

The judges filed back in and ruled that the document would be accepted in evidence but not read publicly. Raeder's wheeze of relief whistled through Sperber's earphones.

Later, Sir Geoffrey permitted Sperber to see the paper. In it Raeder described Goering as "a fat, greedy, untidy pig who would step across dead bodies to attain what he wanted for himself."

Field Marshal Friedrich Keitel was "a frightened boy scout who would lick the boots of anyone, especially those of Hitler, to advance himself." Raeder's next in command, Adm. Karl Doenitz, was called "a ruthless opportunist of limited ability."

Goering committed suicide, Keitel was hanged, Doenitz got ten years and will be out a year hence. The others, at long last, will know now what their salty old co-conspirator truly thought of them.

The German admiral beckoned his lawyer to his side, whispered in a most anguished way, and the lawyer then formally objected to the introduction of the still unrevealed paper.

Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, asked to see the document, read it and declared a ten-minute recess in his chambers. There he conferred with, among others, Judges Francis Biddle and John J. Parker of the U. S.

During the recess nearly everyone except the defendants and their guards left the courtroom for a smoke. The Nazi big-wigs put aside their earphones. Raeder remained in the witness chair, pulled his lawyer to his side and quietly began explaining his terror, making certain that his fellow defendants were not listening.

But he overlooked a man and an electronic device. The man was Capt. Harry Sperber, U. S. Army, working a cross-word puzzle in the interpreters' box; the device was the witness chair's microphone. Raeder had forgotten to turn it off. By chance Sperber had not taken off his earphones.

"For God's sake do anything you can to keep them from reading this paper in public!" Raeder quietly but tensely instructed his counsel. "Oh, how did I know that I would ever be brought to Nuremburg . . . how did I know?"

The lawyer was puzzled and asked for details. Sperber was no longer working on his cross-word. He was taking the notes he gave me today.

"I was captured by the Russians at the end of the war," Raeder explained. "They found me and my wife in our house near Berlin. They took us to Moscow. I thought this was the end: They would send me to Siberia and I would never see Germany again.

"Then they began asking my opinions of Hitler and Goering and Himmler and all the others there," he said, nodding to the defendants' box. "I thought I would never see these men again so I told the Russians what I had really thought of all them.

"Can't you see my position? This document is full of what I said about Goering, Keitel and the others. If my remarks become public, I don't know what will happen to me. And it surely will throw the whole defense into an uproar."

The judges filed back in and ruled that the document would be accepted in evidence but not read publicly. Raeder's wheeze of relief whistled through Sperber's earphones.

Later, Sir Geoffrey permitted Sperber to see the paper. In it Raeder described Goering as "a fat, greedy, untidy pig who would step across dead bodies to attain what he wanted for himself."

Field Marshal Friedrich Keitel was "a frightened boy scout who would lick the boots of anyone, especially those of Hitler, to advance himself." Raeder's next in command, Adm. Karl Doenitz, was called "a ruthless opportunist of limited ability."

Goering committed suicide, Keitel was hanged, Doenitz got ten years and will be out a year hence. The others, at long last, will know now what their salty old co-conspirator truly thought of them.

WORK TOWARDS IKE'S RECOVERY

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

You may think they're just lucky — but few women were actually born with beautiful legs. Perfect leglines even among the outstanding Powers models didn't just happen. They're the result of special effort, often by girls whose legs were once far from what they wanted them to be.

Perfect legs have the refinement of curves and the muscle tone that only correct exercise can produce. And legs stay perfect only by keeping up the exercising. They hold their lines by remaining supple and firm.

All this adds up to the fact that every woman should go in for leg exercise, whether her aim is toward correcting proportions or keeping those she has. But of all types of exercises, leg routines are among the easiest. To make taking on graceful lines a breeze for you, specialists at the Powers school have simplified them to these sure-fire two:

1. Stand with one hand on a chair back. Snap your right leg up in front of you with the knee bent double. Kick forward sharply, then backward. Make it brisk, kick hard. Repeat to total five times for the right, then five for the left. Now, for the next five kicks with each leg, increase speed. Slow the movement for the next double five, then speed again. Swing into a bracing rhythm.

2. The riding-a-bicycle stand-by, but our experts are very specific about how to do it to make it count most. Lie on your back on the floor. Boost your hips into the air and support them on your hands. Pedal is if you were pulling hard up a mountain, slowly, steadily and with all your might. Twenty revolutions for each leg, and the more slowly and vigorously you pedal the sooner you'll see wonderfully gratifying results.

Tomorrow—Grown-up clothes are in order.

Sulphur is an important ingredient that helps give the skunk's secretion its evil odor. Paradoxically, the skunk's must provides a component for making perfumes.

Negotiations May Resume In Poultry Plant Strike

Early Settlement Hoped For By Both Company And Union

MOOREFIELD — A spokesman for the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative at Richmond said yesterday negotiations between the company and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union are being conducted through a third party.

The last bargaining session was held last Friday at Washington, but since this third party has been studying the situation, spokesmen indicated that meetings between both sides are expected to resume in a day or two.

Company officials said a serious effort is being made to find a compromise acceptable to both sides.

The union requested a pay raise of $1.25 an hour from the 89 cents now paid production workers. The company offered to raise the rate 17½ cents an hour to $1.06½.

The union wants hospital insurance now carried on employes extended by the company to cover all members of each employe's family. The union wants more paid holidays and a 32-hour guaranteed work week.

It was the guaranteed work week, spokesmen indicate, which was the stumbling block to an early agreement.

Despite these indications, however, that some progress is being made by officials of both the cooperative and the union, striking workers at Moorefield still continued what townspeople call "rowdyism and vandalism."

Picketing at the local plant was quieter yesterday, and 40 workers reported to their jobs. The number returning to work has mounted each day. The plant employs 130 production workers.

During the night, however, some of the strikers roamed the town in cars, stopped in front of the homes of workers and jeered and shouted threats. George Weese Jr. reported that a stone was thrown through the window of his automobile, parked in front of his house.

Hayward Helman said pickets had visited his home and yesterday morning when he drove his car to work, he discovered the fluid had been drained from his brakes.

In the meantime, four West Virginia state troopers, assigned to two cruiser cars, are in Moorefield keeping disturbance at a minimum.

Yesterday the mayor of the town deputized William Speach, a town employe, to assist Police Chief Gilbert Robinette during the strike.

Speach, a Navy chief petty officer during World War II, has been employed by the town of Moorefield as assistant superintendent at the town's water filtration plant.

Police reported that more roofing nails were strewn in an area near the poultry plant, but no more cars were damaged. Wednesday, three motorists had punctured tires as a result of this vandalism. Two of the victims had no connection with or interest in the strike.

The cooperative plants at Richmond, Winchester and Broadway, Va., remained on strike, but were in production up to 50 per cent. No disorder was reported in any of these communities.

Townspeople here said it is most unfortunate that Moorefield, which has one of the firm's newer and more modern plants, should be the scene of the type of picketing that this week has brought. Many business people agree the workers are entitled to higher pay, but deplore the use of violence and vandalism.

Late last night, however, the situation was reported quieter than it had been. The strike enters its fifth day today.

During the past two weeks cottage prayer meetings have been held in the homes of members of the congregation. He contends that all spiritual revivals in religious history have come as a direct result of prayer on the part of people who have been concerned.

Negotiations May Resume In Poultry Plant Strike

Early Settlement Hoped For By Both Company And Union

MOOREFIELD — A spokesman for the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative at Richmond said yesterday negotiations between the company and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union are being conducted through a third party.

The last bargaining session was held last Friday at Washington, but since this third party has been studying the situation, spokesmen indicated that meetings between both sides are expected to resume in a day or two.

Company officials said a serious effort is being made to find a compromise acceptable to both sides.

The union requested a pay raise of $1.25 an hour from the 89 cents now paid production workers. The company offered to raise the rate 17½ cents an hour to $1.06½.

The union wants hospital insurance now carried on employes extended by the company to cover all members of each employe's family. The union wants more paid holidays and a 32-hour guaranteed work week.

It was the guaranteed work week, spokesmen indicate, which was the stumbling block to an early agreement.

Despite these indications, however, that some progress is being made by officials of both the cooperative and the union, striking workers at Moorefield still continued what townspeople call "rowdyism and vandalism."

Picketing at the local plant was quieter yesterday, and 40 workers reported to their jobs. The number returning to work has mounted each day. The plant employs 130 production workers.

During the night, however, some of the strikers roamed the town in cars, stopped in front of the homes of workers and jeered and shouted threats. George Weese Jr. reported that a stone was thrown through the window of his automobile, parked in front of his house.

Hayward Helman said pickets had visited his home and yesterday morning when he drove his car to work, he discovered the fluid had been drained from his brakes.

In the meantime, four West Virginia state troopers, assigned to two cruiser cars, are in Moorefield keeping disturbance at a minimum.

Yesterday the mayor of the town deputized William Speach, a town employe, to assist Police Chief Gilbert Robinette during the strike.

Speach, a Navy chief petty officer during World War II, has been employed by the town of Moorefield as assistant superintendent at the town's water filtration plant.

Police reported that more roofing nails were strewn in an area near the poultry plant, but no more cars were damaged. Wednesday, three motorists had punctured tires as a result of this vandalism. Two of the victims had no connection with or interest in the strike.

The cooperative plants at Richmond, Winchester and Broadway, Va., remained on strike, but were in production up to 50 per cent. No disorder was reported in any of these communities.

Townspeople here said it is most unfortunate that Moorefield, which has one of the firm's newer and more modern plants, should be the scene of the type of picketing that this week has brought. Many business people agree the workers are entitled to higher pay, but deplore the use of violence and vandalism.

Late last night, however, the situation was reported quieter than it had been. The strike enters its fifth day today.

Truck Is Hit On RR Crossing

Workmen of the Western Maryland Railway Company yesterday were replacing ties and straightening track at a Big Savage Mountain crossing where a switcher engine collided with a truck stalled across the tracks.

The bed of the truck was thrown to the side of the railroad right-of-way. Driver of the vehicle, Ernest Smith, was uninjured. The truck bed came to a rest approximately 100 feet from where the mishap took place.

The driver of the truck, was descending the mountain with a load of fire clay when the truck stalled on the tracks. The train was "deadheading" from Deal, Pa., and the engineer could not see the crossing in time to stop. Smith left the truck when he heard the train approaching and tried unsuccessfully to flag it down.

The damage to the engine was estimated at $350, while the truck was demolished.

America's Indians Have Their Troubles

American Indians, it seems, are having their troubles with the problem of juvenile delinquency. A U. S. Senate report reveals an increase in crime among minors on Indian reservations and in some cases the upsurge is rising above the national average.

Released by Senator William Langer of North Dakota, whose home state contains several reservations, the report was highly critical of the government's handling of Indian problems and the status of Indians as wards of the United States.

In part, the report said, "The subcommittee finds that the major contributing factors to the delinquency among Indian children are poverty and poor living conditions; lack of effective law and order; disorganized, weak and broken family life; poor educational programs, and the difficulties in making the transition from an old to a new culture."

Further, these troubles "seem to have been accentuated by the guardian-ward relationship and by the fumbling, inconsistent, inadequate federal policy on Indian affairs which, over the past 100 years, has completely reversed its course."

Many times over the years there has been agitation in Congress and elsewhere to educate and rehabilitate the American Indian to prepare him for his rightful place as an American citizen, without any guardian-ward entanglements. While the lot of the Indians has been improved somewhat in the past 50 years, progress toward the ultimate end has been slow.

Perhaps this Senate report will give the impetus needed to stimulate action. Consisting of 239 pages, the volume is most comprehensive in listing in detail the sources of the Indians' troubles and the reasons for the juvenile crime increase. Now that the report has shown the trouble spots, perhaps senators from the 26 states containing reservations will attempt to follow through with legislative action.

Marshall's Anniversary

The celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Marshall (born September 24, 1755) this year ought to focus attention upon the peculiar role which the Supreme Court plays in the governmental structure of the United States. No other country possesses a similar institution. No court in Great Britain, for instance, can declare an act of Parliament unconstitutional, although Parliament can and does place restraints upon the monarch.

The nature of the Supreme Court, as defined in the Constitution and as it developed over the years, is a product of our federal system and the historic fact that each state is sovereign by its own right. Former Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes states this in most cogent language:

". . . The proposed federal government was of necessity, in view of the existence of the states and of the sentiment which supported them as autonomous within their spheres, to be one of limited powers . . ."

Obviously an arbiter, an umpire, had to be established to protect each state in its rights and at the same time to prevent the federal government from collapsing from want of authority. There was great difference of opinion among the founding fathers as to how much power was to be delegated to the federal government. Those who followed the ideas of Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay favored a powerful federal government; those who followed the judgment of Thomas Jefferson supported the idea of a weak federal government with considerable emphasis on states' rights.

Hamilton ,in "The Federalist," described the Supreme Court, as it appeared in the Constitution, as follows:

". . . The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society; and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither force nor will, but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the aid of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments.

"This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably, that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks . . ."

Hamilton wanted the court to be more effective and stronger than the Constitution made it. That task fell to John Marshall who accomplished it by a series of fundamental decisions. In these days the Supreme Court is extraordinarily powerful; it exercises a power over both the executive and the legislative branches of government by a veto power, not stipulated in the Constitution but developed in the decisions of John Marshall, the acceptance of which by the people has given the court a moral force of extraordinary dimensions.

John Marshall was the third chief justice of the United States, the first being John Jay. (Rutledge was not confirmed.) Marshall served from 1801 to 1835 which gave him a long tenure during the formative years of our history. Marshall was a believer in strong federal government, differing from his cousin, Thomas Jefferson, who starting as his political opponent became his personal enemy.

It was the Supreme Court, under the leadership of John Marshall, rather than the Constitution itself, which established the great powers of the federal government. It was in Marbury vs. Madison that John Marshall leading the entire court laid down a rule, not explicitly stated in the Constitution, that the Supreme Court had the power to declare an act of Congress null and void on constitutional grounds. Marshall did not establish a basis in law or in precedent; he rather argued that as the Constitution is the supreme law of the land, whatever is repugnant to the Constitution must be null and void and that there must be an agency of government with power so to declare.

He said: ". . . the particular phraseology of the Constitution of the United States confirms and strengthens the principle, supposed to be essential to all written constitutions, that a law repugnant to the constitution is void, and that courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument." From that day to this, the court has so held and the people have upheld the court in that interpretation of the power of the court.

Red Leaders Rebuke U. S. Senators On Refusing To Sell Food To Russia

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Word has reached the Agriculture Department that Russia is still anxious to make a deal for surplus U. S. food. The offer came from Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev himself during a private audience in Moscow with five U. S. senators.

The question was brought up by farm-minded Sen. Milt Young, North Dakota Republican, who asked whether it would be possible for America to trade surplus American crops to Russia.

"It not only would be possible but desirable," replied Khrushchev through an interpreter.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat, then launched into a technical discussion of the two nations' farm problems. At one point, Khrushchev remarked mischievously: "You have helped us to be self-sufficient by refusing to sell us surplus food."

He referred to the Soviet program to bring new farm land under cultivation. The American agricultural attache later confirmed to the senators that Russia has opened 75,000,000 acres to farming.

This was forced, in part, by the administration's refusal to sell surplus food behind the iron curtain. The Russians can thank Sen. Joe McCarthy, who raised such a clamor against trade with the Soviet bloc that the administration lost its nerve and dropped plans for a sale. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has repeatedly recommended disposing of our surplus crops behind the curtain, but Secretary of Commerce Weeks fought against it. Finally the administration, worried about the political repercussions of McCarthy's clamor, sided with Weeks.

It now looks is if McCarthy and Weeks indirectly aided the Soviet farm program.

NOTE: Khrushchev also let the senators know he was annoyed with the Voice of America. "You can hardly call that a friendly voice," he snorted, though he added tauntingly: "You fellows have been traveling around Russia. How many Voice of America partisans did you find?"

He Spoke Too Soon

More than 40 senators and congressmen went to Russia this summer. And only one was refused a visa. He is Congressman W. R. Poage of Texas, who was promised a visa but didn't get it at the last minute.

Poage and Congressman Harold Cooley of North Carolina, Democrats, went together to the Russian embassy before leaving Washington where they were assured they could pick up their visas in Helsinki at the Interparliamentary Union.

On the same day the visas were supposed to be ready, however, Poage made an anti-Communist speech at Helsinki. Speaking on disarmament plan, he declared that the Reds should agree to Ike's inspection plan, warned that past experience of the U. S. made us reluctant to place our trust in words alone.

"We don't want coexistence, but cooperation," he said. "The Soviet nations should stop shooting down unarmed planes . . . Our prisoners should be released by the Reds... I will never take the bloody hand of the Chinese Communists as long as a single American boy remains in a Chinese jail."

Result: that afternoon Harold Cooley and the others got their visas, but there was none for Poage. He went to the Soviet embassy to inquire. Everyone played dumb. He then went to the Soviet delegation to the Interparliamentary Union. No results. Finally he had U. S. Ambassador Jack McFall telephone Ambassador Chip Bohlen in Moscow. Bohlen went to the Kremlin to inquire. Again everyone played dumb.

Poage finally gave up, turned over to Cooley the Helsinki-Moscow-Warsaw reservation he had prudently secured beforehand. Cooley took off for Moscow, Poage came back to Texas. He had spoken too soon.

Railroad Tax Write-Offs

House investigators are preparing a blistering report, charging that tax write-offs for new freight cars benefited the railroads but not the public and suggesting that maybe the government ought to stockpile freight cars for an emergency.

Pointing out that the railroads have been junking old freight cars faster than they have been building new ones, the confidential investigators' report declares, "While the private interests of the railroads have been well served, the public interest has been ignored completely."

The confidential report was prepared by investigators for a House Government Operations Subcommittee and, as now written, rips into the railroads for accepting $1,500,000,000 in tax write-offs while failing to build up the nation's freight-car fleet.

During the last five years of rapid tax amortization the report asserts, railroad earnings "have substantially improved over the previous five years and in some instances equalled the earning during World War II. However, combination of high earnings and rapid tax amortization from 1950 to 1955 have failed to produce as many new cars as were installed in the previous five-year period. From these facts it is difficult to reach any conclusion other than that the railroads have substantially improved their business operation and financial condition and at the same time have failed completely to expand the nation's defense railway transportation potential."

"Rapid tax amortization was granted to any railroad purchasing a freight car," the report also charges. "No application was denied on the grounds that it represented a replacement."

Sale Of Arms To Egypt Can Affect U. S. Politics

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The big story today in national politics is not confined to the effect of President Eisenhower's illness on the 1956 campaign, but it directly and concretely involves what policies the Department of State eventually adopts toward the sale by Soviet Russia of arms to Egypt. For these policies can have a clear-cut and controlling impact on the electoral vote of New York State and other key states, too.

To understand the deep-seated implications of that story, it is necessary to bear in mind that a large part of the Jewish vote—for sentimental reasons similar to those which for years motivated Irish voters in America who were interested in the independence of Ireland—is decidedly sympathetic to Israel. Any move which helps Egypt to harass the little republic in the future will have its serious repercussions in certain big cities which can influence greatly where the electoral vote goes in New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Pennsylvania and other states.

Truman Sympathy Outspoken

In 1948, when President Truman was a candidate to succeed himself, he had a hard time raising money for his campaign. Governor Dewey was out in front, and all the polls indicated that he would win easily. It was important for the Trumanites to raise not a few dollars but big money to pay for radio time and other vitally important expenses of the last few weeks of the campaign. Mr. Truman's statements about Palestine, promising recognition and loans to Israel, got a better reception than the views of Dewey on the same subject. In the State Department there was a lukewarm attitude toward Israel. Indeed, efforts to get a loan from the American government for the fledgling republic were reported as being blocked in the Department of State because of the pressure of certain American companies with interests in the Arab world.

Mr. Truman changed everything. He was outspoken in his sympathy for Israel and, without the funds that came from Jewish sources, veteran Democrats familiar with what happened say the 1948 campaign couldn't have been financed.

Both Republican and Democratic candidates for high office and local posts have had to declare themselves on the Israel issue in certain localities, and in varying degrees they have usually shown a desire by such tactics to win the Jewish vote.

Important Political Factor

Today Israel is an important factor in American politics, as all practical politicians will acknowledge. The hostility between Israel and the Arab states has led Soviet Russia to meddle in troubled waters. Earlier this week the news leaked out that the United States was willing "in principle" to sell arms to Egypt. The State Department hinted that this was not by any means a consummated arrangement, but merely a proclamation of willingness to sell arms only for local defense and protection against aggression.

But almost immediately afterward came the news that the government of Czechoslovakia, a puppet of Moscow, had agreed to sell Egypt all the arms sought by that country, and that the United States government had really been trying to stall the shipment of arms into the Middle East. Confused reports from Great Britain, saying that the British opposed the American plan to sell arms to Egypt, were clarified later by a joint statement by Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Minister Macmillan in New York. They explained that the two governments were in agreement. It was apparent they hoped to forestall the sale of any Communist arms to Egypt.

What seems to be called for in the present circumstances is a limitation on arms to the whole area, at least until the exact purpose and possible use of such arms are clarified. A warning to both Cairo and Moscow that no arms shall be brought in until the present tension between the countries of the Middle East is clarified, would appear to be inevitable. Secretary Dulles has already approached Foreign Minister Molotov on the subject.

Significant Development

It certainly seems a paradox that the Moscow government, which has been preaching peace and disarmament for the last several months, should be so ready to arm Egypt, whose only reason for seeking such arms is considered by Israel's supporters to be the potential use of such arms against Israel. Certainly there is no danger of an attack on Egypt from Soviet Russia, nor of any attack by any other country outside the Middle East.

The NATO organization is an example of a military setup that is international rather than national. The same formula of integrated military units on a regional basis could be applied to the Middle East if the Western powers took a firm stand. To allow Egypt to become an armed ally of Soviet Russia would be a victory for the Communists in the "cold war." To persuade Egypt to avoid alignment with the Communists who would stir up more friction with Israel becomes a logical aim of Anglo-American policy. It is a significant development in the whole "cold war," as well as in American politics.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Rest of America must be guzzle-stuffed with New York getting both ends of the Series every season.

The Dodgers had it salted away like a fish on a whaler. It took the Yanks longer than getting a schoolboy off on a winter morning.

But they eventually copped when the Clevelands folded like the insides of a Pullman sleeper.

We figured the Red Sox and the White Sox had a better chance than a butcher's cat. But they didn't match.

Leo Durocher was fired for finishing third. Which proves New York standards of excellence are higher than a fellow dropping an egg in his beer.

But it's a good town for visitors. If you don't win the $64,000 question, Strike It Rich or cop a bet on the Series, you can always go on relief.

Counting the ball parks and the hotel lobbies we have seating capacity for about two million people.

Republican Disarray

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Even while President Eisenhower is courageously struggling with his illness in his Denver hospital bed, the drive is already taking shape to make him run again despite his heart attack.

Chairman Leonard Hall of the Republican National Committee has declared that he still hopes the President will head the party ticket in 1956. Hall's subordinates swear that Hall really means what he says. They also give all sorts of elaborate reasons why Hall's hopes may turn out to be well-founded, if the President makes the good recovery the whole country prays for.

Chairman Hall is not alone, either. Among other Republican leaders and in the party rank and file, everyone is automatically repeating Dr. Paul D. White's statement that the President will be theoretically fit to run again, if his recovery progresses satisfactorily. Dr. White's opinion has already become a sort of Republican slogan. And this sort of thing will quite certainly become more and more widespread and overt as the President's health improves.

Pressure Is Shocking

In fact, however, it is obviously unrealistic and even pretty shocking to continue the pressure on the President to seek another term. In the first place, the Republicans had portrayed it as a wicked act for President Roosevelt to seek a fourth term when he was not in tip-top physical condition.

Yet when Roosevelt accepted the nomination, he was no more than a little wearied by the burden of his office. Contrary to common legend, he had had no warning heart attack or any other recent illness more serious than bronchitis. Furthermore, he had just been certified as entirely sound by battalions of doctors, including the great and incorruptible Dr. Frank Lahey of the Lahey Clinic. And Roosevelt in 1944 was more than three years younger than Eisenhower will be in 1956.

Quite aside from this parallel which ought to be decisive, there are current and highly practical reasons why it is unrealistic for the Republicans to pretend that Eisenhower will now go forward as though the recent tragedy had really never happened.

It is an open secret that even before his heart attack, the President was reluctant to run, while his wife and son were bitterly opposed to his doing so. He had just about made up his mind that he would have to run, all the same, because of the continuous pleas by Gov. Sherman Adams, Chairman Hall and almost everyone else around him that "it was his duty to finish the job."

But all that is changed now. The President cannot any longer be pressured to run, because no one will dare to pressure him after what has happened. It is no man's duty to run for the Presidency after a coronary thrombosis. The U. S. Army, in which the President was trained, has a strong contrary tradition that a commanding officer whose health is at all impaired has a positive duty to hand his command over to another.

Premature Surrender

By any honest assessment, in truth, the growing talk about the President running again in spite of his heart attack is nothing more nor less than a symptom of Republican disarray. The Republican leaders have no idea, for the moment, which way to turn or what to do or where to look.

Yet by the normal rules of politics, this Republican surrender to panic is almost ludicrously premature. The world's seemingly peaceful state may be phony or it may be real. But for practical political purposes, the Republicans in 1956 will still be able to use "peace" as one glorious plank in their platform. And unless things go very wrong in the next 12 months, they will also be able to use "prosperity" as the other glorious plank.

Most political carpenters believe that a platform that has those two planks hardly needs any others. Why, then, does panic prevail?

The answer seems to be that the terrible misfortune of the President's illness has brought the Republicans face to face with the terrible folly of their own self-indulgence. Until now, they have left almost the whole task of vote-getting to the President. They have not undertaken the hard and necessary task of transforming their party into an Eisenhower party. The proof of their folly came to them in the 1954 congressional election, but they went right on relying on the President to win for them in 1956.

Requirements Not Impossible

There is no visible reason, however, why the Republican leaders cannot now do what they ought to have done before. They have no right to plead with the President to run again. Unless he actively wishes to run, which seems highly improbable, he has a right to be let alone on this point. But the Republican leaders will certainly be justified, if the President makes a good recovery, in asking him to chart the party's course and prevent party discord by nominating his own successor.

A candidate who can be presented as a true Eisenhower man, a party that the country believes is truly an Eisenhower party—these are the ony requirements the Republicans must fulfill, in order to regain their former confidence. And they are not impossible requirements to fulfill, either.

Radioactive Cobalt Helps To Prevent Trichinosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Everyone knows that pork and meat products containing pork should be cooked thoroughly to prevent trichinosis. Fresh pork roasts and chops must be cooked from 35 to 40 minutes per pound at 325 degrees F.

Frankfurters, hamburgers, sausages, meat loaf, and chop suey also require special precautions, especially when they are obtained from packing houses that are not inspected by the government. These measures must be taken because pork frequently contains live larvae of the trichinella spiralis.

These organisms curl up in the muscle fibers of the animal and when the meat is eaten they are freed and proceed to set up housekeeping in the wall of the upper intestine of the consumer. With heavy infestation, so much irritation may be produced the victim develops nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea.

When the infecting dose is small the migration causes no symptoms. Within five to seven days the young trichinae find their way into the circulation which distributes them throughout the body. Large families are the rule as these parasites may have 1,500 or more progeny.

The youngsters finally settle in the muscles of the human body where they go into a state of hibernation. For practical purposes, this is the end of their existence because we are not cannibalistic. During this period, the individual usually develops fever, puffiness of the eyelids, and severe muscle pain and spasm.

Several tests can be made to determine whether trichinosis exists but treatment is less satisfactory, as there are no specific remedies. Symptoms may be relieved with cortisone or ACTH but these hormones do not affect the organisms. This is why we must rely so heavily upon prevention.

This should begin with the pigs as 40 per cent of infected swine get the disease from eating commercial raw garbage containing large amounts of meat scraps including contaminated pork. Several states have regulations demanding that hog garbage be cooked thoroughly. Refrigeration at low temperatures also kills trichinae.

The most recent method for making contaminated meat safe for human consumption utilizes radioactive cobalt. Co60 gives off gamma rays that do not alter taste or harm the pork or the consumer. The rays sterilize the females; if irradiated meat is ingested, the parasites set up housekeeping but do not bear young to carry on the strain. Research also is being done on waste fission material for the same purpose.

Try And Stop Me!

When Cleveland Amory's book, "The Last Resorts," appeared, critics everywhere were more than kind. But there remained one fly in Amory's ointment. He never heard from his blueblood parents in Boston.

Finally he phoned them. "Didn't you get the book I sent, Ma?" he asked anxiously. "Yes, son, we got it," was the answer, "but when your father read me the first sentence, neither of us liked it, so we stopped right there."

Hy Gardner turns in a rueful report on a cute little teen-ager he interviewed. "I'm too old," she told Hy without blinking an eyelash, "to count on my fingers, but still too young to count on my legs. And when I grow up I wanna get divorced in the same dress my ma was divorced in."

Jess Denious has a new definition of the word "friend." It's a person who listens in rapt attention while you say nothing.

America's Indians Have Their Troubles

American Indians, it seems, are having their troubles with the problem of juvenile delinquency. A U. S. Senate report reveals an increase in crime among minors on Indian reservations and in some cases the upsurge is rising above the national average.

Released by Senator William Langer of North Dakota, whose home state contains several reservations, the report was highly critical of the government's handling of Indian problems and the status of Indians as wards of the United States.

In part, the report said, "The subcommittee finds that the major contributing factors to the delinquency among Indian children are poverty and poor living conditions; lack of effective law and order; disorganized, weak and broken family life; poor educational programs, and the difficulties in making the transition from an old to a new culture."

Further, these troubles "seem to have been accentuated by the guardian-ward relationship and by the fumbling, inconsistent, inadequate federal policy on Indian affairs which, over the past 100 years, has completely reversed its course."

Many times over the years there has been agitation in Congress and elsewhere to educate and rehabilitate the American Indian to prepare him for his rightful place as an American citizen, without any guardian-ward entanglements. While the lot of the Indians has been improved somewhat in the past 50 years, progress toward the ultimate end has been slow.

Perhaps this Senate report will give the impetus needed to stimulate action. Consisting of 239 pages, the volume is most comprehensive in listing in detail the sources of the Indians' troubles and the reasons for the juvenile crime increase. Now that the report has shown the trouble spots, perhaps senators from the 26 states containing reservations will attempt to follow through with legislative action.

Marshall's Anniversary

The celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Marshall (born September 24, 1755) this year ought to focus attention upon the peculiar role which the Supreme Court plays in the governmental structure of the United States. No other country possesses a similar institution. No court in Great Britain, for instance, can declare an act of Parliament unconstitutional, although Parliament can and does place restraints upon the monarch.

The nature of the Supreme Court, as defined in the Constitution and as it developed over the years, is a product of our federal system and the historic fact that each state is sovereign by its own right. Former Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes states this in most cogent language:

". . . The proposed federal government was of necessity, in view of the existence of the states and of the sentiment which supported them as autonomous within their spheres, to be one of limited powers . . ."

Obviously an arbiter, an umpire, had to be established to protect each state in its rights and at the same time to prevent the federal government from collapsing from want of authority. There was great difference of opinion among the founding fathers as to how much power was to be delegated to the federal government. Those who followed the ideas of Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay favored a powerful federal government; those who followed the judgment of Thomas Jefferson supported the idea of a weak federal government with considerable emphasis on states' rights.

Hamilton ,in "The Federalist," described the Supreme Court, as it appeared in the Constitution, as follows:

". . . The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society; and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither force nor will, but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the aid of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments.

"This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably, that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks . . ."

Hamilton wanted the court to be more effective and stronger than the Constitution made it. That task fell to John Marshall who accomplished it by a series of fundamental decisions. In these days the Supreme Court is extraordinarily powerful; it exercises a power over both the executive and the legislative branches of government by a veto power, not stipulated in the Constitution but developed in the decisions of John Marshall, the acceptance of which by the people has given the court a moral force of extraordinary dimensions.

John Marshall was the third chief justice of the United States, the first being John Jay. (Rutledge was not confirmed.) Marshall served from 1801 to 1835 which gave him a long tenure during the formative years of our history. Marshall was a believer in strong federal government, differing from his cousin, Thomas Jefferson, who starting as his political opponent became his personal enemy.

It was the Supreme Court, under the leadership of John Marshall, rather than the Constitution itself, which established the great powers of the federal government. It was in Marbury vs. Madison that John Marshall leading the entire court laid down a rule, not explicitly stated in the Constitution, that the Supreme Court had the power to declare an act of Congress null and void on constitutional grounds. Marshall did not establish a basis in law or in precedent; he rather argued that as the Constitution is the supreme law of the land, whatever is repugnant to the Constitution must be null and void and that there must be an agency of government with power so to declare.

He said: ". . . the particular phraseology of the Constitution of the United States confirms and strengthens the principle, supposed to be essential to all written constitutions, that a law repugnant to the constitution is void, and that courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument." From that day to this, the court has so held and the people have upheld the court in that interpretation of the power of the court.

One Man's Heart

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Word has reached the Agriculture Department that Russia is still anxious to make a deal for surplus U. S. food. The offer came from Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev himself during a private audience in Moscow with five U. S. senators.

The question was brought up by farm-minded Sen. Milt Young, North Dakota Republican, who asked whether it would be possible for America to trade surplus American crops to Russia.

"It not only would be possible but desirable," replied Khrushchev through an interpreter.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat, then launched into a technical discussion of the two nations' farm problems. At one point, Khrushchev remarked mischievously: "You have helped us to be self-sufficient by refusing to sell us surplus food."

He referred to the Soviet program to bring new farm land under cultivation. The American agricultural attache later confirmed to the senators that Russia has opened 75,000,000 acres to farming.

This was forced, in part, by the administration's refusal to sell surplus food behind the iron curtain. The Russians can thank Sen. Joe McCarthy, who raised such a clamor against trade with the Soviet bloc that the administration lost its nerve and dropped plans for a sale. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has repeatedly recommended disposing of our surplus crops behind the curtain, but Secretary of Commerce Weeks fought against it. Finally the administration, worried about the political repercussions of McCarthy's clamor, sided with Weeks.

It now looks is if McCarthy and Weeks indirectly aided the Soviet farm program.

NOTE: Khrushchev also let the senators know he was annoyed with the Voice of America. "You can hardly call that a friendly voice," he snorted, though he added tauntingly: "You fellows have been traveling around Russia. How many Voice of America partisans did you find?"

He Spoke Too Soon

More than 40 senators and congressmen went to Russia this summer. And only one was refused a visa. He is Congressman W. R. Poage of Texas, who was promised a visa but didn't get it at the last minute.

Poage and Congressman Harold Cooley of North Carolina, Democrats, went together to the Russian embassy before leaving Washington where they were assured they could pick up their visas in Helsinki at the Interparliamentary Union.

On the same day the visas were supposed to be ready, however, Poage made an anti-Communist speech at Helsinki. Speaking on disarmament plan, he declared that the Reds should agree to Ike's inspection plan, warned that past experience of the U. S. made us reluctant to place our trust in words alone.

"We don't want coexistence, but cooperation," he said. "The Soviet nations should stop shooting down unarmed planes . . . Our prisoners should be released by the Reds. . . I will never take the bloody hand of the Chinese Communists as long as a single American boy remains in a Chinese jail."

Result: that afternoon Harold Cooley and the others got their visas, but there was none for Poage. He went to the Soviet embassy to inquire. Everyone played dumb. He then went to the Soviet delegation to the Interparliamentary Union. No results. Finally he had U. S. Ambassador Jack McFall telephone Ambassador Chip Bohlen in Moscow. Bohlen went to the Kremlin to inquire. Again everyone played dumb.

Poage finally gave up, turned over to Cooley the Helsinki-Moscow-Warsaw reservation he had prudently secured beforehand. Cooley took off for Moscow, Poage came back to Texas. He had spoken too soon.

Railroad Tax Write-Offs

House investigators are preparing a blistering report, charging that tax write-offs for new freight cars benefited the railroads but not the public and suggesting that maybe the government ought to stockpile freight cars for an emergency.

Pointing out that the railroads have been junking old freight cars faster than they have been building new ones, the confidential investigators' report declares, "While the private interests of the railroads have been well served, the public interest has been ignored completely."

The confidential report was prepared by investigators for a House Government Operations Subcommittee and, as now written, rips into the railroads for accepting $1,500,000,000 in tax write-offs while failing to build up the nation's freight-car fleet.

During the last five years of rapid tax amortization the report asserts, railroad earnings "have substantially improved over the previous five years and in some instances equalled the earning during World War II. However, combination of high earnings and rapid tax amortization from 1950 to 1955 have failed to produce as many new cars as were installed in the previous five-year period. From these facts it is difficult to reach any conclusion other than that the railroads have substantially improved their business operation and financial condition and at the same time have failed completely to expand the nation's defense railway transportation potential."

"Rapid tax amortization was granted to any railroad purchasing a freight car," the report also charges. "No application was denied on the grounds that it represented a replacement."

Sale Of Arms To Egypt Can Affect U. S. Politics

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The big story today in national politics is not confined to the effect of President Eisenhower's illness on the 1956 campaign, but it directly and concretely involves what policies the Department of State eventually adopts toward the sale by Soviet Russia of arms to Egypt. For these policies can have a clear-cut and controlling impact on the electoral vote of New York State and other key states, too.

To understand the deep-seated implications of that story, it is necessary to bear in mind that a large part of the Jewish vote—for sentimental reasons similar to those which for years motivated Irish voters in America who were interested in the independence of Ireland—is decidedly sympathetic to Israel. Any move which helps Egypt to harass the little republic in the future will have its serious repercussions in certain big cities which can influence greatly where the electoral vote goes in New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Pennsylvania and other states.

Truman Sympathy Outspoken

In 1948, when President Truman was a candidate to succeed himself, he had a hard time raising money for his campaign. Governor Dewey was out in front, and all the polls indicated that he would win easily. It was important for the Trumanites to raise not a few dollars but big money to pay for radio time and other vitally important expenses of the last few weeks of the campaign. Mr. Truman's statements about Palestine, promising recognition and loans to Israel, got a better reception than the views of Dewey on the same subject. In the State Department there was a lukewarm attitude toward Israel. Indeed, efforts to get a loan from the American government for the fledgling republic were reported as being blocked in the Department of State because of the pressure of certain American companies with interests in the Arab world.

Mr. Truman changed everything. He was outspoken in his sympathy for Israel and, without the funds that came from Jewish sources, veteran Democrats familiar with what happened say the 1948 campaign couldn't have been financed.

Both Republican and Democratic candidates for high office and local posts have had to declare themselves on the Israel issue in certain localities, and in varying degrees they have usually shown a desire by such tactics to win the Jewish vote.

Important Political Factor

Today Israel is an important factor in American politics, as all practical politicians will acknowledge. The hostility between Israel and the Arab states has led Soviet Russia to meddle in troubled waters. Earlier this week the news leaked out that the United States was willing "in principle" to sell arms to Egypt. The State Department hinted that this was not by any means a consummated arrangement, but merely a proclamation of willingness to sell arms only for local defense and protection against aggression.

But almost immediately afterward came the news that the government of Czechoslovakia, a puppet of Moscow, had agreed to sell Egypt all the arms sought by that country, and that the United States government had really been trying to stall the shipment of arms into the Middle East. Confused reports from Great Britain, saying that the British opposed the American plan to sell arms to Egypt, were clarified later by a joint statement by Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Minister Macmillan in New York. They explained that the two governments were in agreement. It was apparent they hoped to forestall the sale of any Communist arms to Egypt.

What seems to be called for in the present circumstances is a limitation on arms to the whole area, at least until the exact purpose and possible use of such arms are clarified. A warning to both Cairo and Moscow that no arms shall be brought in until the present tension between the countries of the Middle East is clarified, would appear to be inevitable. Secretary Dulles has already approached Foreign Minister Molotov on the subject.

Significant Development

It certainly seems a paradox that the Moscow government, which has been preaching peace and disarmament for the last several months, should be so ready to arm Egypt, whose only reason for seeking such arms is considered by Israel's supporters to be the potential use of such arms against Israel. Certainly there is no danger of an attack on Egypt from Soviet Russia, nor of any attack by any other country outside the Middle East.

The NATO organization is an example of a military setup that is international rather than national. The same formula of integrated military units on a regional basis could be applied to the Middle East if the Western powers took a firm stand. To allow Egypt to become an armed ally of Soviet Russia would be a victory for the Communists in the "cold war." To persuade Egypt to avoid alignment with the Communists who would stir up more friction with Israel becomes a logical aim of Anglo-American policy. It is a significant development in the whole "cold war," as well as in American politics.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Rest of America must be guzzle-stuffed with New York getting both ends of the Series every season.

The Dodgers had it salted away like a fish on a whaler. It took the Yanks longer than getting a schoolboy off on a winter morning.

But they eventually copped when the Clevelands folded like the insides of a Pullman sleeper.

We figured the Red Sox and the White Sox had a better chance than a butcher's cat. But they didn't match.

Leo Durocher was fired for finishing third. Which proves New York standards of excellence are higher than a fellow dropping an egg in his beer.

But it's a good town for visitors. If you don't win the $64,000 question, Strike It Rich or cop a bet on the Series, you can always go on relief.

Counting the ball parks and the hotel lobbies we have seating capacity for about two million people.

Republican Disarray

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Even while President Eisenhower is courageously struggling with his illness in his Denver hospital bed, the drive is already taking shape to make him run again despite his heart attack.

Chairman Leonard Hall of the Republican National Committee has declared that he still hopes the President will head the party ticket in 1956. Hall's subordinates swear that Hall really means what he says. They also give all sorts of elaborate reasons why Hall's hopes may turn out to be well-founded, if the President makes the good recovery the whole country prays for.

Chairman Hall is not alone, either. Among other Republican leaders and in the party rank and file, everyone is automatically repeating Dr. Paul D. White's statement that the President will be theoretically fit to run again, if his recovery progresses satisfactorily. Dr. White's opinion has already become a sort of Republican slogan. And this sort of thing will quite certainly become more and more widespread and overt as the President's health improves.

Pressure Is Shocking

In fact, however, it is obviously unrealistic and even pretty shocking to continue the pressure on the President to seek another term. In the first place, the Republicans had portrayed it as a wicked act for President Roosevelt to seek a fourth term when he was not in tip-top physical condition.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

When Cleveland Amory's book, "The Last Resorts," appeared, critics everywhere were more than kind. But there remained one fly in Amory's ointment. He never heard from his blueblood parents in Boston.

Finally he phoned them. "Didn't you get the book I sent, Ma?" he asked anxiously. "Yes, son, we got it," was the answer, "but when your father read me the first sentence, neither of us liked it, so we stopped right there."

Hy Gardner turns in a rueful report on a cute little teen-ager he interviewed. "I'm too old," she told Hy without blinking an eyelash, "to count on my fingers, but still too young to count on my legs. And when I grow up I wanna get divorced in the same dress my ma was divorced in."

Jess Denious has a new definition of the word "friend." It's a person who listens in rapt attention while you say nothing.

Bacon Rolls

Peanut butter and bacon bits team up to make a flavor hit in Bacon Rolls.

Long a favorite combination, crumbled bacon and crunch-style peanut butter meet in new fashion in Bacon Rolls. The rolls are made from a beaten yeast batter that requires no kneading.

You'll find the "wheat and meat" combination of Bacon Rolls makes an ideal pick-up for a light supper of an omelet or souffle, hot vegetable, crisp salad and coffee.

The batter for Bacon Rolls is made with enriched flour to give three B vitamins and food iron. After the batter rises for an hour it is stirred down and spread in a greased, eight-inch square baking pan. Crumbled bacon is sprinkled over the top in rows, dividing the batter into 16 two-inch rolls. Pressing the bacon to the bottom of the pan firmly separates the rolls and gives a "bacony" taste all the way through.

When you haven't time for making yeast rolls at home you can still give your family a variety of tasty, enriched breads. Choose them from the wide selection at your bakery or food store.

Bacon Rolls

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
½ cup milk
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
¼ cup crunch-style peanut butter
1 egg
2 slices bacon

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add brown sugar and salt and cool to lukewarm. Add 1 cup flour and peanut butter and beat until batter is smooth. Add softened yeast and egg. Mix well. Add enough more flour to make a thick batter. Beat thoroughly. Cover and let rise in warm place until bubbly (about 1 hr.). When light, stir down. Fry bacon until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper and crumble lightly. Spread batter into greased 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle crumbled bacon in rows over batter dividing into 16 2-inch squares. With floured finger, press bacon through batter to bottom of pan. Let rise until doubled (about 30 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 16 rolls.

Frozen Dinners Favor Time-Budgeted

What a relief! After a day at work come home to a hot beef roast dinner with Corn O'Brien and buttered green peas. It's a feast without effort with frozen "TV" dinners on hand.

Perhaps you are the "one of four" women who trundles a grocery cart through the food market after working all day at a desk, behind a store counter, or at a soda fountain.

If so, you will be looking for the best way to fit meal preparation into your already too-busy day. How about trying the "look ahead" technique. It gives you extra time to make meals well-rounded.

One help is to be on the look-out for new products with built-in kitchen service . . . like cake mixes, frozen soups, soluable beverages, and frozen prepared dinners. Another tip is to tuck away good, well-rounded menus when you run across them. Then pull them out as needed, to answer that age old question of "what to serve." Clip interesting sounding recipes you see . . . and do make it a point to try at least one each week! This is a good defense tactic. It's guaranteed to outmaneuver the family's complaint of "being tired of the same old thing."

Give, these three menus a try. See how simple it is to serve complete hot meals with the help of frozen "TV" dinners. They are ready and waiting in the grocer's freezer. You'll find Chicken, Beef, and Turkey dinners complete with two vegetables in each. They need only heating to ready them for the dinner table.

Bananas Go Back To School

Mother's unfailing friend for the lunchboxes she sends to school is the obliging banana, wrapped by Nature herself in a germ-proof package, the sunny yellow peel. When she packs this mellow fruit in portable lunches, Mother includes abundant vitamins and minerals, high energy and satiety value, all neatly wrapped and ready to go. A little tip about including bananas in lunchboxes is this: don't rip the banana off a cluster carelessly, because this sometimes opens the top of the banana's peel, and breaks the natural "seal" provided by Mother Nature for each banana.

Some mothers like to send a little cereal and banana lunch to school as a change from sandwiches. For this nourishing treat, choose any favorite among the individual pack ready-to-eat cereals, send along a whole ripe banana, and a little plastic knife such as is used in picnic sets. Milk is often sold at school; if not, send along a thermos of milk to complete this dish. At school, the child opens the cardboard box of ready-to-eat cereal, peels and slices the banana right onto the cereal, pours milk to finish the dish. This gives the child the fun and responsibility of preparing his lunch, and it's a wonderful time-saver for Mother on a busy day.

Be Sure Banana Is Fully Ripe

Bananas for children to eat "as is," and with cereal or milk, should have yellow peel flecked with brown, indicating fruit at peak of flavor, ripeness, sweetness and digestibility. The combination of bananas and milk is recommended by nutritionists as a perfect snack. Served to children as an after school snack, banana and milk will give the youngsters what they need, for the banana allays hunger pangs but does not spoil appetite for dinner, and it is a quick energy pick-up after the school day.

If your youngsters come home to lunch, they will enjoy a nourishing Banana Tuna Salad and you will enjoy its ease of preparation. Bananas go well with a great variety of foods that you can include this favorite fruit of youngsters in main dishes, desserts, breakfasts, lunch-box treats, and snacks, without the youngsters minding one bit. In fact, mothers of young children are well aware that bananas are an essential in the family fruit bowl, because the children find them such fun.

Banana Tuna Salad

1 cup diced ripe bananas* (1 to 2 bananas); ½ cup diced pinapple, canned or fresh; 1½ cups flaked tuna fish; ½ cup diced celery; 2 tablespoons finely chopped pickles; 1½ teaspoons salt; 1 tablespoon prepared mustard; 1 tablespoon mayonnaise; salad greens.

*Use fully ripe banana . . yellow peel flecked with brown. Combine bananas and pineapple. Add tuna fish, celery, pickles, and salt. Add mustard and mayonnaise. Mix lightly. Serve on a crisp lettuce cup or with other salad greens. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A laying hen has a productive life of 10 to 12 months.

Speedy Lunch

Add finely minced onion to seasoned mashed potatoes. Place a serving of the potatoes between two slices of canned luncheon loaf. Bake "sandwiches" in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

Special Serving

Pour corn bread batter into a greased ring mold. Bake and fill the ring with creamed ham or creamed luncheon loaf.

Breakfast Treat

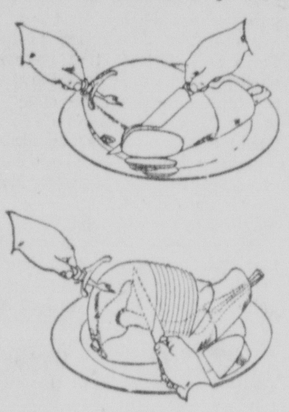
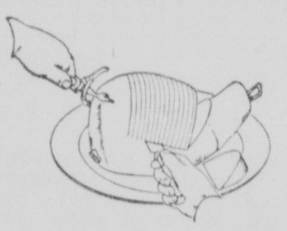
CARVING MEAT CUTS

Baked Ham

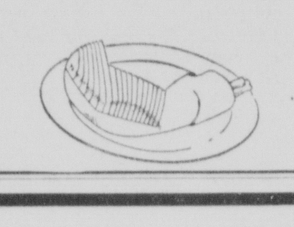
Place the ham on the platter with the fat or decorated side up. The shank end should be to the carver's right. The thin side of the ham, from which the first slices are made, will be nearest or farthest from the carver, depending on whether the ham is from a right or a left side of pork.



Remove slices lengthwise—Use a standard carving set or a slicer and a carver's helper on a baked ham. Insert the fork and cut several slices parallel to the length of the ham on the nearest side.



Turn and slice to bone—Turn the ham so that it rests on the surface just cut. Hold the ham firmly with the fork and cut a small wedge from the shank end. Keep the fork in place to steady the ham and cut thin slices down to the leg bone.



Release slices—Release slices by cutting along bone at right angles to slices. Lift slices to side of platter. If platter is not large enough, have another hot platter near to receive the slices.

Let him cook it himself. This is a practical solution to a perennial problem, as worked out at P.S. 72 in New York City.

Marian Brick, school principal, tried out the plan of developing good eating habits to kindergarten children by teaching them to prepare and serve nutritious foods — and it worked.

A group of children who had poor eating habits had worried the teacher of the class. They wouldn't eat the lunches served to them, shunned such healthful items as fresh vegetables and milk and, it was suspected, filled up on candy between meals.

When they were encouraged to prepare their own lunches, they quickly developed new enthusiasm for such nutritious foods as tomato soup made with milk, cheese sandwiches, fruit and milk.

Later they demonstrated their culinary talents to their mothers at a luncheon party, and have taken more interest in healthful foods ever since.

Miss Brick suggests that teaching Junior and Sis to cook during summer vacation may be a worthwhile project. They must be carefully indoctrinated. Mother should take the responsibility of opening cans. Careful supervision is important.

But the reward comes with juvenile enthusiasm for foods they cooked themselves.

Spareribs And Apples

Spareribs and Red-Skinned Apples

The bright red skinned apples that appear in grocery stores during September and October tempt most cooks into using them often, not only in salads and desserts, but in main dishes as well. A particularly tasty use of the crunchy fruit is in a stuffing for meaty spareribs:

Apple Stuffed Spareribs

2 sides spareribs
Salt, pepper
½ pound salt pork, diced
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
5 large red-skinned apples, diced
¼ cup brown sugar
2 cups toasted bread crumbs
⅓ cup chopped parsley
¾ cup water or bouillon

Sprinkle both sides of ribs with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Fry salt pork until crisp; remove pieces. Cook onions and celery in drippings three minutes; add apples, sprinkle with sugar. Cover pan and cook 10 minutes longer. Add remaining ingredients and 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and spread on one section of spareribs, cover with other section and skewer or tie together. Roast on a rack in shallow pan at 350°F. 1½ hours. 4 to 6 servings.

Beef en Brochette

For a different picnic treat serve hamburgers en brochette. Form ground beef into balls about 1 inch in diameter. Then thread on metal skewers with burr pickles and tomato wedges. Cook over glowing coals until meat balls are done.

Sausage-Corn Skillet

Everyone loves sausage, and corn is a favorite, too. In this recipe you put these two favorites together for an especially tasty main dish. By adding low cost white rice, you feed your family heartily, yet inexpensively.

QUICK SAUSAGE-CORN SKILLET
Creamed Peas and Carrots
Fresh Fruit Salad
Favorite Rolls
Lemon Custard Ice Cream
Chocolate Cookies

Ingredients:
1 pound bulk pork sausage
1 cup uncooked white rice
1 cup yellow whole kernel corn, drained.
2 cups water

Method: Put the sausage and rice in a skillet. Cook, stirring occasionally, until sausage browns and rice is beginning to turn a brownish yellow. Slowly add the drained corn and the 2 cups of water. Bring to a boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and cook over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove skillet from the heat but leave lid on at least 10 minutes or until you are ready to serve. Remove lid and season to taste with salt and pepper. This recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

Make Them Hearty

Grind leftover roast meat or ready-to-serve meat and add to cooked egg yolk — mayonnaise mixture for savory deviled eggs.

Fresh Dill With Lamb

Fresh dill is used to flavor a gourmet version of lamb stew, and sour cream is added to the savory gravy. To prepare the stew, thoroughly brown lamb shoulder cubes in bacon drippings, add several springs of fresh dill and enough water to cover meat; simmer until meat is tender. Remove lamb to hot platter; discard dill. To the drippings, add sauteed fresh mushrooms, a cup of sour cream, ½ teaspoon vinegar, and salt and pepper to taste. Thicken with flour and water paste to gravy consistency and serve over meat.

Hash Stuffing

Quick idea for supper. Remove pulp from four big, firm tomatoes. To the pulp add a can of corned beef hash and mix well. Place in tomato cups and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

Spice Addition

Spices can yield a new touch to an old favorite meat dish. Add bay leaves to beef stews, pot-roasts; caraway seeds to liver or pork dishes; basil to beef or pork dishes.

Home For Lunch

Isn't it fun to have the youngsters come home from school for lunch! And it's even more fun when you can sit down with them, pleasant and relaxed.

Most homemakers find it quite a jump from the lax summer schedule to an on-the-dot hour for hot lunches for hungry youngsters. When mornings fly all too quickly, you'll find that a well stocked pantry shelf is your best friend. There's a long list of panty shelf meals-in-a-can from which to choose such as Corned Beef Hash, Chill Con Corne, Spaghetti with Meat, Beef Stew and Beef with Gravy.

One of the most popular meals-in-a-can is Dried Beef. It is an inexpensive meat because it goes so far. Just one ounce makes an ample serving for one. The meat is made from rounds of lean beef that has been cured & air dried, smoked sliced wafer thin and sent on its way to the homemaker. Dried beef comes in both 2½ and 5 ounce glass jars which may be kept on the pantry shelf. Or you may buy a 4 ounce carton of dried beef at your self-service meat counter. This package must be refrigerated.

Creamed dried beef on toast has long been an American luncheon favorite. A new twist to this old favorite will make those hungry youngsters scramble to the luncheon table. For the new twist, season the creamed dried beef with curry powder and serve with steaming white rice.

Dried Beef Curry on Rice

1 5-ounce glass Dried Beef; 5 tablespoons butter or margarine; 5 tablespoons flour; 2-½ cups milk; ½ teaspoon curry powder; 3 cups cooked rice.

Break beef into small pieces and let frizzle gently in the butter or margarine in a frying pan. Blend in flour, add milk and stir over low heat until thickened. Add curry powder and serve over rice. This recipe makes 5 to 6 servings. Recipe Variations:

1. More curry powder may be added for a higher flavor.
2. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion to the dried beef and fat and cook until onions are clear.
3. Add 1 cup of drained cooked peas to the white sauce after mixture has thickened.
4. Brown rice may be used instead of white rice for a rich, nutty flavor.
5. If there isn't time to make the white sauce, use a can of mushroom soup instead. After the dried beef is heated in the fat, add a 10 ounce can of mushroom soup which has been diluted with equal parts of milk or water. Heat and serve.

With Dried Beef Curry on Rice, serve a pear and cheese salad, chocolate pudding and milk. After this lunch you can be sure the youngsters will go back to school ready to tackle the afternoon's activities.

Sugar And Spice Ham

Purchase a ham slice cut about 1 inch thick. Place in shallow pan, sprinkle with brown sugar and stick with cloves. Pour ⅓ cup of plum juice over it. Bake in a 300° F. oven for 1¼ hours. Then turn the slice and arrange one No. 303 can of drained blue plums on top of ham. Return to oven for 15 minutes.

Home For Lunch

Isn't it fun to have the youngsters come home from school for lunch! And it's even more fun when you can sit down with them, pleasant and relaxed.

Most homemakers find it quite a jump from the lax summer schedule to an on-the-dot hour for hot lunches for hungry youngsters. When mornings fly all too quickly, you'll find that a well stocked pantry shelf is your best friend. There's a long list of panty shelf meals-in-a-can from which to choose such as Corned Beef Hash, Chill Con Corne, Spaghetti with Meat, Beef Stew and Beef with Gravy.

One of the most popular meals-in-a-can is Dried Beef. It is an inexpensive meat because it goes so far. Just one ounce makes an ample serving for one. The meat is made from rounds of lean beef that has been cured & air dried, smoked sliced wafer thin and sent on its way to the homemaker. Dried beef comes in both 2½ and 5 ounce glass jars which may be kept on the pantry shelf. Or you may buy a 4 ounce carton of dried beef at your self-service meat counter. This package must be refrigerated.

Creamed dried beef on toast has long been an American luncheon favorite. A new twist to this old favorite will make those hungry youngsters scramble to the luncheon table. For the new twist, season the creamed dried beef with curry powder and serve with steaming white rice.

Dried Beef Curry on Rice

1 5-ounce glass Dried Beef; 5 tablespoons butter or margarine; 5 tablespoons flour; 2-½ cups milk; ½ teaspoon curry powder; 3 cups cooked rice.

Break beef into small pieces and let frizzle gently in the butter or margarine in a frying pan. Blend in flour, add milk and stir over low heat until thickened. Add curry powder and serve over rice. This recipe makes 5 to 6 servings. Recipe Variations:

1. More curry powder may be added for a higher flavor.
2. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion to the dried beef and fat and cook until onions are clear.
3. Add 1 cup of drained cooked peas to the white sauce after mixture has thickened.
4. Brown rice may be used instead of white rice for a rich, nutty flavor.
5. If there isn't time to make the white sauce, use a can of mushroom soup instead. After the dried beef is heated in the fat, add a 10 ounce can of mushroom soup which has been diluted with equal parts of milk or water. Heat and serve.

With Dried Beef Curry on Rice, serve a pear and cheese salad, chocolate pudding and milk. After this lunch you can be sure the youngsters will go back to school ready to tackle the afternoon's activities.

Sugar And Spice Ham

Purchase a ham slice cut about 1 inch thick. Place in shallow pan, sprinkle with brown sugar and stick with cloves. Pour ⅓ cup of plum juice over it. Bake in a 300° F. oven for 1¼ hours. Then turn the slice and arrange one No. 303 can of drained blue plums on top of ham. Return to oven for 15 minutes.

Apple Juice Fluff

Light as a dream, tangy with apple juice, here's a bright tasting fluff of a dessert that'll be welcome as a breeze on a warm late-season day.

Serve it at a patio luncheon—your friends will rejoice in its lightness.

Keep it in mind for family suppers or dinners — it's sweet enough to satisfy the family's liking for a sweet dessert, yet has refreshing verve.

And that taste . . . apples! From the apple juice in it! The very same apple juice you keep chilling in the refrigerator as a cool drink. This offers another use for that apple juice and a most delicious one, you'll find.

It's a dessert simple to make. The tiny effort called for gives big results. And with no complications to trip you. This is the way it goes:

APPLE JUICE FLUFF

2 cups apple juice
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 package lady fingers
½ pint heavy cream, whipped

Heat apple juice; add lemon gelatin; stirring until dissolved. Chill until syrupy. Set over ice water; beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Spoon into sherbet glasses lined with lady fingers. Top with whipped cream. Yields 8 servings.

Bacon Seasoners

Double the amount of that breakfast bacon you panfry, broil or bake, and use the crumbled leftovers in one or more of these:

1. Add to muffin batter just before pouring into baking cups.
2. Toss with crisp salad greens; dress with oil and vinegar.
3. Use as seasoner for fresh-cooked green vegetables — beans, peas, chopped spinach.
4. Use as a topping for casseroled macaroni and cheese.
5. Stir into peanut butter or egg salad for sandwich filling.
6. Top servings of spaghetti and meat sauce with the crisp bacon.
7. Add to heated canned pork and beans just before serving.
8. Sprinkle over hot baked potatoes—right on top of the melting butter!

Variety In Soft Diets

COLLEGE PARK, Md., — "Anyone who has ever been on a soft diet for long knows how monotonous it can be."

This is the beginning statement in a report from the Missouri Experiment Station of a study on improving soft diets by giving them more variety and making them more attractive, palatable and nutritious. People who are long confined to the few food items on the traditional soft diet often lose appetite and interest in eating. Then they are likely candidates for malnutrition. Foremost among these are elderly people, limited to soft food by chewing difficulties or other conditions. Many people are on special diets of smooth, non-roughage food. There are also the convalescents, who need plenty of nourishments but must take it soft. Finally, there's the young baby in the family who needs to learn, even before his teeth come in, to like a variety of foods.

An electric blender can be a boon not only to any of these "dieters", but also to the whole family, according to the Missouri report. Blenders will liquify, puree, blend or mix foods in a few seconds. They make it possible to keep the fresh flavor in soft dishes and to make combination dishes that the whole family can enjoy, such as vegetable souffles, meat spreads and leaves, sherbets, and milk and fruit drinks.

Keep your powder dry and you'll be right up-to-the-minute when it comes to latest research on lemon, tomato and orange juice beverages. The U. S. Department of Agriculture announces lemonade powder as the latest of these fruit powders being developed in a western research laboratory. Neither lemonade powder nor tomato-juice powder is produced commercially yet. Orange-juice powder is in commercial production, but mainly for institutions and food manufacturers.

New York Takes 2nd Straight Series Game From Dodgers

Byrne Hurls, Bats Yankees To 4-2 Win

Lefty Goes Route With Five-Hitter, Gets Winning Hit

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — Tommy Byrne, 35-year-old converted wildman who was discarded by four American League teams, baffled Brooklyn with five hits today as the New York Yankees made it two straight over the Dodgers, 4-2, and took a commanding World Series lead.

Byrne, often referred to as "that good-hitting pitcher," ground salt into the Dodgers' wounds by driving home the two winning runs with a line single past Billy Loes' ear in the fourth inning.

The gabby lefthander, who likes to talk to the opposing hitters as he works, was helped by three Yankee double plays as he rode home free on a four-run fourth inning rally that routed Loes.

There may still be hope in Flatbush for the futile Brooks but the record books carry the cold facts that only one team in all series history ever has bounced back to win after losing the first two. That team was the 1921 New York Giants and they had a best-of-nine series in which to recover and top the Yankees' first pennant winners.

Yanks Bunch Hits

In sharp contrast to yesterday's booming opener when five home runs sailed through the muggy air, the Yanks managed to win this one on eight singles, five of them bunched in the fourth inning. Four of the singles and all the Yankee runs came after two were out in the fourth.

The Yankee victory was accomplished with Mickey Mantle, their slugging ace, still riding the bench due to a leg injury and with Hank Bauer out of action from the second inning on due to a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

It was after a fine Dodger double play that the Yanks began to rip and roar in the fourth against Loes, the 25-year-old righty.

Trailing 1-0 as they came to bat in the fourth, the Yanks greeted Loes with a single by Gil McDougald but he and Irv Noren quickly were chopped down when Gil Hodges came up with Noren's sharp grounder near the bag and threw to Pee Wee Reese to complete a double play.

Berra Gets Single

The crowd of 64,707 still was buzzing when Billy Martin smashed an even shorter single to left and Gilliam made no throw at all, Collins scoring from second to give the Yanks a lead they never yielded.

Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers came out to converse with Loes at this critical point but decided to stick with his 10-game winner. It turned out to be a mistake.

Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager, made his move to keep the big inning going. He called for Eddie Robinson, a left-handed hitting first baseman, to bat for Phil Rizzuto. Loes' first pitch to Robinson plunked him in the middle of the back and the bases were full.

Byrne Comes Through

Byrne, sometimes used as a pinch hitter, looked at an inside pitch, then tagged the next on a line past Loes' right ear into center field. Both Howard and Martin romped home.

It mattered not that Alston then replaced Loes with rookie Don Bessent who made Bob Cerv ground out on the first pitch. Four runs were in and that was the ball game.

Brooklyn had scored first on Byrne in the fourth when Reese smashed a double to the right field corner, manned at the moment by Howard, who usually plays left and sometimes catches. Reese took advantage of Howard to go all the way to second. But when Duke Snider rammed the ball to the same corner, scoring Reese, Howard made a brilliant recovery and his throw nipped Snider as he slid into second.

The Dodgers seemed to have Byrne on the way out in the fifth when he walked Jackie Robinson on a 3-2 pitch. Don Zimmer's single to left shoved Jackie along to second base.

Alston went for a pinch hitter, too, at this stage, calling for Frank Kellert who delivered a single yesterday. This was another day and Kellert grounded weakly to Gerry Coleman at short who started a blinding double play.

Gilliam singled Robinson across but Byrne whipped a called third strike past Reese to end the rally.

Turley vs. Podres

Stengel said he will use Bob Turley (17-13), his fast-balling righthander, in tomorrow's third game at Ebbets Field.

Alston will go with a lefthander, Johnny Podres (10-10) instead of Carl Erskine (11-8) who has had arm trouble. Podres recently recovered from a rib injury.

Doug Ford Takes Long Island Lead

PGA Champ Shoots First Round 68

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. set the pace today with 68 in the first round of the $15,000 Long Island Open Golf Championship over the par 70, 6,550-yard Huntington Crescent Club course.

The National PGA champion, whose winnings this year exceed $31,000, is the favorite to carry off the top money of $2,400. His pair of 34's in the opening round gave him a lead of one strole over Al Brosch, of Garden City, N. Y., six-time Long Island Open king, and Billy Maxwell, of Odessa, Texas, former National Amateur titleholder.

Ford, whose 1955 winnings include, in addition to the National PGA, the recent $43,000 Sponsors Tournament at Charles River, and the All-American at Tam O'Shanter was two strokes below par on the front nine. He birdied the second with a 3 and dropped a 20-footer for a birdie four at the ninth. He matched par on every hole of the inward nine.

Brosch played steadily, scoring a one-under 35 on the out nine and a par 34 on the back half. Maxwell played his golf on the back nine, which he covered in 33, after an outward 36.

Eight players, including Fred Wampler of Indianapolis, winner of the Los Angeles Open two years ago, were tied at 70. Also in the tie for fourth were Shelley Mayfield, of Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Gardiner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla.; Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass.; Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill.; Dow Finsterwald of Beddord Heights, Ohio; Max Evans of Utica, Michigan and Gerry Kesselering of Toronto.

Punt Drills Held By Mountaineers In Shorter Practice

MORGANTOWN, Sept. 29 (AP) — West Virginia University worked on its punting and place - kicking today during a shorter-than-usual, 1½-hour drill in continued preparations for Wake Forest.

Chuck Howley, 205-pound sophomore guard from Wheeling, took part in the punting drill. The kicking duties will be handed him in Saturday's game here if an injured hand keeps halfback Joe Marconi on the bench.

Marconi, who received a split finger on his right hand yesterday, was dressed in sweat clothes today for some running, but otherwise did not take part in the workout.

Three stitches were needed to close the split at the base of the big senior's middle finger. Coach Art Lewis said tonight he was "hopeful" that Marconi would be able to face the Deacons, although two fingers on his hand will be bandaged tightly together.

Intersectional Football Games Set Saturday

Terps Face Baylor, Pitt Meets Oklahoma

[By The Associated Press]

Half of the nation's top 10 college football teams, headed by Maryland's No. 1 aggregation, test their strength in intersectional games this weekend.

Victors over UCLA last week, the Terps from Maryland journey to Waco, Tex., Saturday to face aerial-minded Baylor in one of the leading contest of the high caliber national program.

Southern California's high-scoring Trojans, now ranked ninth, are the first of the titans to see action. The Pacific Coast Conference hotshots host once-beaten Texas tonight and are favored to make it three straight for the season.

Pitt At Oklahoma

Pittsburgh, one of the Eastern powers, travels to Oklahoma, Ohio State visits Stanford, and Southern Methodist goes to Georgia Tech in other intersectional contests involving 10 teams.

Oklahoma, ranked fifth, is a two-touchdown choice to down Pitt and run its winning streak to 21. Ohio State, No. 8, figures to have too much of everything for Stanford in the television game of the week. SMU, smarting from its loss to Notre Dame, may give third-ranked Georgia Tech a tussle.

Notre Dame is a two-touchdown choice over Indiana which was edged by Michigan State, 20-13. Notre Dame is ranked fourth.

Army Meets Penn-State

Army's injury - riddle Cadets, ranked sixth, may be knocked off their perch by Penn State in the East's game of the week.

UCLA, dropped from first to seventh as the result of its 7-0 loss to Maryland, should run it up against weak, twice-beaten Washington State.

Many other intersectional games are on the card. Villanova is at Kentucky, Penn at California, Cincinnati at College of Pacific, Navy at South Carolina, Northwestern at Tulane, Utah at Missouri, and Louisiana State at Rice.

Other major pairings include:

Columbia at Princeton, Colgate at Cornell, Holy Cross at Dartmouth, Brown at Yale and Massachusetts at Harvard.

Florida at Auburn, Alabama at Vanderbilt, Wake Forest at West Virginia, Georgia at Clemson, North Carolina at North Carolina State, Duke at Tennessee, Memphis State at Mississippi State, Virginia Tech at William and Mary, George Washington at Virginia, Richmond at Virginia Military, and The Citadel at Davidson.

Coach Not Pleased

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Sept. 29 (AP)—Coach Jack Freeman sent his William and Mary footballers through offensive drills against Virginia Tech defenses today and didn't like the looks of what he saw.

"We're going to have to do a lot better than we did today to win the ball game," said Freeman, whose Indians tangle with Tech here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Johnny Meyers is facing a rebuilding job at Valley High School this year for the WMI Soccer League which opens today.

The defending champion Black Knights lost all but four of their varsity squad when Bill Richmond, Ellsworth Russell, Richard Waddell, Everett Spiker, Bob Mundeno, Jimmy Wilson and Randall Brown were graduated last June.

The Knights have a squad of 34 players with the four varsity men heading the list. They are Robert Robertson, Ronald Young, Jack Mongold and Sam Brooks.

Braves Have Veteran Team

Open Soccer Play With Valley Today

The Mt. Savage Braves, who battle Valley High in the opener of the WMI Soccer League today, will field a veteran team as Coach Johnny Thomas has 13 lettermen returning.

Fifteen newcomers round out his squad of 28 with Tom Burmingham being the only one to break into the starting lineup.

Returning from last year's squad are Bill Clauson, Jerry Huff, Tom Stevens, Dale Whitehead, George Bishields, Bob Burkett, Terry Emerick, Jim Harden, Jim Henckel, Roy Hott, Bill Burkett, Stewart Church and Wayne Fleegle. Of these Clauson, Huff, Stevens, Whitehead, Bishields, Bob Burkett, Harden, Hott, Fleegle and Bill Burkett will join Birmingham in the starting lineup.

The New York Yankees drew 1,490,136 fans to Yankee Stadium this year. In 1954 their home attendance was 1,475,171.

Potomac State Preps For D&E Game Saturday

Coach Dana Lough Plans Team Changes

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 29—The Potomac State Catamounts went through long scrimmage sessions Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in preparation for their game here with Davis and Elkins College Saturday. There will probably be several changes in the starting line up according to Coach Dana "Horse" Lough.

Game time will be 2 p. m.

The Catamounts will probably be without the services of both of their sophomore quarterbacks this week. Bob Connolly has a badly bruised leg and has not taken part in scrimmage this week. Bill Hahalyak has developed a trick knee which will sideline him for this game. Freshman Rudy Telek and sophomore halfback Bob Sirk will probably do the signal calling, he added.

Joe Bundy, freshman end, and Mike Falbo, freshman guard, showed up well in the W. Va. Tech game last week and will start at end and guard Saturday. Freshman halfback George Miller and Jack Hill, a freshman fullback, have earned starting positions for this game.

Davis-Elkins looked good in winning their first game against Fairmont. D & E had a particularly strong passing game and have a star receiver in Paul Wilcox, 6' 5" end, who also stars in basketball.

Coach Dick DeHart, an Allegany High graduate, has a big and well conditioned team, which seems to be determined to get back into football with a bang. D & E in years gone by was one of the football powers of the East among the small colleges.

Carter Check Sent To Boxing Group

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Cincinnati Boxing Commission today received a check for $1,500 from the International Boxing Club Inc., guaranteeing Jimmy Carter's appearance for a lightweight title fight here Oct. 19 with champion Bud Smith.

It then extended until Oct. 9 the time for posting a check by Smith for the same amount.

Smith, a Cincinnati boy, won the title from Carter, of New York City, in a hard fight in Boston several months ago.

The Yankee victory was accomplished with Mickey Mantle, their slugging ace, still riding the bench due to a leg injury and with Hank Bauer out of action from the second inning on due to a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

It was after a fine Dodger double play that the Yanks began to rip and roar in the fourth against Loes, the 25-year-old righty.

Trailing 1-0 as they came to bat in the fourth, the Yanks greeted Loes with a single by Gil McDougald but he and Irv Noren quickly were chopped down when Gil Hodges came up with Noren's sharp grounder near the bag and threw to Pee Wee Reese to complete a double play.

Berra Gets Single

The crowd of 64,707 still was buzzing when Billy Martin smashed an even shorter single to left and Gilliam made no throw at all, Collins scoring from second to give the Yanks a lead they never yielded.

Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers came out to converse with Loes at this critical point but decided to stick with his 10-game winner. It turned out to be a mistake.

Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager, made his move to keep the big inning going. He called for Eddie Robinson, a left-handed hitting first baseman, to bat for Phil Rizzuto. Loes' first pitch to Robinson plunked him in the middle of the back and the bases were full.

Byrne Comes Through

Byrne, sometimes used as a pinch hitter, looked at an inside pitch, then tagged the next on a line past Loes' right ear into center field. Both Howard and Martin romped home.

It mattered not that Alston then replaced Loes with rookie Don Bessent who made Bob Cerv ground out on the first pitch. Four runs were in and that was the ball game.

Brooklyn had scored first on Byrne in the fourth when Reese smashed a double to the right field corner, manned at the moment by Howard, who usually plays left and sometimes catches. Reese took advantage of Howard to go all the way to second. But when Duke Snider rammed the ball to the same corner, scoring Reese, Howard made a brilliant recovery and his throw nipped Snider as he slid into second.

The Dodgers seemed to have Byrne on the way out in the fifth when he walked Jackie Robinson on a 3-2 pitch. Don Zimmer's single to left shoved Jackie along to second base.

Alston went for a pinch hitter, too, at this stage, calling for Frank Kellert who delivered a single yesterday. This was another day and Kellert grounded weakly to Gerry Coleman at short who started a blinding double play.

Gilliam singled Robinson across but Byrne whipped a called third strike past Reese to end the rally.

Turley vs. Podres

Stengel said he will use Bob Turley (17-13), his fast-balling righthander, in tomorrow's third game at Ebbets Field.

Alston will go with a lefthander, Johnny Podres (10-10) instead of Carl Erskine (11-8) who has had arm trouble. Podres recently recovered from a rib injury.

Doug Ford Takes Long Island Lead

PGA Champ Shoots First Round 68

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. set the pace today with 68 in the first round of the $15,000 Long Island Open Golf Championship over the par 70, 6,550-yard Huntington Crescent Club course.

The National PGA champion, whose winnings this year exceed $31,000, is the favorite to carry off the top money of $2,400. His pair of 34's in the opening round gave him a lead of one strole over Al Brosch, of Garden City, N. Y., six-time Long Island Open king, and Billy Maxwell, of Odessa, Texas, former National Amateur titleholder.

Ford, whose 1955 winnings include, in addition to the National PGA, the recent $43,000 Sponsors Tournament at Charles River, and the All-American at Tam O'Shanter was two strokes below par on the front nine. He birdied the second with a 3 and dropped a 20-footer for a birdie four at the ninth. He matched par on every hole of the inward nine.

Brosch played steadily, scoring a one-under 35 on the out nine and a par 34 on the back half. Maxwell played his golf on the back nine, which he covered in 33, after an outward 36.

Eight players, including Fred Wampler of Indianapolis, winner of the Los Angeles Open two years ago, were tied at 70. Also in the tie for fourth were Shelley Mayfield, of Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Gardiner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla.; Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass.; Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill.; Dow Finsterwald of Beddord Heights, Ohio; Max Evans of Utica, Michigan and Gerry Kesselering of Toronto.

Punt Drills Held By Mountaineers In Shorter Practice

MORGANTOWN, Sept. 29 (AP) — West Virginia University worked on its punting and place - kicking today during a shorter-than-usual, 1½-hour drill in continued preparations for Wake Forest.

Chuck Howley, 205-pound sophomore guard from Wheeling, took part in the punting drill. The kicking duties will be handed him in Saturday's game here if an injured hand keeps halfback Joe Marconi on the bench.

Marconi, who received a split finger on his right hand yesterday, was dressed in sweat clothes today for some running, but otherwise did not take part in the workout.

Three stitches were needed to close the split at the base of the big senior's middle finger. Coach Art Lewis said tonight he was "hopeful" that Marconi would be able to face the Deacons, although two fingers on his hand will be bandaged tightly together.

Intersectional Football Games Set Saturday

Terps Face Baylor, Pitt Meets Oklahoma

[By The Associated Press]

Half of the nation's top 10 college football teams, headed by Maryland's No. 1 aggregation, test their strength in intersectional games this weekend.

Victors over UCLA last week, the Terps from Maryland journey to Waco, Tex., Saturday to face aerial-minded Baylor in one of the leading contest of the high caliber national program.

Southern California's high-scoring Trojans, now ranked ninth, are the first of the titans to see action. The Pacific Coast Conference hotshots host once-beaten Texas tonight and are favored to make it three straight for the season.

In other Friday night tilts, Detroit entertains Wichita, and Florida State tangles with Miami.

Pitt At Oklahoma

Pittsburgh, one of the Eastern powers, travels to Oklahoma, Ohio State visits Stanford, and Southern Methodist goes to Georgia Tech in other intersectional contests involving 10 teams.

Oklahoma, ranked fifth, is a two-touchdown choice to down Pitt and run its winning streak to 21. Ohio State, No. 8, figures to have too much of everything for Stanford in the television game of the week. SMU, smarting from its loss to Notre Dame, may give third-ranked Georgia Tech a tussle.

Notre Dame is a two-touchdown choice over Indiana which was edged by Michigan State, 20-13. Notre Dame is ranked fourth.

Army Meets Penn State

Army's injury - riddle Cadets, ranked sixth, may be knocked off their perch by Penn State in the East's game of the week.

UCLA, dropped from first to seventh as the result of its 7-0 loss to Maryland, should run it up against weak, twice-beaten Washington State.

Many other intersectional games are on the card. Villanova is at Kentucky, Penn at California, Cincinnati at College of Pacific, Navy at South Carolina, Northwestern at Tulane, Utah at Missouri, and Louisiana State at Rice.

Other major pairings include:

Columbia at Princeton, Colgate at Cornell, Holy Cross at Dartmouth, Brown at Yale and Massachusetts at Harvard.

Florida at Auburn, Alabama at Vanderbilt, Wake Forest at West Virginia, Georgia at Clemson, North Carolina at North Carolina State, Duke at Tennessee, Memphis State at Mississippi State, Virginia Tech at William and Mary, George Washington at Virginia, Richmond at Virginia Military, and The Citadel at Davidson.

Coach Not Pleased

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Sept. 29 (AP)—Coach Jack Freeman sent his William and Mary footballers through offensive drills against Virginia Tech defenses today-and didn't like the looks of what he saw.

"We're going to have to do a lot better than we did today to win the ball game," said Freeman, whose Indians tangle with Tech here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Johnny Meyers is facing a rebuilding job at Valley High School this year for the WMI Soccer League which opens today.

Braves Have Veteran Team

Open Soccer Play With Valley Today

The Mt. Savage Braves, who battle Valley High in the opener of the WMI Soccer League today, will field a veteran team as Coach Johnny Thomas has 13 lettermen returning.

Fifteen newcomers round out his squad of 28 with Tom Burmingham being the only one to break into the starting lineup.

Returning from last year's squad are Bill Clauson, Jerry Huff, Tom Stevens, Dale Whitehead, George Bishields, Bob Burkett, Terry Emerick, Jim Harden, Jim Henckel, Roy Hott, Bill Burkett, Stewart Church and Wayne Fleegle. Of these Clauson, Huff, Stevens, Whitehead, Bishields, Bob Burkett, Harden, Hott, Fleegle and Bill Burkett will join Birmingham in the starting lineup.

The New York Yankees drew 1,490,136 fans to Yankee Stadium this year. In 1954 their home attendance was 1,475,171.

Potomac State Preps For D&E Game Saturday

Coach Dana Lough Plans Team Changes

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 29—The Potomac State Catamounts went through long scrimmage sessions Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in preparation for their game here with Davis and Elkins College Saturday. There will probably be several changes in the starting line up according to Coach Dana "Horse" Lough.

Game time will be 2 p. m.

The Catamounts will probably be without the services of both of their sophomore quarterbacks this week. Bob Connolly has a badly bruised leg and has not taken part in scrimmage this week. Bill Hahalyak has developed a trick knee which will sideline him for this game. Freshman Rudy Telek and sophomore halfback Bob Sirk will probably do the signal calling, he added.

Joe Bundy, freshman end, and Mike Falbo, freshman guard, showed up well in the W. Va. Tech game last week and will start at end and guard Saturday. Freshman halfback George Miller and Jack Hill, a freshman fullback, have earned starting positions for this game.

Davis-Elkins looked good in winning their first game against Fairmont. D & E had a particularly strong passing game and have a star receiver in Paul Wilcox, 6' 5" end, who also stars in basketball.

Coach Dick DeHart, an Allegany High graduate, has a big and well conditioned team, which seems to be determined to get back into football with a bang. D & E in years gone by was one of the football powers of the East among the small colleges.

Carter Check Sent To Boxing Group

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Cincinnati Boxing Commission today received a check for $1,500 from the International Boxing Club Inc., guaranteeing Jimmy Carter's appearance for a lightweight title fight here Oct. 19 with champion Bud Smith.

It then extended until Oct. 9 the time for posting a check by Smith for the same amount.

Ft. Hill Hosts Martinsburg, AHS At Hagerstown Tonight

Red Raiders Seek Third Win In Row

Hubs-Allegany Clash 32nd Time; Romney To Meet Moorefield

Fort Hill's Red Raiders will seek their third straight victory of the 1955 football campaign tonight when they host a green and inexperienced Martinsburg High Bulldog eleven under the lights at the Greenway Avenue Stadium. Game time is 8 p. m.

Free of any injuries after their 43-0 romp over LaSalle in an intra-city clash earlier this week, Coach Bill Hahn's Sentinels hope to avenge a 12-6 setback at the hands of Martinsburg last year.

Coach John Cobourn, who is in his 23rd year at the helm of the Martinsburg eleven, said last night he would bring 33 players to Cumberland by bus for tonight's clash.

Lost 16 Players

He added the loss of 16 players, including 10 of last season's unbeaten varsity, has given him the task of completely rebuilding the Bulldogs.

The meeting will be the 19th between the two teams with Fort Hill holding a 12-3 edge with three games ending in tie scores. Both Fort Hill and Martinsburg lost to Morgantown this year, the Sentinels by a 14-7 count in their opener, and Martinsburg by a 25-0 score.

The Hahnmen since have chalked up victories over Northwestern of Hyattsville, 12-6 and LaSalle. This will be Martinsburg's second game of the campaign.

Officials for tonight's fray will be John Shelton, James Fahey, James Gaffney and William Orndorff. The probable lineups:

Pos.	Fort Hill	Martinsburg
LE	Shaffer	Lancaster
LT	Davis	Eversole
LG	Fogle	Long
C	Brant	Hawkins
RG	Dawson	Farmer
RT	Hillegas	Leonard
RE	Snyder	Hammann
QB	McGregor	Clarke
LH	Kesler	Beavers
RH	Crawford	Petrucci
FB	Hammersmith	Custer

Allegany At Hagerstown

Coach Roy Lester will take his Allegany Campers to the Hub City where the Alco eleven will collide with one of the strongest teams in the history of Hagerstown.

The Campers, whose only game this year was a 32-6 victory over Hall High, did not play last week because their game with Bladensburg here was cancelled by bad weather.

Hagerstown has defeated Westminster, 34-6, and Beall 26-7, and played a 6-6 tie with York, Pa.

The game will get underway at 8 p. m. in Municipal Stadium and will be the 32nd clash in the history of the two schools. Allegany holds a 16-12 edge in victories with three tie games. Last year the two elevens battled to a 13-13 deadlock here.

The Campers will leave for Hagerstown today at 2 p. m. and will stop over in Hancock for dinner. Officials for the game will be Eismon, Moore, Campbell and Reverly.

Two Unbeatens Clash

Meanwhile, elsewhere on the gridiron front the top engagement of the day will be a meeting of two unbeaten Potomac Valley Conference contenders at Moorefield, W. Va., where the Yellowjackets will host Romney High's Pioneers. Both teams have won three straight games.

Moorefield has turned back Green Bank, 20-13, Southern High of Oakland, 21-13, and Petersburg, 13-6, the latter two conference contests. Romney has beaten Berkeley Springs, 39-6, Charles Town, 19-0, and Franklin, 19-7. The Franklin game is the only PVC game played by Romney to date.

This will be the 26th meeting of the two elevens with Moorefield holding a 12-10 margin in triumphs. Three games have ended in deadlocks although Romney has taken the last three games, 6-0, last year, 13-0, in 1953 and 45-6 in 1952.

Other Games Listed

Moorefield is under the direction of Coach Jonathan Paugh for the 21st year while Wes Abrams is in his second season at Romney.

Other clashes set for today include:

West Va. Deaf (0-1) at Franklin (0-3).

Belington at Parsons (2-1).

Bethesda at Frederick.

Morgantown at Elkins.

Westmont at Bedford (0-1-2).

Coast Guard Wins 2-1

The Coast Guard defeated the Marines 2-1 in a VFW mixed shuffleboard league match last night on the VFW alleys. Pete Jones was high for the winners with 26 points while Charlotte Mudge had 21 for the Marines. Tonight the Navy will play the Army in a league match.

WMI Soccer League Begins Play In 29th Season Today

Aggies Meet Beall, Valley At Savage

The Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League will open its 29th season of play with a pair of contests today at Mt. Savage and Frostburg.

Coach John Meyers' Valley High Black Knights, the defending champions, will travel to Mt. Savage to tangle with the Braves in their opening clash, while Flintstone's Aggies meet Beall High's Mountaineers in the Mountain City. Both contests will get under way at 3:30 p. m.

Valley has captured the league title the past two seasons under the reins of Meyers, accounting for the only two championships the Knights have captured. Barton, which was consolidated with Central High to form Valley, took six titles and Central three in the past 28 years. Bruce High, which this year will be under the helm of a new coach, Leonard Ritchie, has won 11 championships while Beall High has taken six titles.

The league will have a total of 20 games this season with each of the five squads playing on a home-and-home basis with the other league entries.

Coaches are Meyers of Valley, Ritchie of Bruce High of Westernport, Orville "Stony" Jackson of Flintstone, Edward Finzel at Beall, and John Thomas at Mt. Savage.

Officials for today's contests will be Enordo Arnone and Clifton Van Roby for the Valley-Mt. Savage affair and Thomas Lewis and Henry Stafford for the Flintstone-Beall go.

Games will be played every Tuesday and Friday and all contests will get under way at 3:30 o'clock.

Ft. Hill Hosts Martinsburg, AHS At Hagerstown Tonight

Red Raiders Seek Third Win In Row

Hubs-Allegany Clash 32nd Time; Romney To Meet Moorefield

Fort Hill's Red Raiders will seek their third straight victory of the 1955 football campaign tonight when they host a green and inexperienced Martinsburg High Bulldog eleven under the lights at the Greenway Avenue Stadium. Game time is 8 p. m.

Free of any injuries after their 43-0 romp over LaSalle in an intra-city clash earlier this week, Coach Bill Hahn's Sentinels hope to avenge a 12-6 setback at the hands of Martinsburg last year.

Coach John Cobourn, who is in his 23rd year at the helm of the Martinsburg eleven, said last night he would bring 33 players to Cumberland by bus for tonight's clash.

Lost 16 Players

He added the loss of 16 players, including 10 of last season's unbeaten varsity, has given him the task of completely rebuilding the Bulldogs.

The meeting will be the 19th between the two teams with Fort Hill holding a 12-3 edge with three games ending in tie scores. Both Fort Hill and Martinsburg lost to Morgantown this year, the Sentinels by a 14-7 count in their opener, and Martinsburg by a 25-0 score.

The Hahnmen since have chalked up victories over Northwestern of Hyattsville, 12-6 and LaSalle. This will be Martinsburg's second game of the campaign.

Officials for tonight's fray will be John Shelton, James Fahey, James Gaffney and William Orndorff. The probable lineups:

Pos.	Fort Hill	Martinsburg
LE	Shaffer	Lancaster
LT	Davis	Eversole
LG	Fogle	Long
C	Brant	Hawkins
RG	Dawson	Farmer
RT	Hillegas	Leonard
RE	Snyder	Hammann
QB	McGregor	Clarke
LH	Kesler	Beavers
RH	Crawford	Petrucci
FB	Hammersmith	Custer

Allegany At Hagerstown

Coach Roy Lester will take his Allegany Campers to the Hub City where the Alco eleven will collide with one of the strongest teams in the history of Hagerstown.

The Campers, whose only game this year was a 32-6 victory over Fall High, did not play last week because their game with Bladensburg here was cancelled by bad weather.

Hagerstown has defeated Westminster, 34-6, and Beall 26-7, and played a 6-6 tie with York, Pa.

The game will get underway at 8 p. m. in Municipal Stadium and will be the 32nd clash in the history of the two schools. Allegany holds a 16-12 edge in victories with three tie games. Last year the two elevens battled to a 13-13 deadlock here.

The Campers will leave for Hagerstown today at 2 p. m. and will stop over in Hancock for dinner. Officials for the game will be Eismon, Moore, Campbell and Reverly.

Two Unbeatens Clash

Meanwhile, elsewhere on the gridiron front the top engagement of the day will be a meeting of two unbeaten Potomac Valley Conference contenders at Moorefield, W Va., where the Yellowjackets will host Romney High's Pioneers. Both teams have won three straight games.

Moorefield has turned back Green Bank, 20-13, Southern High of Oakland, 21-13, and Petersburg, 13-6, the latter two conference contests. Romney has beaten Berkeley Springs, 39-6, Charles Town, 19-0, and Franklin, 19-7. The Franklin game is the only PVC game played by Romney to date.

This will be the 26th meeting of the two elevens with Moorefield holding a 12-10 margin in triumphs. Three games have ended in deadlocks although Romney has taken the last three games, 6-0, last year, 13-0, in 1953 and 45-6 in 1952.

Other Games Listed

Moorefield is under the direction of Coach Jonathan Paugh for the 21st year while Wes Abrams is in his second season at Romney.

Other clashes set for today include:

West Va. Deaf (0-1) at Franklin (0-3).

Belington at Parsons (2-1).

Bethesda at Frederick.

Morgantown at Elkins.

Westmont at Bedford (0-1-2).

Coast Guard Wins 2-1

The Coast Guard defeated the Marines 2-1 in a VFW mixed shuffleboard league match last night on the VFW alleys. Pete Jones was high for the winners with 26 points while Charlotte Mudge had 21 for the Marines. Tonight the Navy will play the Army in a league match.

WMI Soccer League Begins Play In 29th Season Today

Aggies Meet Beall, Valley At Savage

The Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League will open its 29th season of play with a pair of contests today at Mt. Savage and Frostburg.

Coach John Meyers' Valley High Black Knights, the defending champions, will travel to Mt. Savage to tangle with the Braves in their opening clash, while Flintstone's Aggies meet Beall High's Mountaineers in the Mountain City. Both contests will get under way at 3:30 p. m.

Valley has captured the league title the past two seasons under the reins of Meyers, accounting for the only two championships the Knights have captured. Barton, which was consolidated with Central High to form Valley, took six titles and Central three in the past 28 years. Bruce High, which this year will be under the helm of a new coach, Leonard Ritchie, has won 11 championships while Beall High has taken six titles.

The league will have a total of 20 games this season with each of the five squads playing on a home-and-home basis with the other league entries.

Coaches are Meyers of Valley, Ritchie of Bruce High of Westernport, Orville "Stony" Jackson of Flintstone, Edward Finzel at Beall, and John Thomas at Mt. Savage.

Officials for today's contests will be Enordo Arnone and Clifton Van Roby for the Valley-Mt. Savage affair and Thomas Lewis and Henry Stafford for the Flintstone-Beall go.

Games will be played every Tuesday and Friday and all contests will get under way at 3:30 o'clock.

Local Man Files Appeal On Two Traffic Charges

A 53-year-old local man was given a jail sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after going on a driving spree.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined John W. Kenney, 108 West Third Street, $50 and costs on a reckless driving charge, and $100 and costs and sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

Kenney was arrested at his home by Officer Louis D. Downey after he had sideswiped a truck and terrorized several elementary school children.

The magistrate said testimony in the case revealed that Kenney sideswiped an Ort Bakery truck operated by Thomas Ringler Jr., of Cumberland. Ringler took after the Kenney car, and after stopping it got out and talked with Kenney. Ringler testified that he tried to persuade Kenney to wait until police arrived, but instead Kenney attempted to run him down, hitting the bakery truck and causing extensive damage.

Ringler and Julius Evans, Oldtown, then took after Kenney and in the chase Kenney forced another pickup truck up on the sidewalk on South Street and forced a group of children to flee from in front of St. Mary's Parochial School.

Kenney's auto went dead at the intersection of Third Street and Virginia Avenue, but he managed to get it to his home at 108 West Third Street where he was apprehended by Officer Downey after running into a fence.

Kenney testified that he had taken heart medicine prescribed by his physician. Magistrate Dick checked the story with the physician but found no such evidence.

Kenney took an appeal on his trial and was released under bond.

CA Workers To Get Negotiations Report

Employes of the Cellulose Acetate Department at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation will be briefed on cellulose propionate negotiations at meetings today and Saturday at the Union Hall, North Mechanic Street.

The meetings, today at 7:30 p. m. and Saturday at 10:30 a. m., will mark the final report on the negotiations, officials of Local 1874, TWUA, said.

Scouts, Leaders, Parents Meet Tomorrow

The annual day at Camp Potomac for all the Cub scouts, leaders and parents of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, will be held Saturday, according to Willis V. Smith, council executive.

Smith also reported the work of realigning the six districts of the council into three is progressing.

Starting at 2 p.m. Saturday will be softball, horseshoes, canoeing, archery and other recreation for the Cub Scouts.

At 5:30 p.m. there will be a basket picnic and Smith said these will be held on a family, den or pack basis.

The first meeting in the project to realign the districts was held at Frostburg State Teachers College Tuesday night with James C. Warden, council president, in charge.

The plan of the committee appointed earlier in the year to undertake this work was to combine Cumberland and Mountain districts, while New Creek, Tri-Towns and South Branch districts would form another. Deep Creek District generally will remain the same.

Smith said the number of men needed to form the organization of the new district was discussed.

There was a committee appointed to nominate officers of the new Cumberland-Mountain district with an election scheduled in November.

The same type of meeting for the other new districts will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building of Potomac State College, Keyser.

Warden said it is felt that fewer districts will result in more and better Scouting throughout the six-county territory in Maryland and West Virginia.

Here to assist with the consolidation is James Gelwicks of the Region 3 Boy Scout office in Philadelphia.

Naturalization Court Scheduled Today

A naturalization court will be held today at 10 a. m. in Allegany County Court House Chief Judge George Henderson announced yesterday.

Participating in the proceedings will be an official from the Naturalization Division of the U. S. Department of Justice, along with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, and Judge Henderson.

Russia "Seriously Challenging" U. S. Atomic Leadership, Strauss Declares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP) — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said last night the Geneva atoms-for-peace conference showed the United States "well ahead" in peaceful uses of the atom but with Russia "seriously challenging" its leadership.

Strauss delivered his first detailed appraisal of Geneva in an address before 900 industrialists, scientists and technicians. They are here for a meeting, and a trade fair, of the Atomic Industrial Forum, Inc.

"The fact that we appear to be ahead in the peaceful applications of atomic energy—perhaps by a scant few years—certainly offers no justification for complacency," Strauss said.

"To the contrary, the situation must be regarded as a serious challenge.

"The Soviets have not outstripped nor equaled us in any peaceful application, but at the same time—and this is important—we did not show anything at Geneva which they cannot have in a few years, given the talent and zeal which we believe them to possess."

While the Soviets came up with "a great deal" at the international conference, Strauss added, they brought no evidence to support their official claim that the Russians were "using atomic energy to change the courses of rivers and to remove mountains" while Americans, in the Russian propaganda, were preoccupied with making bombs.

On the other hand, Strauss said, the Russian exhibits in biology and some industrial uses were "not unimpressive and occasionally not greatly dissimilar from our own."

The United States did not go to Geneva with the intent of carrying away all honors, Strauss said.

But if there was the semblance of a contest in technical exhibits and scientific papers, he said, no nation lost—"all the nations gained and the winner was mankind."

"From the viewpoints of our national self-interest however, the conference was certainly a victory for fundamental American policy," the AEC chairman went on.

"We achieved new understanding abroad of our earnest effort to promote a decent and enduring peace."

Strauss cited as the "chief results" of the conference:

"First, the free world—perhaps even the Soviet—has a new understanding of the absolute sincerity of our desire to 'strip the atom of its military casing and to adapt it to the arts of peace.' The conference substantially advanced the President's program of 'atoms for peace.' . . .

"Second, communication was reestablished between men of science who for many years had experienced the isolation of finding those lines down. . . .

"Third, there can no longer be any talk of nations which, from the point of view of possessing the information for the peaceful application of atomic energy, are 'have not' nations.

"Fourth, we gained much information of value to ourselves from the conference. One by-product, I believe, was a rebirth of humility. We learned not to underrate the competence of others.

"Fifth, all of us were impressed by the disturbing fact that Russia appears to be training scientists and engineers at a faster rate than we are.

"Unless corrected, this situation a generation hence will become a national calamity, imperiling our security and freedom in an age in an expanding dependence upon science and technology.

"Sixth . . . for millions of people all over the world, Geneva cast off the mesmerism of the bomb.

"No other event that has occurred has done so much toward taking the horror, the terror out of the atom."

Midland Man Gets Two-Year Sentence

A Midland man was given a two-year jail sentence yesterday in Juvenile Court on a non-support charge.

Magistrate Morris Baron sentenced Bernard Fazenbaker to two years in the Maryland House of Correction for non-support of his wife and four minor children.

Magistrate Baron said Fazenbaker testified that he had been unemployed for the past two years, and that his wife had been doing house work to support the family.

Mahoney Is Visitor To Allegany County

George P. Mahoney of Baltimore has been campaigning in Allegany and Garrett counties for the past couple of days.

He arrived in Cumberland on Wednesday. He remarked that he was in Allegany County "trying to see all of the people who were so good to me here in my past campaigns." Mahoney was unsuccessful in his bid for governor of Maryland in 1950 and two years later lost as a candidate for the U. S. Senate. Last year he campaigned for the Democratic nomination for governor, but lost the primary to Dr. H. C. Byrd.

Opening Is Planned By Clothing Store

The new Peoples Store, 34 North Centre Street, will hold its grand opening today at 9 a. m.

The Peoples Store was previously located at 77 Baltimore Street, but took over and remodeled the present location, formerly the site of one of the Acme Markets.

The store has been in business locally for more than 25 years, and handles men's, women's and children's clothing, along with a line of shoes.

The new store will offer a wider selection of family apparel. Free souvenirs will be given to customers today.

Succoth Holidays Slated By Jews

The local Jewish congregations will celebrate the holiday of Succoth, the Feast of Tabernacles, today and Saturday.

During the holiday, booths hung with greenery and autumn fruits and vegetables are constructed adjoining homes and synagogues or on the altar of Temples. Each booth or Succah is a replica of abodes in which the Israelites lived, and is designed to prompt a feeling of gratitude to God for the earth's produce and for preserving those who strive for freedom. The holiday is similar to America's Thanksgiving Day.

Booths here are at the Beth Jacob Synagogue, on the altar of B'er Chayim Temple and at the home of Rabbi Daniel Lowy, 316 Cumberland Street.

Services at the Temple today will be at 8 p. m., and Saturday at 10 a. m. This evening's service will be followed by a social hour in the Temple vestry.

Services at the Synagogue will be at 8 p. m. today; 9:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. on Saturday and 9:30 a. m. on Sunday. The evening services will be followed by a reception in the Succah.

The 48 states of the U. S. have an average area of 63,058 square miles.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29 (INS) — Doing a little nosing around, I discovered that a deal has been made, or is about to be made, by Paramount with Irene Selznick for her play, "The Chalk Garden," which has not yet opened in New York.

The idea, I heard it whispered, is to put both Hepburns — Katharine and Audrey — in the one picture.

Buying pre-production plays is an old Paramount trick. They did it with a number of their top pictures, "Sabrina," "We're No Angels," and, of course, "The Desperate Hours."

The deal, I'm told, is 90 per cent closed, with agreements made.

Gale Storm continues to amaze me. She looks like a young girl, yet last week she celebrated 14 years of marriage to Lee Bonnell, by whom she has three tall sons.

Gale leaves for New York Sunday to do the Perry Como show, and when she returns she'll report to Hal Roach, Jr., for a new television show.

"My Little Margie," which enjoyed several years of success, has gone the way of most TV serials after a certain period of look and listen.

You could have heard a pin drop at the preview of "Rose Tattoo," that's how lusty, earthy Anna Magnani affected reviewers. Hal Wallis drank in words of praise for this picture, which, I must say, has skirted some of the delicate situations of the play without taking any of the force and color away. Personally, I felt the picture was better than the play.

Marisa Pavan can be put down as one of our best young stars. Burt Lancaster, in a completely different role, lightens the heavy, sombre drama with his comedy. And you can well understand that Virginia Grey felt the force of Magnani's blows, for there seldom has been a fight as primitive.

Heidi Mullinger, Donna Reed's attractive New York model sister, who now lives here, and Arthur Krim, head of United Artists, are seeing each other these autumn evenings.

Deborah Kerr had a call from Tony Bartley telling her he's taking off for London tomorrow to film a TV series for CBS.

Darryl Zanuck has all but closed a deal with Sir Alexander Korda for three CinemaScope pictures starring Alec Guinness, Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh.

Rev. Keefe said the coronation service is open to the public.

More Arab-Red Weapons Deals Are Anticipated

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29 (AP) — Egypt's purchase of arms from Communist Czechoslovakia could inspire similar deals throughout the Arab world.

A politician in neighboring Syria said, "We should seek arms from every place—even from the devil—provided this does not influence our sovereignty and independence."

Rashad Jabri, executive member of the Syrian People's party, voiced a growing sentiment in Arab states to bypass the United States, which cannot legally furnish arms without political strings attached.

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Russia is offering to supply arms to another Arab nation, Saudi Arabia. The paper said Soviet Premier Bulganin sent a message to King Saud to that effect.

King Saud last year turned down a U. S. offer of limited military assistance and told the United States to discontinue economic aid to the oil-rich but underdeveloped desert country.

Egypt's deal with Communist Czechoslovakia does not suggest that she prefers the Soviet bloc or is leaning to the left. Egyptain Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser was under heavy pressure from his own army officers to bolster Egyptain military strength in the face of border clashes with Israel.

Ever since the birth of Israel in 1948, Arabs have complained the big powers armed Israel but denied Arabs the means to defend themselves.

Nasser said he could not get arms from the United States without political agreements. Determined to rid Egypt of pacts and ties with foreign powers, he has refused to sign such agreements.

Economic reasons also figured in the deal. To get arms without strings attached, Egypt must buy them outright. U. S. arms are sold for U. S. dollars and Egypt is short of dollars.

Iron Curtain countries, on the other hand, are eager to barter arms for cotton and Egypt has a huge surplus of cotton. Czech arms are being bartered for Egyptain rice and cotton.

Many astronomers feel sure the large dark areas on Mars represent vegetation. A canal-like network could reflect 50-mile-wide bands of plant life growing in old river valleys. However, the lines do not meander; some shoot out like arrows for 1,500 miles. Unlike true rivers, they sometimes intersect.

Very Funny Show

Every time you start to count out situation comedy as a dead duck, something comes along. What has come along this time is the new Phil Silvers show "You'll Never Get Rich," a wonderfully inspired bit of lunacy.

In this one, two old pros, Mr. Silvers and his writer-director-producer, Nat Hiken, who has been supplying comedy for many, many years, team up to tell the story of Master Sergeant Bilko who is a cardsharp, promoter and master swindler of the barracks. Mr. Silvers is a veteran of that great old training ground — burlesque, and here he calls on all those wonderful old skills. One moment his face is a mask of cherubic innocence, the next it is alight with evil cunning.

The thought of fleecing a whole platoon of shiny new innocent recruits flashes across his countenance and is gone without the need for dialogue. As a matter of fact, Hiken has wisely kept Silvers' speeches to the minimum. Not that there aren't wisecracks; there are. But the funniest stretches of a very funny comedy series are when Silvers is stamping his foot in mock enthusiasm or simply staring beatifically into the eyes of the chaplain. His timing is a miracle.

"Bilko," says the chaplain, "you're a gambler, a sharpshooter and a promoter. You're everything I'm here to prevent the soldiers from becoming."

Actually, he isn't that bad. Bilko is the sort of guy who swindles for the principle of the thing rather than the money. His mind is alive with little strategems to unloose the unwary of his dough for the sheer pleasure of it. And, when it gets too easy — as it did in the opening installment — he gives the money back.

In this case, a rookie simply handed him the platoon savings, quoting "The Soldiers Guide" as saying "you can entrust your valuables to your sergeant."

"You didn't read the footnote which mentions my name," says Bilko.

"$320," corrects the rookie. Silvers does the same bit over again. "Oh, yes, one bill stuck." It's an old bit but it's still a pleasure to watch.

In the end, though, with his conscience bothering him, he restores the dough to the rookies. I have rather a suspicion that Master Sergeant Bilko, despite his massive reputation as a con man, will be a lovable old swindler who never gets to enjoy the fruits of his labor. Barracks life has provided some awfully funny comedy before —from "Dere Mabel" to "See Here Private Hargrove" — and "You'll Never Get Rich" has a rich source of material to draw from.

Actually, Mr. Silvers promises us that his show is not going to confine itself to the Army. Many of the situations he will be involved in have no connection with the Army at all. In short, it will be a comedy of character which is the best sort of comedy of all. It's also the hardest to write, the temptation being every present to get the star mixed up in absurd plots. But Mr. Hiken and Mr. Silvers, as I said earlier, are a couple of real old professionals, and I expect they will resist temptation.

I have only one complaint about this bright new show. The canned laughter department has gone out of its head on this one. At the opening of the show, before Silvers even gets on stage, every mild wisecracks greeted with a roar of implausible laughter as phony as a $3 bill. It is not only distracting; it's an insult to our intelligence. All the CBS comedy shows use a very heavy foot in the canned laughter department which is getting to be one of the leading complaints we get from the readers these days.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

TOO ADVANCED?

COMPLAINTS are occasionally addressed to this column (and others) that the hands and points discussed are often too advanced. "Most readers don't know enough about bridge to appreciate these fine points," some of these letters say. "Why not write about simple hands, with common mistakes?"

Well, the trouble is that if many of the most common errors were reported, there would probably be a mass movement of lipcurling, with everyone wondering why such silly mistakes should be discussed. The deal below illustrates my point. How many readers will need to be told that South made a horrible blunder in the play? Yet, in all fairness, quite a few of those same readers make similar or worse plays when they are actually at the table.

South dealer.

	♠ 8 5 2 ♥ J ♦ A K Q 10 8 3 ♣ 7 4 2
♠ K 9 3 ♥ K 10 8 7 4 2 ♦ 9 ♣ Q 10 6	N W E S	♠ Q 7 6 4 ♥ Q 5 3 ♦ J 6 2 ♣ A 8 5
	♠ A J 10 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ K J 9 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

West led his fourth-highest heart, and declarer held up his ace until it was driven out. He then ran off the entire diamond suit, discarding one club and two spades from his own hand, while East discarded two spades and a club. West gave up all three of his spades and two clubs, blanking his club queen. (He realized that if South had the club ace, even without the king, he would have nine sure tricks, since he was marked with the spade ace.)

Now, with seven tricks home and the spade ace still available, South needed only one club trick to make his game. He led a club from dummy and, when East unhesitatingly played low, South put in the jack! East spread his hand and claimed the rest of the tricks. Down two!

Considering that West was marked with two good hearts and would defeat the contract if he could get on lead with any card, it was rather silly for South to play the club jack instead of the king' The one hope was that East had the club ace.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

TOO ADVANCED?

COMPLAINTS are occasionally addressed to this column (and others) that the hands and points discussed are often too advanced. "Most readers don't know enough about bridge to appreciate these fine points," some of these letters say. "Why not write about simple hands, with common mistakes?"

Well, the trouble is that if many of the most common errors were reported, there would probably be a mass movement of lip-curling, with everyone wondering why such silly mistakes should be discussed. The deal below illustrates my point. How many readers will need to be told that South made a horrible blunder in the play? Yet, in all fairness, quite a few of those same readers make similar or worse plays when they are actually at the table.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 8 5 2 ♥ J ♦ A K Q 10 8 3 ♣ 7 4 2
♠ K 9 3 ♥ K 10 8 7 4 2 ♦ 9 ♣ Q 10 6	N W E S	♠ Q 7 6 4 ♥ Q 5 3 ♦ J 6 2 ♣ A 8 5
	♠ A J 10 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ K J 9 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

West led his fourth-highest heart, and declarer held up his ace until it was driven out. He then ran off the entire diamond suit, discarding one club and two spades from his own hand, while East discarded two spades and a club. West gave up all three of his spades and two clubs, blanking his club queen. (He realized that if South had the club ace, even without the king, he would have nine sure tricks, since he was marked with the spade ace.)

Now, with seven tricks home and the spade ace still available, South needed only one club trick to make his game. He led a club from dummy and, when East unhesitatingly played low, South put in the jack! East spread his hand and claimed the rest of the tricks. Down two!

Considering that West was marked with two good hearts and would defeat the contract if he could get on lead with any card, it was rather silly for South to play the club jack instead of the king! The one hope was that East had the club ace.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is ueed for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Stock Market Takes Rest In Strong Recovery Drive

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — The stock market took time out for consolidation today in its strong recovery drive from Monday's severe break.

At the opening it looked as though the market would score three straight advances in its effort to erase the losses that hit so hard Monday on the news that President Eisenhower had a heart attack.

That didn't hold to the close. A lot of backing and filling brought the market to within sighting distance of the finish, and then it turned definitely lower.

Railroads braced the list almost the entire day. Then they weakened a little in the final hour and eventually closed lower despite several good plus signs on the leaders.

Most changes either way were quite narrow—around 2 points lower to a point higher. There were a few exceptions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 90 cents at $174.10. That compares with a total advance of $4.90 on the two previous days and a low of $11.40 on Monday.

The industrial component of the average was lower by $2.10, rails dropped 30 cents, while utilities remained unchanged.

Injured Man Seeks $50,000 In Suit Here

Peter Creighton, 417 North Centre Street, who contends he was permanently injured when knocked down near his home by an automobile, yesterday filed a $50,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Creighton, through Attorney James S. Getty, filed the suit against Clarence Finzel of Mt. Savage.

The local man contends that he sustained abrasions and permanent injuries to his right knee when he was knocked down while walking across the street in the 300 block North Centre Street about 5:15 p. m. January 11.

As a result he has been unable to resume his work at the Queen City Dairy and has undergone considerable hospital and medical expenses, the declaration states.

Franklin Preston Spickler, Cearfoss, Washington County, filed a $5,000 damage suit August 15 in the Hagerstown court against the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio. He contended that his tractor-trailer was involved in a traffic accident in Somerset County (Pa.) January 6, 1954. He also charges in the suit, which was filed by Attorney Paul Ottinger of Hagerstown, that he carried a liability insurance policy with Farm Bureau but the company refused to defend him in a suit brought against him in Somerset County Common Pleas Court.

In turn the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company filed a counter-claim against Spickler. The company's attorney, William H. Geppert, this city, asserted that Spickler had failed to pay a $480.71 premium on workmen's compensation insurance and a $41.80 premium on general liability insurance.

City Defers

The city first opened garbage bids on April 4. The bids included Dougherty, $64,445; Beck, $64,800; Riley, $67,980 and Davis, $68,531.

Two weeks later, Commissioner Buchholtz introduced an order to award the contract to Riley, third from low bidder.

Get Court Ruling

Following considerable discussion during which the Health Department said both Dougherty and Riley have given satisfactory service in the past, the officials decided to readvertise, citing failure of the contract to specify pickup service.

At this point, a taxpayers suit was filed to prevent the city from readvertising.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris' opinion said the advertisement was not legally drawn since it omitted provisions for prevailing wages as required by the city charter.

Then the Mayor and Council amended the charter to provide that garbage crews work under similar wage and hour provisions as city workers.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stock Market Takes Rest In Strong Recovery Drive

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — The stock market took time out for consolidation today in its strong recovery drive from Monday's severe break.

At the opening it looked as though the market would score three straight advances in its effort to erase the losses that hit so hard Monday on the news that President Eisenhower had a heart attack.

That didn't hold to the close. A lot of backing and filling brought the market to within sighting distance of the finish, and then it turned definitely lower.

Railroads braced the list almost the entire day. Then they weakened a little in the final hour and eventually closed lower despite several good plus signs on the leaders.

Most changes either way were quite narrow—around 2 points lower to a point higher. There were a few exceptions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 90 cents at $174.10. That compares with a total advance of $4.90 on the two previous days and a low of $11.40 on Monday.

The industrial component of the average was lower by $2.10, rails dropped 30 cents, while utilities remained unchanged.

Injured Man Seeks $50,000 In Suit Here

Peter Creighton, 417 North Centre Street, who contends he was permanently injured when knocked down near his home by an automobile, yesterday filed a $50,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Creighton, through Attorney James S. Getty, filed the suit against Clarence Finzel of Mt. Savage.

The local man contends that he sustained abrasions and permanent injuries to his right knee when he was knocked down while walking across the street in the 300 block North Centre Street about 5:15 p. m. January 11.

As a result he has been unable to resume his work at the Queen City Dairy and has undergone considerable hospital and medical expenses, the declaration states.

Also filed yesterday was the record in a case removed here from Washington County Circuit Court.

Franklin Preston Spickler, Cearfoss, Washington County, filed a $5,000 damage suit August 15 in the Hagerstown court against the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio. He contended that his tractor-trailer was involved in a traffic accident in Somerset County (Pa.) January 6, 1954. He also charges in the suit, which was filed by Attorney Paul Ottinger of Hagerstown, that he carried a liability insurance policy with Farm Bureau but the company refused to defend him in a suit brought against him in Somerset County Common Pleas Court.

In turn the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company filed a counter-claim against Spickler. The company's attorney, William H. Geppert, this city, asserted that Spickler had failed to pay a $480.71 premium on workmen's compensation insurance and a $41.80 premium on general liability insurance.

wages and hours of work similar to those provided for city employes.

The city first opened garbage bids on April 4. The bids included Dougherty, $64,445; Beck, $64,800; Riley, $67,980 and Davis, $68,531.

Two weeks later, Commissioner Buchholtz introduced an order to award the contract to Riley, third from low bidder.

Get Court Ruling

Following considerable discussion during which the Health Department said both Dougherty and Riley have given satisfactory service in the past, the officials decided to readvertise, citing failure of the contract to specify pickup service.

At this point, a taxpayers suit was filed to prevent the city from readvertising.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris' opinion said the advertisement was not legally drawn since it omitted provisions for prevailing wages as required by the city charter.

Then the Mayor and Council amended the charter to provide that garbage crews work under similar wage and hour provisions as city workers.

City Defers Action On Garbage Pact

Special Meeting Planned Tomorrow

The Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon agreed to defer the awarding of the city garbage contract until Saturday at 10 a. m. after Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asked for additional time to study the subject.

He said he was in no position to make a recommendation on the subject since he had not had an opportunity to discuss the awarding of the pact with Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, or Thomas B. Finan, city attorney.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he did not believe the awards would be made until Monday morning and had learned belatedly of the special meeting called for yesterday at 4 p. m.

Agree To Delay

Other city officials, who are understood to have been ready to award the contract to the low bidder, approved a motion to make the award tomorrow morning.

Mayor Roy W. Eves opened the meeting by reading the bids submitted by four contractors, all of whom have held city garbage contracts. They were:

C. L. Beck, $66,000; Emmett A. Dougherty, $66,445; John Riley and Son, $69,240, and Harry E. Davis, $72,531.

At this point, Commissioner Buchholtz indicated he was not in a position to make a recommendation, saying he had not met with Finan and Dr. Frantz, and pointed out the health officer was not present to allow an immediate conference.

Want No Argument

Mayor Eves said Finan had indicated the award should be made before October 1, the date for the contract to open.

Finan said he felt the award should be made before October 1 to prevent an argument.

He said Riley, the present contractor, last week agreed that if he did not secure the contract he would be willing to continue on for another month to give the successful bidder time to get equipment, or would sell his equipment.

Buchholtz said no meeting has been held by the group to which the bids were referred, that it was not possible to make the award, and that he wanted a discussion.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan asked if Beck, the low bidder, would be in a position to haul the garbage.

Beck, Finan said, reports he is making arrangements to buy new equipment or secure vehicles used by Riley or from Dougherty, who held the contract before Riley.

Gibson pointed out that if Beck has to buy new equipment he will "have rough sledding.

Include Wage Boost

He was referring to the fact that Beck's bid of $66,000 is below the $67,140 paid to Riley last year while wage boosts required under the contract will boost labor costs by as much as $1,300 a year.

At Buchholtz' request, the meeting was recessed for 10 minutes to allow him to confer with Finan.

During this time, other members read a letter from Local 453, Teamsters Union, citing the improvement in garbage service provided by John Riley and Son.

The union said it realized that since the Riley firm's bid was high, it poses a problem since the Mayor and Council would "feel obliged to award the contract on the basis of cost to the taxpayers."

Asks Work For Men

The union said it felt taxpayers would not be hurt considering the outstanding services the firm has rendered. It said Riley and Son, which employs members of Local 453, has lived up to wage scale and conditions and asked consideration for awarding the contract to the firm for another term.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent, concluded by saying that if the request could not be granted, the union requests that the successful bidder employ its members who are working for Riley.

Want Assurance

Aside from the equipment angle, city officials expressed concern over profits of the successful bidder.

This issue was discussed during the recess, with the view that the city officials wanted assurance that the bidder would be able to fulfill his contract and not dump the garbage problem back into the hands of the Mayor and Council.

Several members of the official body, however, felt that the award could be made on the basis of price alone, since a new contract had been drawn up containing provisions for pickup service and for

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

County To Get $755 For Timber From State Land

A check for $755.37 will be presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today, representing the county's 15 per cent share of the receipts from timber cut off state-owned land at Green Ridge State Forest between April 1 and June 30 of this year.

District Forester William H. Johnson said this will bring to $1,074.67 the amount received by the county for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

In all, the four Western Maryland counties in Johnson's district will receive $2,776.09 for receipts in the final quarter of the last fiscal year. Total for the four counties in the entire fiscal year amounts to $7,925.29.

Biggest beneficiary will be the Garrett County commissioners, due to get $1,774 for the fourth quarter of last fiscal year and a total of $6,003. Besides revenue from timber cutting on Savage River, Potomac and Swallow Falls state forests, this total also includes 15 per cent of the receipts from cottages at Herrington Manor and New Germany.

Frederick County will get $186 for the final quarter of the past fiscal year and a year's total of $699 from Gambrills and Cunningham Falls state parks. Washington County, lowest of the four, is due to get $60.72 for the quarter and a total of $148.62 for the year from Fort Frederick and Washington Monument State Park.

Because the county gets no tax revenue from the state forests and state parks, the state pays each county 15 per cent of the receipts from timber cuttings and other revenue-producing facilities on the state-owned land.

Cuttings off the state-owned land are still limited because the State Department of Forests and Parks is trying to assist the growth of forest stands. It has been estimated that the state forests in Garrett County now have about 3,000 board feet of timber to the acre. The ultimate goal is between 6,000 and 8,000 feet. When that growth is reached, timber cutting can be expanded and the counties will then be receiving considerable more in revenue than they formerly got in taxes. That goal may be reached in 18 to 20 years, Johnson believes.

Youths Tried In Shell Theft

Two Cresaptown area youths pleaded guilty yesterday in Juvenile Court to breaking into a hardware store in that community to get shells so they could go hunting.

Magistrate Morris Baron paroled the younger lad, who is 14, for two years under strict supervision and ordered a psychiatric examination for his 17-year-old brother.

The lads were arrested late Wednesday night by Sgt. Harry Holsinger. State police recovered all of the loot, which included a supply of shotgun shells and some pocket knives.

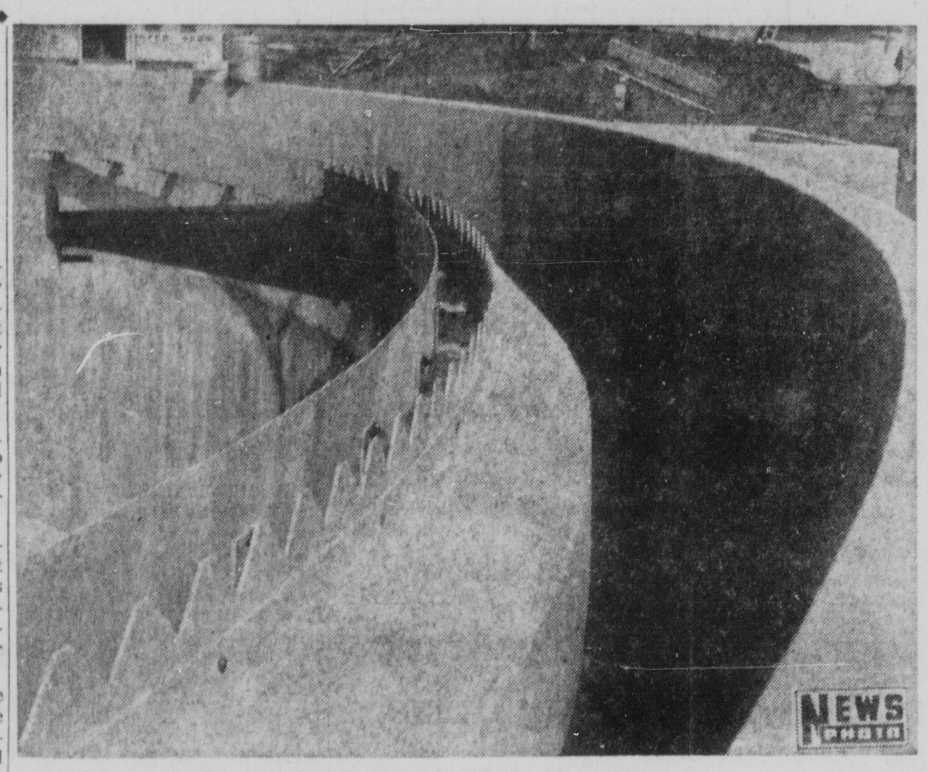
Officials said the younger lad has no record but seems to have kleptomaniac tendencies, and said his mother has made a sincere effort to recognize it as an ailment. The older brother is retarded in his school work and has a juvenile court record.

The magistrate said neither lad had any excuse for his action except that they wanted shells to go hunting.

Ridgeley CD Unit Will Meet Tonight

A meeting of all persons interested in Civil Defense will be held at Ridgeley High School tonight at 8 o'clock, according to Mrs. Virginia Zimmerman, Third Avenue, Ridgeley, CD coordinator.

At tonight's session, there will be discussion of plans to extend the organization to cover all areas of the community, to interest more people in protecting themselves in the event of any type of disaster, and there will also be demonstrations on first aid. Those members who have bandages issued for practice should bring them to the meeting tonight, as one demonstration will include the proper method of setting splints with bandages.



Sewage Unit Takes Shape

Workers at Cumberland's $2,000,000 sewage treatment are completing the installation of machinery for one of the primary clarifiers shown here. The top view shows the mechanism which will scrape sludge from the side of the big tank and push it into hoppers for disposition. Below is a view of the top of unit, showing the wier over which liquids flow into the outside channel. From this channel, the effluents flow to the chlorine contact, where they will be sterilized before being dumped into the Potomac River.

City Workers To Hear Story Of Chest Drive

Robert E. Barnard, classified chairman for the Cumberland Community Chest, yesterday afternoon asked the Mayor and Council to assist in plans for the participation of city employes in the coming Red Feather drive.

The commissioners promised to assist in arrangements for meetings so speakers can "tell the story" of the work of Cumberland's nine Chest agencies.

Urging a systematic plan for giving, he said Chest records showed the 241 employes of the city last year gave $151 to the chest, for an average of from 50 to 60 cents an employe.

Three Plans Cited

Chest workers, he said, are asking employers in the city to provide better ways to contribute to the united campaign and said the secret is a payroll deduction plan.

He said the city might also consider an inter-city solicitation or a deferred payment plan.

If each employe signed up for a 10 or 15 cent contribution each week, the contributions of city workers could be boosted to nearly $1,000, he reported.

Most firms, he said, have found that the payroll deduction plan is the easiest to administer. Workers who move away or have sickness or any just cause are released from the pledge, he reported.

To Plan Meetings

In reply to a query of Mayor Roy W. Eves, City Auditor Arthur B Gibson said prospects for a payroll deduction plan are "not too good" since the city is already making so many deductions for its employes.

The mayor asked all department heads to contact their employes and to cooperate in setting up meetings asked by Chest workers.

The spirit of the Chest workers showed up when one commissioner pointed out the only time meetings could be arranged for all his workers was at 7 a. m.

"Chest speakers have been up at 5 a. m," said Barnard in accepting the challenge.

Barnard was accompanied by Ernest Treat to the meeting in City Hall, held prior to a special meeting called to act on the garbage contract.

Two Community Chest Units Will Meet Today

Two big meetings are on tap tomorrow with the Community Chest campaign workers as the time for the kick-off of the $125,794 drive on Tuesday nears.

The advance gifts committee will hold its third report meeting tomorrow at noon in Central YMCA.

At the same time in Room 204 of the Fort Cumberland Hotel Robert E. Barnard Jr., chairman of the classified section, will have another training meeting for three of his teams. The classified section handles the industries.

Last night the Sales Army headed by H. D. Barber met in Central YMCA for an instruction meeting for the captains and their teams. This group contacts firms having fewer than eight employes.

Meanwhile, labor organizations have voiced their support of the drive to raise money to meet the budgets of nine community agencies.

Official endorsement of the campaign together with participation in various deduction plans for contributors was reported by the union officials at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of Barnard.

Representing the AFL unions were Charles Cross, business agent of Steamfitters and Plumbers Union local 489; Coy F. Dyer, of the same local who is a member of the Chest budget committee; Robert T. Weaver, Laborers and Hodcarriers Local 616; Harry Hickle of Operators Union Local 37-B; Joseph Garlitz, business agent of the Dairy Workers Union, the Retail Clerks Union, and secretary-treasurer of the Allegany Trades Council.

Also at the meeting were A. W. Wilson, vice president of the George F. Hazelwood Company, and Chauncy M. Sanner, secretary of the same firm; George Buchanan, president and general manager of the Buchanan Lumber Company and James Weber, vice president of the South Cumberland Planing Mill.

Garlitz reported that the current drive for the nine Red Feather agencies was endorsed by the Allegany Trades Council, to which the unions he represents belong.

Barnard also stated that George Lucas, president of the Building Trades Council and business agent of Electricians Local 307 said his union and the council also voted to support the drive 100 per cent

Lucas said the electricians union backed the withholding plan of making contributions. All members were asked to participate, he added.

It was agreed that there would be difficulty in construction work of setting up a withholding plan through the contractors, as they may not be in this area for a year.

Barnard then suggested that where it is necessary that the union take over those collection duties during the year, on a weekly, monthly, quarterly and semi-annual basis.

This proposal received unanimous approval.

Del. Cook Plans To Attend GAW Study Session

Delegate Noel Speir Cook will attend a meeting in Baltimore today of a sub-committee named by the Legislative Council to study the effect of guaranteed annual wage clauses in union contracts on Maryland's unemployment compensation laws.

The meeting will be held at 1 p. m. (EST) in the Baltimore City Hall, with Senator Thomas F. Dempsey (D-Ba. 3), chairman of the sub-committee presiding.

Del. Cook, named to represent Western Maryland on the study group, said all members of the Legislative Council have been invited to attend.

The sub-committee was appointed early this year to study and report to the Council on what changes, if any will be needed, to bring laws in conformity with GAW clauses won in union contracts.

Del. Cook said today's session may result in a definite recommendation to the Legislative Council. Two other meetings, one in Baltimore in July and the other in New Germany last month, have been held to explore the subject.

He said any Legislative Council sponsored legislation resulting from the committee's study would be submitted at the 1956 session which opens February 8.

A number of unions in Maryland, including locals in Hagerstown and Baltimore, have won GAW provisions in their contracts.

Legislation which brings unemployment laws in conformity with the GAW provisions has been listed as one of the prime objectives of state labor organizations.

Old Mt. Savage School Termed Health Menace

A letter from Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, urging the demolition of the old Mt. Savage School property, is expected to be acted upon by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today.

Similar action was taken Tuesday on the old Eckhart School property.

Dr. Frantz notes that an inspection by J. B. Dowling of the Health Department and City Fire Chief Virgil Parker reveals that the old Mt. Savage School property is unfit for human habitation and dangerous to the life and health of the neighborhood.

K Of C Plans Shrimp Feed This Evening

This evening Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will hold a shrimp feed in the second floor lounge of the home on North Mechanic Street.

The affair will begin at 9 p. m. Admissions are available for members and friends. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Raymond J. Wempe, Lawrence E. Geiger, John J. Loibel Jr., Joseph A. Soethe, Thomas E. Simon and George R. Pratt.

State Expands Recreation Area At Lonaconing

State Now Owns Nearly 125 Acres

The State Department of Forests and Parks has acquired nearly 15 more acres of land to add to the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area and District Forester William H. Johnson said a fish pond and baseball diamond will be developed there.

Deeds for the two new tracts were received by the district forester yesterday. Delbert L. Fazenbaker and Delphia M. Fazenbaker have sold the State of Maryland seven-and-one-half acres for use of the Department of Forests and Parks. John Wattenschaidt and Margaret Wattenschaidt, his wife, sold another seven-and-one-tenth acres to the state.

Development of the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area started about five years ago shortly after the tragic death of two students of old Central High School in Lonaconing in a truck accident which occurred as they were headed to a class outing at Minke's swimming pool on Christie Road east of Cumberland.

Townspeople of Lonaconing immediately began a campaign for a recreation area for their youngsters closer to home. Some 100 acres was donated to the State Department of Forests and Parks September 19, 1950. Fifty acres came from the Georges Creek Coal Company and 50 acres from Alvie F. Green and his wife.

Several years ago another 10 acres was purchased from Casper Hadley. With the property just acquired, the state now owns 124.6 acres within a half mile of Lonaconing.

Johnson figures that probably $30,000 has been spent by the state in acquiring land, clearing it and making needed improvements already.

The projects at the recreation area finished in the last five years have included road improvements, development of a parking area, construction of a stone and wood picnic pavilion capable of seating 65, a 10,000-gallon reservoir and deep well which provides an adequate water supply. In addition two springs have been walled up, the entire area cleaned up and brush removed, a one-mile foot trail marked out and 10 fireplaces and 50 picnic tables constructed.

Because there is no full time employe at the area it has been impossible to figure how many people use its facilities. However, a spot check on summer Sundays has shown as many as 300 persons on hand.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk On Europe

Charles F. Helmrich took his fellow members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club on a figurative trip to Europe as he recalled some of the incidents of the 18-day trip which he and his wife had overseas last summer.

Helmrich was the speaker at the Kiwanis meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

He pointed out that they met Elmo Gower, a former Cumberlander and his wife in France and they took them on a tour of the French countryside. Gower is an attorney in West Germany now.

The speaker and his wife took a plane from Newfoundland to England. He said he became a little apprehensive when the hostess went into the elaborate discussion of life preserving equipment aboard the airship.

In his brief remarks Helmrich cited some of the key points of interest which he saw in London, Paris and France. Hyde Park in London, where any man will have an audience for any kind of speech he wishes to make, particularly fascinated him.

Rumors he had heard about the impurity of European drinking water, the inferiority of European cigarets and the excessive emphasis upon tipping did not prove correct, he explained.

Of the three countries in which he spent considerable time, Helmrich said he would perfer to return to England because of the charm of the people. About France he liked best the countryside.

Board Approves Beer License In Cresaptown

Remonstrance Is Dismissed

An opinion and order dismissing a remonstrance against the issuance of a Class D beer license to Charles M. Evans at Cresaptown were signed yesterday by the three-man Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners.

The board granted Evans the license for the Silver Lanes Bowling Alley, which has held such a permit for most of the 14 years it has been in operation. It was not renewed in May because the place was closed for the summer.

The opinion, signed by Walter C. Capper, chairman; Stanley O. Hamilton and Howard W. Vandegrift, begins by observing that about the only real ground relied upon by the remonstrants in this case is that Cresaptown and vicinity already have enough alcoholic beverage licenses.

No Restrictions

"In this connection, we must point out that the Legislature has not seen fit to place any restrictions on the number of beer licenses in Allegany County," the opinion stated. "The board, therefore, has to be careful in refusing a license on this ground to be certain that its action is not arbitrary or capricious.

"In this case, the testimony all shows that both the owner of the premises involved and the applicant are highly respected citizens of Cresaptown. The premises involved constitute a building occupied as a bowling alley with six separate alleys. Previous tenants of this property have had beer licenses for a number of years and no complaint has ever been registered concerning violation of the law."

The opinion goes on to explain that William C. Straw, owner of the premises, testified that there has been a beer license there during the past six years but the bowling alley did not operate from May until September each year.

Only With Parents

Straw also said that teen-agers were permitted to come there and bowl only when accompanied by their parents. The board members state that they do not believe that bowling by teen-agers, accompanied by parents or otherwise, constitutes loafing or loitering within the true meaning and intent of the liquor law.

"We think bowling is a genuine recreational sport, commonly participated in by large numbers of persons and their families and it is not to be construed as utter idleness," the opinion said. "The witnesses produced by Rev. Raymond M. Crowe consisted of himself, Miss Judith Johnson, a 20-year-old student; George E. Broadwater, a Celanese worker, and Harvey Dean.

"None of these people had ever been in this bowling alley and had no complaints to make except their fears that teen-agers would somehow come in contact with the sale of beer.

"The evidence shows that the section of the bowling alley where beer is sold can be partitioned from the alleys so that the patrons will not come in contact with the beer at all unless they wish to purchase it for their own use. Of course, under the law, no teen-ager can purchase any beer or be given any beer on the licensed premises by the licensee or any other person."

Building Permits Approved By Appeals Board

Two local residents were granted permission to build additions to their present properties during a meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals held last night at City Hall.

Both building permits taken before the appeals board were unanimously approved. George Garlitz, 613 Memorial Avenue, had made application to build an addition to his property which will measure 10 feet by 16 feet and will be located on the side of his present dwelling.

The addition will have a concrete block foundation, brick walls, asphalt shingle roof and will be situated in a Residential "B" Zoning District. Garlitz is owner of the property.

In the other appeal case, Charles H. Whetsell, 609 Lincoln Street, applied to build a garage in the rear of a lot at the same address. The one-story structure will measure 24 feet by 15 feet and will have a concrete foundation and walls.

The garage will have a built-up roof, is situated in a Residential "B" Zoning District and is owned by Whetsell. Present at the meeting were Charles P. Roeder, chairman, James C. Gardner, secretary, William B. Orndorff, member of the board, and Earl E. Manges, attorney for the group.

Student Is Injured In Fall At School

City Defers Action On Garbage Pact

Special Meeting Planned Tomorrow

The Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon agreed to defer the awarding of the city garbage contract until Saturday at 10 a. m. after Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz asked for additional time to study the subject.

He said he was in no position to make a recommendation on the subject since he had not had an opportunity to discuss the awarding of the pact with Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, or Thomas B. Finan, city attorney.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he did not believe the awards would be made until Monday morning and had learned belatedly of the special meeting called for yesterday at 4 p. m.

Agree To Delay

Other city officials, who are understood to have been ready to award the contract to the low bidder, approved a motion to make the award tomorrow morning.

Mayor Roy W. Eves opened the meeting by reading the bids submitted by four contractors, all of whom have held city garbage contracts. They were:

C. L. Beck, $66,000; Emmett A. Dougherty, $66,445; John Riley and Son, $69,240, and Harry E. Davis, $72,531.

At this point, Commissioner Buchholtz indicated he was not in a position to make a recommendation, saying he had not met with Finan and Dr. Frantz, and pointed out the health officer was not present to allow an immediate conference.

Want No Argument

Mayor Eves said Finan had indicated the award should be made before October 1, the date for the contract to open.

Finan said he felt the award should be made before October 1 to prevent an argument.

He said Riley, the present contractor, last week agreed that if he did not secure the contract he would be willing to continue on for another month to give the successful bidder time to get equipment, or would sell his equipment.

Buchholtz said no meeting has been held by the group to which the bids were referred, that it was not possible to make the award, and that he wanted a discussion.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan asked if Beck, the low bidder, would be in a position to haul the garbage.

Beck, Finan said, reports he is making arrangements to buy new equipment or secure vehicles used by Riley or from Dougherty, who held the contract before Riley.

Gibson pointed out that if Beck has to buy new equipment he will "have rough sledding.

Include Wage Boost

He was referring to the fact that Beck's bid of $66,000 is below the $67,140 paid to Riley last year while wage boosts required under the contract will boost labor costs by as much as $1,300 a year.

At Buchholtz' request, the meeting was recessed for 10 minutes to allow him to confer with Finan.

During this time, other members read a letter from Local 453, Teamsters Union, citing the improvement in garbage service provided by John Riley and Son.

The union said it realized that since the Riley firm's bid was high, it poses a problem since the Mayor and Council would "feel obliged to award the contract on the basis of cost to the taxpayers."

Asks Work For Men

The union said it felt taxpayers would not be hurt considering the outstanding services the firm has rendered. It said Riley and Son, which employs members of Local 453, has lived up to wage scale and conditions and asked consideration for awarding the contract to the firm for another term.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent, concluded by saying that if the request could not be granted, the union requests that the successful bidder employ its members who are working for Riley.

Want Assurance

Aside from the equipment angle, city officials expressed concern over profits of the successful bidder.

This issue was discussed during the recess, with the view that the city officials wanted assurance that the bidder would be able to fulfill his contract and not dump the garbage problem back into the hands of the Mayor and Council.

Several members of the official body, however, felt that the award could be made on the basis of price alone, since a new contract had been drawn up containing provisions for pickup service and for

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

County To Get $755 For Timber From State Land

A check for $755.37 will be presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today, representing the county's 15 per cent share of the receipts from timber cut off state-owned land at Green Ridge State Forest between April 1 and June 30 of this year.

District Forester William H. Johnson said this will bring to $1,074.67 the amount received by the county for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

In all, the four Western Maryland counties in Johnson's district will receive $2,776.09 for receipts in the final quarter of the last fiscal year. Total for the four counties in the entire fiscal year amounts to $7,925.29.

Biggest beneficiary will be the Garrett County commissioners, due to get $1,774 for the fourth quarter of last fiscal year and a total of $6,003. Besides revenue from timber cutting on Savage River, Potomac and Swallow Falls state forests, this total also includes 15 per cent of the receipts from cottages at Herrington Manor and New Germany.

Frederick County will get $186 for the final quarter of the past fiscal year and a year's total of $699 from Gambrills and Cunningham Falls state parks. Washington County, lowest of the four, is due to get $60.72 for the quarter and a total of $148.62 for the year from Fort Frederick and Washington Monument State Park.

Because the county gets no tax revenue from the state forests and state parks, the state pays each county 15 per cent of the receipts from timber cuttings and other revenue-producing facilities on the state-owned land.

Cuttings off the state-owned land are still limited because the State Department of Forests and Parks is trying to assist the growth of forest stands. It has been estimated that the state forests in Garrett County now have about 3,000 board feet of timber to the acre. The ultimate goal is between 6,000 and 8,000 feet. When that growth is reached, timber cutting can be expanded and the counties will then be receiving considerable more in revenue than they formerly got in taxes. That goal may be reached in 18 to 20 years, Johnson believes.

Youths Tried In Shell Theft

Two Cresaptown area youths pleaded guilty yesterday in Juvenile Court to breaking into a hardware store in that community to get shells so they could go hunting.

Magistrate Morris Baron paroled the younger lad, who is 14, for two years under strict supervision and ordered a psychiatric examination for his 17-year-old brother.

The lads were arrested late Wednesday night by Sgt. Harry Holsinger. State police recovered all of the loot, which included a supply of shotgun shells and some pocket knives.

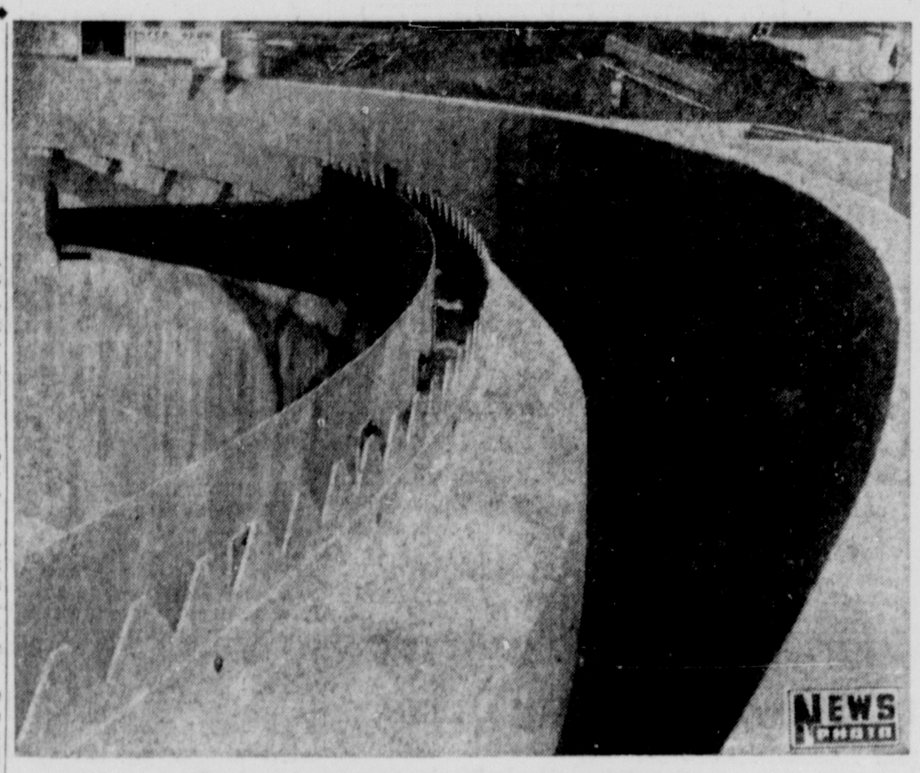
Officials said the younger lad has no record but seems to have kleptomaniac tendencies, and said his mother has made a sincere effort to recognize it as an ailment. The older brother is retarded in his school work and has a juvenile court record.

The magistrate said neither lad had any excuse for his action except that they wanted shells to go hunting.

Ridgeley CD Unit Will Meet Tonight

A meeting of all persons interested in Civil Defense will be held at Ridgeley High School tonight at 8 o'clock, according to Mrs. Virginia Zimmerman, Third Avenue, Ridgeley, CD coordinator.

At tonight's session, there will be discussion of plans to extend the organization to cover all areas of the community, to interest more people in protecting themselves in the event of any type of disaster, and there will also be demonstrations on first aid. Those members who have bandages issued for practice should bring them to the meeting tonight, as one demonstration will include the proper method of setting splints with bandages.



Sewage Unit Takes Shape

Workers at Cumberland's $2,000,000 sewage treatment are completing the installation of machinery for one of the primary clarifiers shown here. The top view shows the mechanism which will scrape sludge from the side of the big tank and push it into hoppers for disposition. Below is a view of the top of unit, showing the wier over which liquids flow into the outside channel. From this channel, the effluents flow to the chlorine contact, where they will be sterilized before being dumped into the Potomac River.

City Workers To Hear Story Of Chest Drive

Robert E. Barnard, classified chairman for the Cumberland Community Chest, yesterday afternoon asked the Mayor and Council to assist in plans for the participation of city employes in the coming Red Feather drive.

The commissioners promised to assist in arrangements for meetings so speakers can "tell the story" of the work of Cumberland's nine Chest agencies.

Urging a systematic plan for giving, he said Chest records showed the 241 employes of the city last year gave $151 to the chest, for an average of from 50 to 60 cents an employe.

Three Plans Cited

Chest workers, he said, are asking employers in the city to provide better ways to contribute to the united campaign and said the secret is a payroll deduction plan.

He said the city might also consider an inter-city solicitation or a deferred payment plan.

If each employe signed up for a 10 or 15 cent contribution each week, the contributions of city workers could be boosted to nearly $1,000, he reported.

Most firms, he said, have found that the payroll deduction plan is the easiest to administer. Workers who move away or have sickness or any just cause are released from the pledge, he reported.

To Plan Meetings

In reply to a query of Mayor Roy W. Eves, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said prospects for a payroll deduction plan are "not too good" since the city is already making so many deductions for its employes.

The mayor asked all department heads to contact their employes and to cooperate in setting up meetings asked by Chest workers.

The spirit of the Chest workers showed up when one commissioner pointed out the only time meetings could be arranged for all his workers was at 7 a. m.

"Chest speakers have been up at 5 a. m," said Barnard in accepting the challenge.

K Of C Plans Shrimp Feed This Evening

This evening Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will hold a shrimp feed in the second floor lounge of the home on North Mechanic Street.

The affair will begin at 9 p. m. Admissions are available for members and friends. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Raymond J. Wempe, Lawrence E. Geiger, John J. Loibel Jr., Joseph A. Soethe, Thomas E. Simon and George R. Pratt.

Two Community Chest Units Will Meet Today

Two big meetings are on tap tomorrow with the Community Chest campaign workers as the time for the kick-off of the $125,794 drive on Tuesday nears.

The advance gifts committee will hold its third report meeting tomorrow at noon in Central YMCA.

At the same time in Room 204 of the Fort Cumberland Hotel Robert E. Barnard Jr., chairman of the classified section, will have another training meeting for three of his teams. The classified section handles the industries.

Last night the Sales Army headed by H. D. Barber met in Central YMCA for an instruction meeting for the captains and their teams. This group contacts firms having fewer than eight employes.

Meanwhile, labor organizations have voiced their support of the drive to raise money to meet the budgets of nine community agencies.

Official endorsement of the campaign together with participation in various deduction plans for contributors was reported by the union officials at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of Barnard.

Representing the AFL unions were Charles Cross, business agent of Steamfitters and Plumbers Union local 489; Coy F. Dyer, of the same local who is a member of the Chest budget committee; Robert T. Weaver, Laborers and Hodcarriers Local 616; Harry Hickle of Operators Union Local 37-B; Joseph Garlitz, business agent of the Dairy Workers Union, the Retail Clerks Union, and secretary-treasurer of the Allegany Trades Council.

Also at the meeting were A. W. Wilson, vice president of the George F. Hazelwood Company, and Chauncy M. Sanner, secretary of the same firm; George Buchanan, president and general manager of the Buchanan Lumber Company and James Weber, vice president of the South Cumberland Planing Mill.

Garlitz reported that the current drive for the nine Red Feather agencies was endorsed by the Allegany Trades Council, to which the unions he represents belong.

Barnard also stated that George Lucas, president of the Building Trades Council and business agent of Electricians Local 307 said his union and the council also voted to support the drive 100 per cent.

Lucas said the electricians union backed the withholding plan of making contributions. All members were asked to participate, he added.

It was agreed that there would be difficulty in construction work of setting up a withholding plan through the contractors, as they may not be in this area for a year.

Barnard then suggested that where it is necessary that the union take over those collection duties during the year, on a weekly, monthly, quarterly and semi-annual basis.

This proposal received unanimous approval.

Del. Cook Plans To Attend GAW Study Session

Delegate Noel Speir Cook will attend a meeting in Baltimore today of a sub-committee named by the Legislative Council to study the effect of guaranteed annual wage clauses in union contracts on Maryland's unemployment compensation laws.

The meeting will be held at 1 p. m. (EST) in the Baltimore City Hall, with Senator Thomas F. Dempsey (D-Ba. 3), chairman of the sub-committee presiding.

Del. Cook, named to represent Western Maryland on the study group, said all members of the Legislative Council have been invited to attend.

The sub-committee was appointed early this year to study and report to the Council on what changes, if any will be needed, to bring laws in conformity with GAW clauses won in union contracts.

Del. Cook said today's session may result in a definite recommendation to the Legislative Council. Two other meetings, one in Baltimore in July and the other in New Germany last month, have been held to explore the subject.

He said any Legislative Council sponsored legislation resulting from the committee's study would be submitted at the 1956 session which opens February 8.

A number of unions in Maryland, including locals in Hagerstown and Baltimore, have won GAW provisions in their contracts.

Legislation which brings unemployment laws in conformity with the GAW provisions has been listed as one of the prime objectives of state labor organizations.

Old Mt. Savage School Termed Health Menace

A letter from Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, urging the demolition of the old Mt. Savage School property, is expected to be acted upon by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today.

Similar action was taken Tuesday on the old Eckhart School property.

Dr. Frantz notes that an inspection by J. B. Dowling of the Health Department and City Fire Chief Virgil Parker reveals that the old Mt. Savage School property is unfit for human habitation and dangerous to the life and health of the neighborhood.

State Expands Recreation Area At Lonaconing

State Now Owns Nearly 125 Acres

The State Department of Forests and Parks has acquired nearly 15 more acres of land to add to the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area and District Forester William H. Johnson said a fish pond and baseball diamond will be developed there.

Deeds for the two new tracts were received by the district forester yesterday. Delbert L. Fazenbaker and Delphia M. Fazenbaker have sold the State of Maryland seven-and-one-half acres for use of the Department of Forests and Parks. John Wattenschaidt and Margaret Wattenschaidt, his wife, sold another seven-and-one-tenth acres to the state.

Development of the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area started about five years ago shortly after the tragic death of two students of old Central High School in Lonaconing in a truck accident which occurred as they were headed to a class outing at Minke's swimming pool on Christie Road east of Cumberland.

Townspeople of Lonaconing immediately began a campaign for a recreation area for their youngsters closer to home. Some 100 acres was donated to the State Department of Forests and Parks September 19, 1950. Fifty acres came from the Georges Creek Coal Company and 50 acres from Alvie F. Green and his wife.

Several years ago another 10 acres was purchased from Casper Hadley. With the property just acquired, the state now owns 124.6 acres within a half mile of Lonaconing.

Johnson figures that probably $30,000 has been spent by the state in acquiring land, clearing it and making needed improvements already.

The projects at the recreation area finished in the last five years have included road improvements, development of a parking area, construction of a stone and wood picnic pavilion capable of seating 65, a 10,000-gallon reservoir and deep well which provides an adequate water supply. In addition two springs have been walled up, the entire area cleaned up and brush removed, a one-mile foot trail marked out and 10 fireplaces and 50 picnic tables constructed.

Because there is no full time employe at the area it has been impossible to figure how many people use its facilities. However, a spot check on summer Sundays has shown as many as 300 persons on hand.

Future plans include the establishment of two tenting areas.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk On Europe

Charles F. Helmrich took his fellow members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club on a figurative trip to Europe as he recalled some of the incidents of the 18-day trip which he and his wife had overseas last summer.

Helmrich was the speaker at the Kiwanis meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

He pointed out that they met Elmo Gower, a former Cumberlander and his wife in France and they took them on a tour of the French countryside. Gower is an attorney in West Germany now.

The speaker and his wife took a plane from Newfoundland to England. He said he became a little apprehensive when the hostess went into the elaborate discussion of life preserving equipment aboard the airship.

In his brief remarks Helmrich cited some of the key points of interest which he saw in London, Paris and France. Hyde Park in London, where any man will have an audience for any kind of speech he wishes to make, particularly fascinated him.

Rumors he had heard about the impurity of European drinking water, the inferiority of European cigarets and the excessive emphasis upon tipping did not prove correct, he explained.

Of the three countries in which he spent considerable time, Helmrich said he would perfer to return to England because of the charm of the people. About France he liked best the countryside.

Board Approves Beer License In Cresaptown

Remonstrance Is Dismissed

An opinion and order dismissing a remonstrance against the issuance of a Class D beer license to Charles M. Evans at Cresaptown were signed yesterday by the three-man Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners.

The board granted Evans the license for the Silver Lanes Bowling Alley, which has held such a permit for most of the 14 years it has been in operation. It was not renewed in May because the place was closed for the summer.

The opinion, signed by Walter C. Capper, chairman; Stanley O. Hamilton and Howard W. Vandegrift, begins by observing that about the only real ground relied upon by the remonstrants in this case is that Cresaptown and vicinity already have enough alcoholic beverage licenses.

No Restrictions

"In this connection, we must point out that the Legislature has not seen fit to place any restrictions on the number of beer licenses in Allegany County," the opinion stated. "The board, therefore, has to be careful in refusing a license on this ground to be certain that its action is not arbitrary or capricious.

"In this case, the testimony all shows that both the owner of the premises involved and the applicant are highly respected citizens of Cresaptown. The premises involved constitute a building occupied as a bowling alley with six separate alleys. Previous tenants of this property have had beer licenses for a number of years and no complaint has ever been registered concerning violation of the law."

The opinion goes on to explain that William C. Straw, owner of the premises, testified that there has been a beer license there during the past six years but the bowling alley did not operate from May until September each year.

Only With Parents

Straw also said that teen-agers were permitted to come there and bowl only when accompanied by their parents. The board members state that they do not believe that bowling by teen-agers, accompanied by parents or otherwise, constitutes loafing or loitering within the true meaning and intent of the liquor law.

"We think bowling is a genuine recreational sport, commonly participated in by large numbers of persons and their families and it is not to be construed as utter idleness," the opinion said. "The witnesses produced by Rev. Raymond M. Crowe consisted of himself, Miss Judith Johnson, a 20-year-old student; George E. Broadwater, a Celanese worker, and Harvey Dean.

"None of these people had ever been in this bowling alley and had no complaints to make except their fears that teen-agers would somehow come in contact with the sale of beer.

"The evidence shows that the section of the bowling alley where beer is sold can be partitioned from the alleys so that the patrons will not come in contact with the beer at all unless they wish to purchase it for their own use. Of course, under the law, no teen-ager can purchase any beer or be given any beer on the licensed premises by the licensee or any other person."

Building Permits Approved By Appeals Board

Two local residents were granted permission to build additions to their present properties during a meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals held last night at City Hall.

Both building permits taken before the appeals board were unanimously approved. George Garlitz, 613 Memorial Avenue, had made application to build an addition to his property which will measure 10 feet by 16 feet and will be located on the side of his present dwelling.

The addition will have a concrete block foundation, brick walls, asphalt shingle roof and will be situated in a Residential "B" Zoning District. Garlitz is owner of the property.

In the other appeal case, Charles H. Whetsell, 609 Lincoln Street, applied to build a garage in the rear of a lot at the same address. The one-story structure will measure 24 feet by 15 feet and will have a concrete foundation and walls.

The garage will have a built-up roof, is situated in a Residential "B" Zoning District and is owned by Whetsell. Present at the meeting were Charles P. Roeder, chairman, James C. Gardner, secretary, William B. Orndorff, member of the board, and Earl E. Manges, attorney for the group.
